LAST OF THE RAGTOPS Cadillac Convertible Is Hot Item

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — A Cadillac dealership outside Chicago says it's willing to pay $2,000 above factory cost to get its hands on a 1976 Eldorado convertible. An auto dealer north of Miami says the car is a better investment than the stock market.

The Cadillac convertible goes out of production within a couple months — marking the end of the American soft top — and the last minute scramble is already underway by dealers and customers looking for a piece of history.

"I've never seen anything like this since the end of World War II when dealers were offering anything to get a car," says a spokesman at General Motors' posh Cadillac Division.

"We're no longer taking any more orders, and I hear dealers are returning deposits to customers," says the spokesman, adding that he is driving a 1976 Eldorado convertible this year.

Cadillac, the last of the U.S. auto makers to offer a rag-top, announced last fall that it would build only 14,000 convertibles during the model year, which normally ends in the summer.

But the demand has been so great — sales are running better than double the 1975 pace — that the division expects the last one to roll off the assembly line by late March or early April. Some 3,000 were built through January.

The convertible carries a list price of $11,000, but usually sells for between $12,000 and $13,000 when options are added.

Industry analysts estimate the price includes about a $2,800 profit for the dealer.

Cadillac limited production to 14,000 because that's the total number of convertible tops the company could get. "The last soft-top maker has gone out of business and destroyed the tooling," the Cadillac spokesman explained. "If we could get more tops, we'd build more cars."

Consumer demand for the American convertible, once the fashion rage among car buyers, eroded during the past decade. Industry officials say it was doomed by air conditioning, rising damage and theft, air and noise pollution and the discomfort of high-speed freeway driving with the top down.

Several Cadillac dealers, besieged by requests for one of the last convertibles, say they're willing to pay other dealers a $1,000 to $2,000 bonus to get one.

"We can sell every one we can get," says Warren Shafer, sales manager at Village Cadillac in the Chicago suburb of Barrington Hills. "We're offering to pay other dealers $2,000 over cost for one. We can't order any more from the factory."

Jan Ross, part owner of Gold Coast Auto Leasing outside Miami, adds: "We're getting people from all over the East Coast who either owned a Cadillac convertible in the past or always wanted one but never did it. They know this is the last crack."

Ross, who is offering to pay $1,500 over factory cost for one, says the dealer bidding war has just begun. "The car should be worth $15,000 by next year, and who knows after that. It's a better investment than the stock market, jewelry and anything else I can think of at the present time."

"I know a dealer in St. Louis who has put a fleet of 10 together. Now he's playing a waiting game," adds Ross.

Frank Corrente, a Cadillac dealer in Hollywood, Calif., says he's sold 30 new-model convertibles already and is offering $1,750 over dealer cost for any other he can get hold of.

"The day they stop building it, the (retail) price will go up to $15,000, just like that," says Corrente, a convertible buff who has driven soft tops for the past 30 years.

"Right now, I'm selling them at list," he adds, "but they're sure to be a collector's item and who knows what we'll be able to get. I'm willing to pay list for one myself later on."

Massive Tremor Strikes At Guatemala City

By ALFONSO ANZUETO
GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — A massive earthquake smashed Guatemala City and rolled through two other Central American countries and Mexico early today. Unconfirmed reports placed the number of dead in Guatemala City as high as 300.

A report from Guatemalan diplomatic officials in Colombia cited the figure of 300 dead. However, the Guatemalan ambassador in Mexico City said he had no such official report. Unconfirmed radio reports had earlier said 30 persons were killed and at least 500 injured.

There were no confirmed reports of deaths from Guatemala City although damage was very heavy.

Radio station KPRC in Houston, Tex., carried a report from the duty officer at the U.S. Embassy in Belize City in former British Honduras that 300 persons were estimated dead and part of Guatemala City was severely damaged. The U.S. diplomat, David C. Pierce, said the tourist area of Guatemala City "did not appear to be severely damaged."

He said shocks were felt throughout Honduras and were "quite noticeable" in Belize but there was no damage.

Hours after the earthquake hit, aftershocks still rolled through this city of 1.5 million. Inhabitants: Walls of buildings damaged by the first major shock — registered at 7.5 on the Richter scale — were tumbled by the aftershocks.

A volcano south of Guatemala City was spouting smoke when dawn broke.

Rescue workers were hampered because debris blocked many streets. There was no electricity or drinking water and telephone lines were down.

The quake was felt in Mexico City, about 1,100 miles to the northwest, but caused no damage there. It also was felt southeast from Guatemala into Honduras and El Salvador.

Many American tourists were lodged in Guatemala City's hotels at the height of this Central American capital's tourist season. Some of the hotels were damaged, but it could not be determined immediately if any foreign tourists were injured.

The colonial aqueduct, built when the Guatemalan capital was moved to this location 200 years ago, was badly damaged. Some sections near the airport were knocked down.

Four Gunmen, Child Hostage Are Killed

PARIS (AP) — Four gunmen and one of the 30 French children they were holding hostage in the northeast African territory of Afars and Issas were shot dead today and the rest of the children released unharmed, territorial Premier All Aref told a French radio station.

Aref made the statement to Radio Luxembourg, a commercial station with editorial offices in Paris.

The French Ministry of Overseas Departments and Territories could not immediately confirm the report.

The radio report said the child hostage killed was a girl. The 31 children, aged between 6 and 12 and all of French military families, were hijacked Tuesday morning by gunmen demanding immediate independence from France for the territory at the entrance to the Red Sea.

There was no immediate indication who began the shooting.

The gunmen were reported to be members of the Front for the Liberation of the Somali Coast, a band with close ties to the radical government in neighboring Somalia. The Front kidnapped the French ambassador to Somalia last March and held him for six days, freeing him after the French government released two Djibouti activists jailed in France and paid a ransom of $100,000 in gold.

The French government said the four men demanded cancellation of a referendum scheduled by the local pro-Ethiopian government, immediate and unconditional release of all political prisoners and of two persons jailed two weeks ago for killing a gendarme.

The men boarded the bus Tuesday morning as it stopped to collect children of French military personnel to take them to school at the French air base.

The children were between the ages of 6 and 12, but French officials said they remained calm. Food and water was supplied to them as the temperature climbed into the 90s during the day. Then, as night fell, more food and blankets were put aboard the bus.

There was speculation that the attack was in retaliation for a police raid Monday on a shantytown outside Djibouti. The shanties were destroyed, and illegal immigrants were expelled to Somalia.

BEATEN, LEFT TO FREEZE Victim May Lose Limbs

DETROIT (AP) — A frail 44-year-old Detroit man recovering from heart surgery, who was beaten and left lying outside in sub-zero weather, may lose his arms, legs and parts of his face because of frostbite, hospital officials say.

Officials at St. John Hospital said Kenneth Sigurdson was in critical condition Tuesday and may have to have his arms, legs, ears and nose amputated due to prolonged exposure to extreme cold.

Police said Sigurdson lay inconspicuous in the Denby High School parking lot from Sunday night until 7 a.m. Monday, when police found him. Temperatures during the period fell to 11 degrees below zero.

"He is being watched constantly," said a hospital spokesman. "He faces the possibility of having his nose, ears, arms and legs amputated because of the severity of the frostbite."

Sigurdson had been recovering from major surgery last year that caused him to be hospitalized for six months. He also has very low blood pressure.

Relatives said he told them he drove a friend to the high school and then was attacked by two men who took his wallet, car keys and $80.

However, police said, Sigurdson went to the high school in the company of two men after they had been at Mege's Bar near the rooming house where he lived. Officers said the men then attacked Sigurdson. They were being sought.

"We would call it a major earthquake," said a spokesman at Golden. "A magnitude of 8 would be a great earthquake."

Guatemala City appeared to be the only major city badly hurt. Many streets in this city of 1.5 million were blocked with debris from fallen buildings when the quake hit at 3:04 a.m.

$10,000 Ends Memory Lapse

COLOMA — Fred Kavanagh Jr. of Coloma, temporarily forgot he had purchased an instant lottery ticket...but when he remembered, he was $10,000 richer.

Kavanagh, 45, of 100 Strand street, purchased the winning ticket at Bad's drug store, Coloma, last Thursday afternoon, but then put the ticket in his pocket and forgot about it until he got home minutes later.

He said when he scratched off the three boxes marked $10,000, he woke up his wife, Barbara, to tell her. Kavanagh is a 21-year employee of Clark Equipment company, Benton township. He and his wife have two children, a son Patrick, a senior at Coloma high school, and a married daughter, Mrs. Stephanie Butzbaugh of St. Joseph.

Kavanagh said the winning ticket was the first ticket he had purchased since the start of the new instant lottery game several weeks ago. In the first instant lottery game held by the state, Kavanagh said he had only one $5 and one $2 winner. He said he normally doesn't purchase many lottery tickets, and hasn't purchased one since the big winner.

Kavanagh said so many people both in Coloma and at work wanted to know about his winning ticket, that as a result, "I just wouldn't want to go through that experience again."

He said he plans on using his winnings to pay off some bills, especially a car the family purchased six months ago, and probably will bank the remainder.

Kavanagh said, "One thing for sure, I'll pay my federal tax on my winnings...I had better, my father, Fred Kavanagh Sr., was an employee of the Internal Revenue service for 30 years, and he'll make sure I do."

Nursing Home Fire Kills Five

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — A fire erupted at a nursing home today, and the Red Cross said five persons were killed and others were injured. Authorities said the fire broke out at about 7 a.m. at the Cernak House, Inc., in this western suburb of Chicago. Witnesses said smoke billowed from the nine-story building as firemen struggled to remove the residents.

It was the second serious nursing home fire in the Chicago area in less than a week. On Friday, a fire on Chicago's North Side claimed 15 lives at the Wincrest Nursing & Rest Home.

YOU CAN BET ON IT

Say Jackie Will Wed Sinatra

LONDON (AP) — Ladbrokes, the big British gambling chain, is offering odds of 8 to 1 that Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and Frank Sinatra will marry in 1977. "Mrs. Onassis is very likely to remarry," a spokesman for Ladbrokes said Tuesday. "She moves in a rather small circle and would be likely to marry a man with money. Frank Sinatra fits the bill." He said he did not know if any of the firm's betting stations had received any bets on the supposition. "You realize it is the silly season at the moment, with horse racing cut right back with the weather, and anything we can do to give punters (bettors) a flutter is just what we do," he said. "We have all kinds of odd bets — people bet us they will or won't have twins, that life will be found in space, and so on."

Ebullient Ambassador Pat Calls It Quits

To the undisputed, unmitigated relief of the State Department's career staff people and mayhap to Dr. Henry Kissinger's as well, Daniel Patrick Moynihan turned in his pink slip as our ambassador to the United Nations on Monday.

The dockworker turned professor said he had to leave the world of diplomacy to retain his teaching tenure at Harvard University.

Some of his friends and a larger ring of outsiders claim the real reason is to enter New York's Democratic Senatorial primary for the purpose of upending the incumbent, James Buckley, a super conservative Republican.

Other admirers scout that guess. They say Pat's exuberance is an on-off thing and his disregard for timetables would have campaign managers in stitches. Bela Abzug, the abrasive feminist and Congresswoman, has already thrown her bonnet into the ring, as has Ramsey Clark, a former U.S. Attorney General. Clark may be a political lightweight, but Bela is redoubtable beyond compare.

Besides, on several occasions Pat, in intimating his resignation, has stated he would not get into the race; going so far as to say his popularity at home arising from his flamboyant tactics at the UN would be putting public service to a dishonorable end.

Regardless of State Department misgivings, the American public took Pat to its heart as a welcome exception to the double talk characterizing international diplomacy.

This speaking away from the audience for the purpose of reaching a few select ears probably is a necessary tool in trade, just as a plumber needs wrenches and pipe threaders or a carpenter must keep a hammer, saw and screwdriver handy.

Even so Pat endeared himself to the laity as a guy who says what he means and means what he says.

He served four presidents, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Ford. JFK and LBJ called upon him for specific trouble shooting, particularly in the tricky Southeastern Asian waters.

His appointment by Nixon as ambassador to India was his first full time job, one from which he subsequently requested Ford to be relieved.

Moynihan did his best to check his quick tongue, but finally blurted out in official form what many in and outside of the U.S. officialdom sputtered in varying degree about Madame Indira Gandhi's conception of international cooperation. As she views it, it means foreign assistance with no strings but her own attached.

When Pat publicly declared it was time to close off that one-way street, he realized his continued presence at New Delhi would be a liability.

Upon returning to the states, he published a magazine criticizing the American diplomatic tendency to take lying down the jibes and criticism heaped by many foreign countries upon the U.S. We should talk back, Pat argued, and underline the contradictions and hypocrisy in those verbal assaults.

The article appealed to Ford as the way for the U.S. to begin conducting itself at the UN.

He appointed Pat for the plainly stated purpose to speak up when the occasion demanded it.

Moynihan took to the assignment with more a missionary's zeal. It was a joyful zest.

He belabored the Arab bloc's attacks upon Israel as racist-inspired.

Every time the Soviet delegation tried to steal a base, Pat was quick to throw the tagging pitch.

He enraged the African block by alluding to the president of some backwater country noted for his extreme measures at home as a black-skinned Hitler.

Just last week he described the UN's General Assembly as "a theater of the absurd."

This frankness chilled conventional diplomats. The British emissary to the UN characterized Pat as a Wyatt Earp looking for a shootout rather than seeking effective diplomatic achievement.

Some in our striped-pants set maintain Pat's fondness for the rough and ready exchange of labor-management disputes, a throwback to his days on the docks, is ill suited to score brownie points at the summit.

Maybe so, maybe not. We could use a few more Pats here and there to substitute frankness for apologies.

Sensitivity, like any virtue, can be carried to excess.

Ford's Inheritance Tax Proposal Is Sound One

One of the statements in the President's State of the Union address which drew applause from both sides of the aisle was the promise to do something about inheritance taxes on family farms. To the non-farmer that may have seemed a strange inclusion.

But the farmer operating his own farm knows how inheritance taxes can destroy that enterprise. It happens frequently that a widow must sell her farm to pay inheritance fees. How to correct this condition without establishing a new tax haven for investors is the problem.

Joining several proposals in the congressional hopper, the Ford administration has produced its own version. There are basic differences in the approaches taken by the congressional and administration bills.

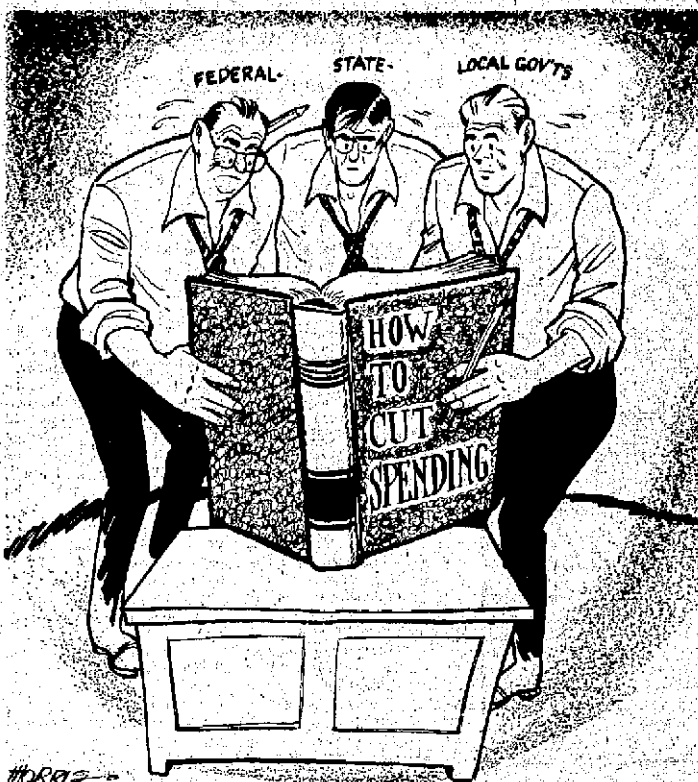

Fundamentally, the congressional bills would attempt to avoid the forced sale of family farms by raising the exemption from its present $60,000 to twice or three times that amount. The Ford proposal is more complex. It would delay tax payments for five years, with no interest accruing, and over the next 20 years the tax would be paid in installments. The Ford plan also would include all family businesses, not only farms.

Either approach would help survivors perpetuate a family enterprise. The Ford plan would cover more businesses and it would reduce the burden in a way which would minimize the attraction for absentee investors.

Inheritance taxes were conceived to break up big concentrations of wealth. Ironically, most economic historians now agree that such levies actually have concentrated wealth in the U.S. A few big corporations have replaced many rich families. The corporations take over family businesses because heirs can't afford to pay the inheritance taxes in cash. Sell-outs to corporations are an answer to the heirs' shortage of cash.

Where thousands of communities once had well-heeled local families with strong hometown ties, those same communities now lag under the control of what is often a disinterested multi-national corporation.

Right about now you are wondering what I have on my mind. Let's be prepared and plan in case of some dreadful fate. Rather it be sickness or accident. How can we do that? When the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits your community, get out and give one pint of blood. It doesn't hurt and it takes a very short time. The feeling can be very rewarding. If you are unable to give this time, because of sickness, encourage the young people around you to get out and give. Seventeen-year-olds can give blood with parents consent.

Some of you are going to be reading this and possibly laugh or say "Oh well if I need blood I'll buy it," let me tell you something, you can have all the money in the world, but if the blood isn't there to buy, what then. Only you and I can keep the blood bank in operation.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Lawrence, Feb. 16, 1976, from 1-7 p.m., at the fire station.

BEING POOR ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE

Editor,
This is the time of year for State of the Union and Budget messages, full of predictions of good and bad. In every case there seems need for more money to carry out the plans and the squabbling starts over whose feathers will be plucked.
An oft-recurring term is "ability to pay", mainly in connection with the poor. In the past no one wanted to be poor, but that seems to be changing now. Being poor used to mean doing without: without food, heat, shelter, health, entertainment, education, etc. And most would work hard to avoid being poor.

But now being poor isn't so bad, for besides the traditional Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness, the government attempts to provide all the above as "essentials". The poor seem to get food stamps, welfare, low-income housing, medicare, scholarships and even the poorest shack boasts a TV antenna. . . . Why work and pay taxes?

Lately it dawned on me that the "ability to pay" idea never was meant to encourage the poor to stay poor by relieving them of ALL taxes, but simply not to assess them as much as their more industrious neighbors.

At present I see three main taxing schemes in use: Income, Sales and Property tax. The first two seem fair to me and easily adapted to "ability to pay". A simple, straight percentage tax would raise amounts from EACH in proportion to income and outgo.

The third I feel as fundamentally unfair, for it taxes again what had been earned in the past and set aside for a rainy day, old age, or for job-creating investment. It penalizes the virtue of thrift and self-sufficiency. It discourages improvements and additions to one's assets. Therefore I feel it should be abolished altogether.

To sum it up: I feel our legislators at State and Federal levels should seriously consider:

1. If the constituents really WANT the expanded expenditures planned.
2. That ALL constituents should pay their share of the tax burden on a simple no-deduction, no-exemption, straight percentage basis.

3. That property taxes be replaced by local income taxes, again without deductions or exemptions, with the straight percentage approved by the electors each year as needed.

4. That specific purpose taxes be levied on the beneficiaries in the area affected.

Our legislators, acting on our behalf, can STILL reverse the trend of becoming a nation of only government workers and welfare recipients — with the working people driven to become the one or the other. I'll gladly pay my share, but none of us wants to pay it all!

When Physicians Were Friends

COLEBROOK, N.H. — (NEA)

— Some years ago a farmer phoned Herbert Gifford, M.D., to complain about an injured horse. "It's got a big cut over the eye, Doc, and I can't get no veterinarian way out here — will you come?" No problem. For more than 30 years in the practice of family medicine, Doc Gifford has been making both house and stable calls over some 1,200 square miles of Canadian country; a horse, he explains, is part of the family up here.

Called Mr. Bones by the children to whom he shows his closest skeleton, and Mr. Berlio by the adults who must suffer his gags, Gifford is a wonderful remnant from an American past when physicians were more than healers; they were friends.

One has to be good natured, perhaps, to survive family practice in an area where as many as 10,000 people are served by fewer than a half dozen physicians. Until recently, the region did not even have a hospital, and as Gifford says "you can't expect people just to get sick in your office."

His loyalty to his patients is returned in kind. Locals who talk of the times Gifford has cut their bills when things were hard, or recall his gentle advice in hours of social stress, say they will wait for the Doc for days rather than go immediately to another physician.

"When I was young," says the Doc, "I noticed there were two kinds of medical people: those who were strictly professional, polite but not intimate, and those who weren't. I decided to be one of those who weren't. I just can't put a curtain between myself and my patients; these are not just bodies, they are my friends."

He says the intimacy can be risky. Familiarity can breed a lack of respect, and all that. Then, too, there is the grief of personal affection. "I remember a young girl named Jo who had a rheumatic heart. She asked me one day if I'd tell her the truth about her condition. I tried to avoid it but she pressed me. Finally, I told her as gently as possible that she wouldn't see another Christmas. God, I'll never forget that child."

Nor will Gifford forget many of the patients lost over the years to the absence of proper medical facilities. Because of this he has spearheaded drives to erect a regional hospital and create a well-equipped, well-staffed family services medical center. The hospital has been built (30 beds) but the vital family services center has been ditched.

Still, he would have it no other way than rural medicine. He is disgusted everytime he tries to take a holiday and finds no urban physician will visit here for relief, disgusted because the city specialists do not know what they're missing. Wonderful place, this, says Doc Gifford, exceptional people. Heartbreak, of course, and raw edges, but for people who like people there is pure gold here.

Carter Has Become Target

NASHUA, N.H. (KPS) — Old political saying: "The higher the monkey in the tree, the easier he is to shoot at."

It is less than one month now before the 1976 presidential primary, and the political arrows are being aimed at former Governor Jimmy Carter, who seems at the moment to be the highest Democratic monkey in this snowy state.

Carter's victory in the Iowa precinct caucuses has suddenly given him psychological momentum and an increased level of name recognition, insofar as such intangibles can be measured in a Democratic contest that has yet to develop sharp issues or much sense of excitement.

With this new visibility and attention has come new criticism. "It is getting dirty," protests a Carter adviser. "Nonsense. People are merely examining his record for the first time," his opponents reply.

A series of recent news stories have questioned Carter's claims to having as governor reduced the Georgia state bureaucracy and cut budget costs. The stories contend the reforms Carter has claimed were somewhat illusory and that he could not do for his state what he now promises to do for the nation.

Carter's advisers suspect that Rep. Morris Udall, believed by many to be second monkey, is behind the new questioning of his record. Udall's advisers insist they are not involved and feel such tactics are too negative and divisive. There is some evidence to suggest that former Gov. Terry Sanford, who campaigned here until he recently withdrew, may have produced the leaflets.

In any event, Carter's new front-runner status means he cannot escape becoming an issue himself. Both Udall and Sen. Birch Bayh, the apparent leading contender for the third monkey, stress their own long, liberal congressional records as far more competent qualifications for the White House than a brief stint as a southern governor.

The danger to Carter in this is that, traditionally, the name of the game in this state is to beat the favorite. It was here that Estes Kefauver upset Harry Truman in 1952; that a write-in campaign for Henry Cabot Lodge beat the 1964 rivals Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller; that Eugene McCarthy did so well against President Lyndon Johnson that he was launched as a serious candidate; and that George McGovern finally got his underdog campaign on the road to the nomination in 1972.

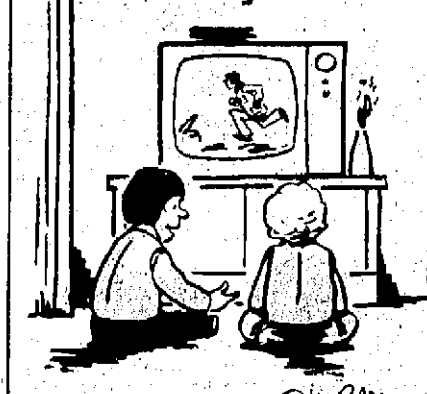

But Carter has convinced his rivals that he is a formidable opponent — able, hardworking, and well organized. And organization may be the key.

Last Sunday evening, Bayh rode through the silent, frozen streets here in Nashua. It was nearly 8 p.m. and he was headed wearily for his last speech of a long day, munching hastily on fried chicken in a box from a fast-food shop as he went.

"We are passing Carter headquarters on your right," an aide observed. Without looking up, Bayh asked quietly, "Anyone still there?" "Quite a few," the aide replied. Bayh's sigh was barely audible.

Ebullient Ambassador Pat Calls It Quits

To the undisguised, unmitigated relief of the State Department's career staff people and mayhap to Dr. Henry Kissinger's as well, Daniel Patrick Moynihan turned in his pink slip as our ambassador to the United Nations on Monday.

The dockworker turned professor said he had to leave the world of diplomacy to retain his teaching tenure at Harvard University.

Some of his friends and a larger ring of outsiders claim the real reason is to enter New York's Democratic Senatorial primary for the purpose of upending the incumbent, James Buckley, a super conservative Republican.

Other admirers scout that guess. They say Pat's exuberance is an on-off thing and his disregard for timetables would have campaign managers in stitches. Bela Abzug, the abrasive feminist and Congresswoman, has already thrown her bonnet into the ring, as has Ramsey Clark, a former U.S. Attorney General. Clark may be a political lightweight, but Bela is redoubtable beyond compare.

Besides, on several occasions Pat, in intimating his resignation, has stated he would not get into the race, going so far as to say his popularity at home arising from his flamboyant tactics at the UN would be putting public service to a dishonorable end.

Regardless of State Department misgivings, the American public took Pat to its heart as a welcome exception to the double talk characterizing international diplomacy.

This speaking away from the audience for the purpose of reaching a few select ears probably is a necessary tool in trade, just as a plumber needs wrenches and pipe threaders or a carpenter must keep a hammer, saw and screwdriver handy.

Even so Pat endeared himself to the laity as a guy who says what he means and means what he says.

He served four presidents, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Ford. JFK and LBJ called upon him for specific trouble shooting, particularly in the tricky Southeastern Asian waters.

His appointment by Nixon as ambassador to India was his first full time job, one from which he subsequently requested Ford to be relieved.

Moynihan did his best to check his quick tongue, but finally blurted out in official form what many in and outside of the U.S. officialdom sputtered in varying degree about Madame Indira Gandhi's conception of international cooperation. As she views it, it means foreign assistance with no strings but her own attached.

When Pat publicly declared it was time to close off that one-way street, he realized his continued presence at New Delhi would be a liability.

Upon returning to the states, he published a magazine criticizing the American diplomatic tendency to take lying down the jibes and criticism heaped by many foreign countries upon the U.S. We should talk back, Pat argued, and underline the contradictions and hypocrisy in those verbal assaults.

The article appealed to Ford as the way for the U.S. to begin conducting itself at the UN.

Birch Bayh, the apparent leading contender for the third monkey, stress their own long, liberal congressional records as far more competent qualifications for the White House than a brief stint as a southern governor.

The danger to Carter in this is that, traditionally, the name of the game in this state is to beat the favorite. It was here that Estes Kefauver upset Harry Truman in 1952; that a write-in campaign for Henry Cabot Lodge beat the 1964 rivals Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller; that Eugene McCarthy did so well against President Lyndon Johnson that he was launched as a serious candidate; and that George McGovern finally got his underdog campaign on the road to the nomination in 1972.

But Carter has convinced his rivals that he is a formidable opponent — able, hardworking and well organized. And organization may be the key.

Last Sunday evening, Bayh rode through the silent, frozen streets here in Nashua. It was nearly 8 p.m. and he was headed wearily for his last speech of a long day, munching hastily on fried chicken in a box from a fast-food shop as he went.

"We are passing Carter headquarters on your right," an aide observed. Without looking up, Bayh asked quietly, "Anyone still there?" "Quite a few," the aide replied. Bayh's sigh was barely audible.

BENTON TRUSTEES VOTE

Charges Against Postelli Rejected

The Benton township board of trustees last night formally rejected all charges brought against Treasurer Joseph Postelli last month by four past and present township employees.

The vote was unanimous and was taken after hearing a report by the trustees' executive committee. Only Trustee Chester Jolley Jr. was absent.

The executive committee, normally consists of Supervisor Martin Lane, Clerk Catheryn Sirk and the treasurer, Trustee Margaret Cribbal was appointed to replace Postelli because he was the accused.

The report said all the complaints essentially went to "the question of whether the township treasurer, in his capacity of superintendent of parks, has been guilty of discrimination in hiring practices — particularly with the respect to the hiring or non-hiring of blacks."

The report noted that many of the complaints or grievances were "in the form of questions, and allege discrimination by innuendo and not by a direct complaint or a direct charge of discrimination."

Charges against Postelli were detailed by this newspaper at the time they were made, on Jan. 8. They were made by Don Muthhead, now employed by the township parks department; Robert Phelan, a former employee now residing in St. Joseph township; Charles B. Jones, an employee under the CETA program; and Eugene Smith, another Comprehensive Employment Training Act employee who said he was laid off.

Muthhead and Phelan are white. Jones and Smith are black.

The executive committee report says: "This committee is satisfied that the township treasurer has neither willingly made nor does he countenance derogatory and racial remarks against blacks."

This committee finds that the parks department presently employs but nine individuals, six of whom are black, and all but one of whom were employed under the CETA program; and that the township treasurer has hired no blacks in the parks department under the CETA program since taking over as superintendent of parks in April, 1973, for the reason quite simply that during that nine month period there have been but two hirings under the CETA program — hirings to positions which were filled solely on the basis of the particular applicants' apparent qualifications and not at all on the basis of race.

This committee further finds that during the summer of 1975, the peak season for the parks department, the township treasurer in fact employed the services of six individuals under the so-called NYC (Neighborhood Youth Corps) program, five of whom happened to be black and one of whom happened to be white.

Also rejected in the report were allegations that Postelli kept blacks working outside in the winter while employing whites inside to remodel offices. "The men employed on the remodeling job were so employed solely on the basis of volunteering some knowledge of basic carpentry and not on the basis of race," the report said. Charges involving discrimination in job advancements also were rejected by the committee, along with charges that Postelli allegedly threw away job applications on the basis of "names sounding like they were black," and an allegation that Postelli hired a relative of his under the federally funded NYC program.

Those who brought the charges last night called the report and board action a "coverup." They asked if anyone except Postelli was interviewed by the executive committee. The answer was "no," because when the charges were received in writing, they were submitted unsigned.

The board in general business set a public hearing on work planned for the Community Development program for Tuesday, Feb. 17, after the regular board meeting.

The board also set a public hearing for March 2 on a request that Certified Metal Finishing, Inc., 1480 East Empire avenue, be made an industrial development district for tax relief. The three-year-old firm plans to build a storage building. It was reported.

The board approved continuing lots at 250 Burton for Lewis L. McCreaven and 1181 Napier avenue for Community Finance. Both were recommended earlier by the township planning commission.

Accused Abductor In Court

A Grand Rapids man demanded examination Tuesday in Berrien Fifth District court on a charge of abducting another Grand Rapids man at knifepoint.

Jailed under $100,000 bond was James E. Riley, 32, who is charged with the Monday abduction of Wilfred Peterson, 58.

Peterson told police he was abducted from his home in Grand Rapids and forced to drive his own car to a service station at Bridgman, where he escaped after the pair had stopped to purchase gasoline.

About 30 minutes later Riley turned himself in to police, according to state police reports.

ADC Dad's 'Lie' Brings 90 Days

A man brought into Berrien Circuit court this week for failing behind in his child support payments told the judge he had a full-time job.

But when Judge William S. White learned the dad had been hired for only one day, he sentenced him to 90 days in jail, noting: "You lied to the court."

Edward Patrick, special investigator for the Berrien Friend of the Court's office, reported.

White held Dennis J. Berry, of Coloma, in contempt of court and sentenced him to 90 days in jail. Berry was also placed on two years probation for $1,300 arrears for one child on ADC.

and was ordered to pay $85 monthly support and $20 per month towards the arrearage.

Berry told the judge he had a full-time, seven-days-a-week job, but Patrick checked with the employer, Mike Young, Enterprise in Benton Harbor, and learned Berry had been hired for only one day of work.

White also found Robert Bahus, of Sister Lakes, in contempt of court for $583 arrears for one child on ADC, and told him to find employment in 60 days or Bahus would spend 60 days in jail.

Bahus was additionally ordered to pay $12 weekly child support and $5 each week on the arrearage.

Asks Cut-Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee is recommending a cut-off of all American military aid to any country that harbors terrorists.

The House International Relations Committee voted the one-year cut-off Tuesday, by lacking an amendment to a $3.4-billion U.S. military aid authorization bill. The vote was 14 to 4.

Shoreham 'Compromises' On Horses

The Shoreham village council last night voted to sell a gift parcel of land next to Shoreham Downs park, and also approved a park board recommendation to build a horse riding ring in the park. The two decisions were regarded as a compromise to a controversy that has simmered in the village since last October.

Members of Upton Downs 4-H club had asked the village council if they could develop a horse ring on 1.1 acres immediately south of four-acre Shoreham Downs. The 1.1 acres were given to the village by a Dearborn Heights, Mich., couple.

The ring request was turned over to the park board for a recommendation. At the same time the village board received an offer from Donald M. Dinius to buy the 1.1 acres to keep the horses out. Dinius lives at 3009 Wissing lane, next to the 1.1 acres.

Dinius said last night he had no objection to a horse riding ring in the park. He said he lives far enough away that a riding ring would not bother him.

The park board recommended that proceeds from the land sale could be for further park development. The board estimated cost of the horse ring at $800 to $1,000.

The recommendations were presented by Dr. William Rahn, park board chairman. He said the village has enough park property and did not need more land.

Then the Shoreham board voted 4 to 3 to sell the 1.1 acres of land to Dinius. Sale price was to be mutually agreed or the average of three appraisals, village president, John Helsley said. Voting against the property sale were Timothy Taylor, newly sworn-in councilman, Lynn Rayle and Harry Jueger. They argued the village may need the additional property later.

Then the board voted 5 to 1 to approve other recommendations made by the park board. The recommendations included: pave the drive leading to the park, install benches by the tennis courts and spend $500 for ice skating rink maintenance for the rest of the winter.

The 4-H group was instructed to nominate three adults, one who would serve on the park board, and oversee the riding ring operation.

The park board recommendations also included regulations that would prohibit bringing in horses in trailers.

Mrs. Dean Asselin, 2229 South Lake Shore drive, urged the council to hire a college student to maintain and supervise the

Ex-Jail Guards Fined $110 Each

Two former Berrien county jail guards were fined $110 each and placed on six months probation Tuesday in Fifth District court for confining male and female prisoners in the same cellblock area at the jail.

Pleading guilty to the offense were Hildred Leon Anderson, 25, of 1946 Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, and William Curry, 29, of 2704 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph.

The two were fired earlier Tuesday by Berrien Sheriff Forrest "Nick" Jewell for the same offense.

They were sentenced by District Judge Ronald J. Taylor, who could have given them a maximum sentence of 90 days in jail and $200 fine for the misdemeanor.

Jewell said Tuesday morning an investigation indicated that Anderson and Curry on four occasions had permitted male trustees to enter female cellblocks and that there were allegations the trustees had sexual relations with some of the women.

There was no indication that the guards had engaged in any sexual misconduct or had been paid to permit the visits, Jewell said.

Curry had been a guard at the jail for almost a year while Anderson was hired about three months ago. They were ordered by Taylor to find new employment.

Clara O. Globensky Dies In St. Joseph

Mrs. Clara O. Globensky, 70, wife and mother of three prominent professional men in the Twin Cities, died at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday in Shoreham Nursing home, St. Joseph. She and her husband, Dr. L.M. Globensky, retired oral surgeon, made their home at 1421 Colfax avenue, Benton Harbor. Their two sons, John and Richard are practicing attorneys in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Globensky was born March 19, 1896, in Minneapolis, Minn.

Mrs. Globensky was a member of the Albar Society of St. John's Catholic church; Aquarian Historical Society; Indian Hills Garden Club; Monday Musical and was one of the founders of the Cotillion.

Surviving besides her husband and two sons, are a sister, Mrs. Marie Robinson, St. Joseph and a brother, Anthony E. O'Brien, San Francisco, Calif.

OWL RECOVERING, BUT... This long-eared owl, wounded by shotgun pellets early this month, is recovering at Sarett Nature center, Benton Center road, Benton township, but may never be able to fly or get its own food again, according to Dave Heinick, center naturalist. Owl lost half its right wing as result of wounds. Bird was brought to center around Jan. 11, by a local farmer. Heinick said shooting occurred north of Coloma. He said it's against law to shoot owls or hawks. Owl is 14 inches tall and weighs about 1½ pounds, he said.

American Music On Parade

'Good Times' Theme

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Lighthearted music for a midwinter's day emphasized Monday Musical club's 1975-76 theme at its Feb. 2 meeting at First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph.

Monday's theme in keeping with the club's Bicentennial programs this year, was "Good Times With American Music."

Preceding the musical program, Betsy Upton's reading, "Pursuit of Happiness," was both inspiring and thought-provoking.

Jazz, Dixieland, and the blues were highlighted in the performance of the St. Joseph high school stage band under direction of Robert Brown.

The band enthusiastically and capably performed "Two O'clock Jump," reminiscent of Harry James, Count Basie, and Benny Goodman; a tribute to Glenn Miller, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," Dixieland; "Straight Ahead," Basie style; a tribute to Duke Ellington, and "Good Night Blues," a composition of the director.

A charming barbershop quartet, including Margaret Hill, Sandra Tyrrell, Sue Fitch, and Mary Caple, was delightful singing American favorites, "Let's Harmonize," "Lazy River," "Wishing Ring," "Jezebel," and "Mockin' Bird Hill."

Four talented pianists concluded the program performing at two pianos.

Joan Stafford and Carolyn Nickel performed "The Banjo" by Gottschalk followed by Georgianna Conrad and Barbara Slicker playing "Minstrel" by Haubiel. The four combined for a duodubet on American folk tunes, "The Fanny Blue Devil's Breakdown."

The entire program was dedicated to the Parade of American Music sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

First editions of American popular sheet music from the collection of Karl Schlabach was on display as well as a coverlet woven by Daniel Burg in New Portage, Ohio, (now Akron) in 180. Burg was an uncle of Schlabach's grandmother.

Also on display were two McGuffey readers dated 1846 and 1870 which belonged to Schlabach's family.

The sheet music collection came from many sources.

The Civil War portion was used by Miss Lillian Schlabach of Allentown, Pa.; a large part of the collection came from the W.A. Gardner estate of Dowagiac, and another portion came from Dr. H.C. Blohm and Warren Colby, who both played in theaters and for dances.

Schlabach says some of the choice pieces came from Dr. Harold Geerdies, head of the music department of Calvin college, Grand Rapids. The remainder was the property of the Schlabach family in Wadsworth, Ohio.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH WEEK

Can Reduce Tooth Decay

It is possible to reduce tooth decay, according to the American Dental Association.

The association gives advice on the proper care of teeth in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 1-7.

The association suggests that parents begin cleaning their children's teeth as soon as the first incisors (front teeth) have come in. A parent can remove the plaque from the teeth by using a cotton swab or a piece of gauze wrapped around the finger. Plaque is the colorless film of bacterial plaque that forms constantly on everyone's teeth.

Preschool children can be taught to brush effectively, but parental participation and supervision are necessary for several years, according to the association. Children should clean their teeth after each meal and before going to bed.

According to the ADA, X-ray examinations of children's teeth are important and that dentists can only give children the best possible cure by making X-ray examinations of the teeth and supporting structures when they feel such examinations are necessary.

The association also recommends the use of fluoride. In communities where the public water supply does not contain fluorides in desirable amounts naturally or through controlled fluoridation, dentists recommend that a child's teeth be treated with a fluoride solution from their earliest appearance and regularly thereafter.

According to the association, children who drink fluoridated water from birth have up to 65 per cent less tooth decay.

The association also says that candy is not the only cause of tooth decay. There are a lot of other sweets in addition to

Brush-In Saturday

The second annual Brush-In sponsored by Lakeside Valley Dental Assistants Society will be held Saturday, Feb. 7, at the YWCA in St. Joseph.

There is no charge for the event and all children in the first through sixth grades are invited.

The Brush-In is being held as part of the society's observance of National Children's Dental Health Week. Theme of the week is "Smile, America."

There will be movies and educational instructions for the children and their parents.

The Brush-In will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and each session will take from 30 to 45 minutes.

Co-chairmen of the event are Mary Lhotka, who is employed by Dr. M. Hadley Cox of St. Joseph, and Connie Forrester, who is employed by Dr. Delos Drucker of Berrien Springs.

Saturday is also the deadline for the third-graders' poster contest. Youngsters may bring their posters to the YWCA where they will be judged and prizes awarded.

they remain in the mouth, the longer the decay process continues.

The association recommends such snacks as fresh fruits, raw carrots and celery, potato chips and popcorn, milk and cheese and foods and beverages made with artificial sweeteners.

Decay can be reduced the association says, by drinking fluoridated water, practicing good oral hygiene at home and seeing a dentist for regular checkups.

'Band-O-Rama' Feb. 21

Six Schools At LMC

Lake Michigan college's third annual "Band-O-Rama" will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 21, at the LMC Napier avenue campus, Benton Harbor.

The "Band-O-Rama" will involve 450 high school musicians and their directors from six area high schools.

Dr. James Neilson, educational director of the O. LeBlanc Corporation, Kenosha, Wis., foremost American manufacturer of woodwind instruments, will serve as guest conductor of the six bands in massed formation. He will also lead a special music directors' educational seminar for 1½ hours in the afternoon.

Dr. Neilson has been guest conductor of the United States Navy band and the United States Air Force band as well as university bands throughout the country.

A musician, educator, writer and music clinician, Dr. Neilson was professor of music education at Oklahoma City university and director of its major musical organizations for 25 years.

While at OCU, Dr. Neilson also was director of music for the Public Forum program of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce. He also was annotator of program notes for the subscription series of concerts given by the Oklahoma City Symphony orchestra.

He has written many articles for professional music journals and with Ruth Shaler, New York City public schools supervisor of music, co-authored the music workbook series, "The Music Road."

Educated at the Chicago Musical school and the Juillard School of Music, Dr. Neilson was appointed a member of the original National Music Council and Ford Foundation committee for placing young composers in school systems.

The "Band-O-Rama" was developed in 1974 by Dr. Donald Moely, head of the LMC music department. It is presented annually in cycles of three years so that over a three-year period all of the Lake Michigan college district high school bands will be invited to participate.

High school bands and their directors who will participate in this year's event include: Gailen high school, William Deal, conductor; East Chaire high school, Michael Peterson, conductor; Berrien Springs high school, Raymond Norberg, conductor; Duraigac high school, Tom Stanifer, conductor, and Lake Michigan Catholic high school, Donald Switoski, conductor.

The annual LMC "Band-O-Rama" provides the participating bands the enlightening experience of working with an outstanding guest conductor, both as individual bands and as a mass group," Dr. Moely said.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be devoted to practice and preparation for individual band presentations and for the massed band performance. The seminar for band directors will be held during the latter part of the afternoon.

The LMC Symphonic Wind ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Moely, will participate in the individual band performances as well as in the massed band presentation.

The bands will perform compositions of their choice during the early part of the evening program. Later they will join in massed formation to play several selections under the baton of Dr. Neilson who will work throughout the day with individual bands and band directors.

The six high school bands and their directors will be guests of the college for the entire day of preparation for the evening performances.

The evening performance will be held in the LMC gymnasium. Tickets for the evening concert are available for $1 from members of the participating bands and their directors and from the LMC music department office during weekdays and from the LMC night school office in the evenings Monday through Friday.

American Music On Parade

'Good Times' Theme

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Lighthearted music for a midwinter's day emphasized Monday Musical club's 1975-76 theme at its Feb. 2 meeting at First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph.

Monday's theme in keeping with the club's Bicentennial programs this year, was "Good Times With American Music."

Preceding the musical program, Betsy Upton's reading, "Pursuit of Happiness," was both inspiring and thought-provoking.

Jazz, Dixieland, and the blues were highlighted in the performance of the St. Joseph high school stage band under direction of Robert Brown.

The band enthusiastically and capably performed "Two O'clock Jump," reminiscent of Harry James, Count Basie, and Benny Goodman; a tribute to Glenn Miller: "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," Dixieland; "Straight Ahead," Basie style; a tribute to Duke Ellington, and "Good Night Blues," a composition of the director.

A charming barbershop quartet including Margaret Hills, Sandra Tyrrell, Sue Fitch, and Mary Caple, was delightful singing American favorites, "Let's Harmonize," "Lazy River," "Wishing Ring," "Jezebel," and "Mockin' Bird Hill."

Four talented pianists concluded the program performing at two pianos.

Joan Stafford and Carolyn Nickel performed "The Banjo" by Gottschalk followed by Georgianna Conrad and Barbara Sickert playing "Miniatures" by Haubiel. The four combined for a quodlibet on American folk tunes, "The Fanny Blue Devil's Break-down."

The entire program was dedicated to the Parade of American Music sponsored by the National Federation of Music clubs.

First editions of American popular sheet music from the collection of Karl Schlachbach was on display as well as a coverlet woven by Daniel Burg in New Portage, Ohio, (now Akron) in 180. Burg was an uncle of Schlachbach's grandmother.

Also on display were two McGuffey readers dated 1846 and 1870 which belonged to Schlachbach's family.

The sheet music collection came from many sources.

The Civil War portion was used by Miss Lillian Schlachbach of Allentown, Pa.; a large part of the collection came from the W.A. Gardner estate of Dowagiac, and another portion came from Dr. H.C. Blohm and Warren Colby, who both played in theaters and for dances.

Schlachbach says some of the choice pieces came from Dr. Harold Geerdes, head of the music department of Calvin college, Grand Rapids. The remainder was the property of the Schlachbach family in Wadsworth, Ohio.

CHILDREN'S DENTAL HEALTH WEEK Can Reduce Tooth Decay

It is possible to reduce tooth decay, according to the American Dental Association.

The association gives advice on the proper care of teeth in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 1-7.

The association suggests that parents begin cleaning their children's teeth as soon as the first incisors (front teeth) have come in. A parent can remove the plaque from the teeth by using a cotton swab or a piece of gauze wrapped around the finger. Plaque is the colorless film of bacterial plaque that forms constantly on everyone's teeth.

Preschool children can be taught to brush effectively, but parental participation and supervision are necessary for several years, according to the association. Children should clean their teeth after each meal and before going to bed.

According to the ADA, X-ray examinations of children's teeth are important and that dentists can only give children the best possible care by making X-ray examinations of the teeth and supporting structures when they feel such examinations are necessary.

The association also recommends the use of fluoride. In communities where the public water supply does not contain fluorides in desirable amounts naturally or through controlled fluoridation, dentists recommend that a child's teeth be treated with a fluoride solution from their earliest appearance and regularly thereafter.

According to the association, children who drink fluoridated water from birth have up to 65 per cent less tooth decay.

The association also says that candy is not the only cause of tooth decay. There are a lot of other sweets in addition to

Brush-In Saturday

The second annual Brush-In sponsored by Lakeland Valley Dental Assistants Society will be held Saturday, Feb. 7, at the YWCA in St. Joseph.

There is no charge for the event and all children in the first through sixth grades are invited.

The Brush-In is being held as part of the society's observance of National Children's Dental Health Week. Theme of the week is "Smile, America."

There will be movies and educational instructions for the children and their parents.

The Brush-In will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and each session will take from 30 to 45 minutes.

Popcorn Played Role In Country's History

Wise old Benjamin Franklin had a lot to say in his day about the importance of frugality.

He also was a great proponent of the New World's magnificent native grain, Indian corn, he wrote in that fateful year of 1776, "is one of the most agreeable and wholesome grains in the world," and he once compiled a collection of recipes for this food that he rightly believed would affect the future course of American agriculture.

As "Poor Richard," Ben once said, "It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright." Certainly, in those early days, you could fill a sack with popcorn, or parched corn, as the colonists called it, and it would stand upright and give you an economical, nutritious treat, too. Better than that, the same thing holds true today.

No matter how you serve this whole cereal grain — as plain as Pennsylvania Prudence would have offered it, or as fancy as our first ambassador to Paris (Ben, of course) might have been inspired to prepare it — you will still find that it costs only pennies per generous serving.

Today that means you can give your Bicentennial party and keep a canny eye on your budget, too, if you offer a choice of beverages and a selection from the nibbling-good popcorn recipes presented here. Costs per one-cup serving will range from approximately four cents for the pink and pleasing Colonies' Choice Popcorn to about twenty cents for the most-expensive-to-fix, deliciously molasses-flavored, nut-crunchy Shoofly Snack.

These are party popcorn mixtures to please a wide variety of tastes. Those who like their popcorn with a lot of zip and zest will particularly enjoy the Minuteman's Mix and the Delegates' Pop-Pouri. The Ambassador's Munch is properly exotic with its hint of orange and sprinkling of toasted coconut. Country Kitchen Popcorn has that flavor of mint that suggests old colonial kitchen gardens. Cobblestone Crisp would have been a treat in any 18th century parlor.

Even long before Ben Franklin's day, the earliest colonists, who learned about popcorn from the Indians, served it for breakfast with cream and sugar. Youngsters might find it fun to try it that way today because it is a cereal grain; and, again, it will cost only cents per bowl. Of course, "just plain popcorn," seasoned to taste and drizzled with butter is an All-American favorite to enjoy any day, as well. Without that drizzled butter, too, the plain popcorn will cost just about a penny a large two-cup serving.

COLONIES' CHOICE POPCORN

Three quarts popped popcorn
One-fourth cup melted butter
One-half cup strawberry flavored drink powder
Two tablespoons malt powder
Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over popcorn; toss. Combine strawberry drink powder and malt powder; sprinkle over buttered popcorn and toss well to coat evenly. Makes three quarts.

Note: One-half cup chocolate-flavored malt powder may be substituted for the combined strawberry drink powder and malt powder.

DELEGATES' POP-POURI

One can (two ounces) flat anchovies
One-fourth cup butter
One-half teaspoon garlic powder
One-half teaspoon lemon popper seasoning
Three quarts popped popcorn
One-half quart small crisp nibbles (crustless, toasted fried onion rings, cereals, etc.)
Two tablespoons grated Romano cheese
Drain anchovy oil into a small saucepan. Chop one half of anchovies very fine (reserve remainder for use in salads if desired.) Add chopped anchovies to saucepan with butter, garlic powder and pepper. Heat over low heat to melt butter. Combine popcorn and crisp nibbles. Pour anchovy/butter mixture slowly over combined crisp snacks, tossing to mix. Sprinkle with cheese and toss again. Makes approximately three and one-half quarts.

Note: To prepare Delegates' Pop-Pouri for a large crowd, use all anchovies and oil from one two-ounce can and double the other ingredients including popcorn and crisp nibbles.

AMBASSADOR'S MUNCH
Two and one-half quarts popped popcorn
One-half cup shredded coconut, toasted
One can (twelve ounces)

ORANGE CARAMELIZED BEVERAGE

One-fourth cup butter
One cup sugar
One-half cup light corn syrup
Combine popcorn and shredded coconut. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, combine orange beverage, butter, sugar and syrup. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring until sugar dissolves. Boil mixture until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer). Place warm popcorn/coconut mixture in a large bowl. Slowly pour orange glaze over popcorn, stirring until well coated. Spread in a fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch buttered jelly roll pan to cool. Break into pieces to serve. Makes two and one-half quarts.

COUNTRY KITCHEN POPCORN

Three quarts popped popcorn
One-fourth cup butter
Three-fourths cup sugar
One-third cup light corn syrup
One-fourth cup water
Two cups cut-up spearmint leaf candies
Green food coloring
Keep popped popcorn warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, combine butter, sugar, syrup, water and cut-up spearmint candy. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Continue to boil mixture, stirring occasionally, until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer.) Note that the spearmint candy will not melt completely. Add one or two drops of green food color, if desired. Place popcorn in large bowl. Slowly pour green syrup mixture over popcorn, stirring until evenly coated. Turn out onto a lightly buttered, fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch jelly roll pan to cool. When completely cool break into pieces. Makes three quarts.

SHOOFLY SNACK

Two and one-half quarts popped popcorn
One cup nuts (pecanats, walnuts or pecans)
One-half cup butter
One cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
One-fourth cup dark molasses
One-half teaspoon salt
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon
One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg
One tablespoon water
Combine popcorn and nuts. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, melt butter. Stir in brown sugar, molasses, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and water. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Boil mixture to hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer.) Place popcorn/nut mixture in large bowl. Slowly pour molasses glaze over popcorn and nuts, stirring to coat. Spread in a buttered, jelly roll pan, fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch, and return to a 250 degree oven for 20 minutes, stirring once after about ten minutes. Cool. Break into pieces. Makes two and one-half quarts.

MINUTEMAN'S MIX

Three quarts popped popcorn
One-fourth cup melted butter
One package dry salad dressing or dip mix
Salt as needed
Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over it and toss. Add dry mix and toss well. Add salt if desired, and toss again. Makes three quarts.
Note: Good with Caesar or French salad dressing mix; with bleu cheese or bacon-onion dip mix; also with beef-flavor broth mix.

COBBLESTONE CRISP

Two and one-half quarts popped popcorn
One-fourth cup butter or

POPCORN IS GOOD PENNY SNACK

margarine
One cup light corn syrup
One cup sugar
One-half teaspoon salt
One teaspoon vanilla
One cup candied cherries, cut up or mixed candied fruit
Prepare a lightly buttered bowl to use for mixing confection. Keep popped popcorn warm in a 250 degree oven while making glaze as follows.

In a two-quart saucepan, melt butter, coating sides of pan. Add corn syrup, sugar and salt. Cook over medium heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Continue boiling, stirring occasionally, until mixture reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on candy thermometer.) Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Put warm popcorn in buttered bowl. Mix immediately with candied fruit. Pour hot syrup slowly over popcorn and fruit, tossing to coat. Turn out onto a buttered jelly roll pan, fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch. When completely cool break into pieces. Makes about three quarts.

AMERICANA CORN BOWL

One teaspoon chicken-flavored broth mix
One teaspoon water
One-half teaspoon poultry seasoning
One-half teaspoon celery seed
One-third cup butter or margarine
Four quarts of popped popcorn
In small saucepan, blend chicken broth mix, water, poultry seasoning and celery seed until broth mix is dissolved. Add butter or margarine; melt over low heat. Keep mixture warm while preparing popcorn. Pour popped corn into a large serving bowl. Stir seasoned butter mixture; pour over popcorn and toss lightly but thoroughly. Serve at once.

MEXICALI CORN BOWL

One-third cup butter or margarine
One tablespoon dry taco seasoning mix
One tablespoon dry chopped chives
Four quarts popped popcorn
In small saucepan, melt butter or margarine over low heat. Add taco seasoning mix and chives. Blend well. Place popped popcorn into large serving bowl. Pour seasoned butter mixture over popcorn and toss lightly but thoroughly. Serve at once.

ITALIENNE CORN BOWL

One-third cup butter or margarine
One teaspoon Italian herb seasoning

One teaspoon minced parsley
One-half teaspoon garlic salt
Two to three tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Popped Perfection

Fluffy and tender popcorn may be obtained by following these sure-fire basic tips for popped perfection:

— Take time to measure the ingredients to insure the correct amount of popcorn and oil. The ideal proportion for maximum "pop" is three parts corn to one part oil.

— Be sure the temperature of the oil in your pot or popcorn popper is correct — add one or two kernels when you add the measure of oil. When one kernel pops, the oil is properly heated and is ready for the remainder.

— Use either a traditional electric popper or a large, heavy skillet or pan for popping the corn. If you use a popper, it should provide ample heat (at least 800 watts) to bring the oil to a hot enough temperature. If using a skillet or pan over a range or open fire, the bottom must be heavy to absorb and hold the heat.

— It's important that the steam escape as the corn pops, either through a vent in the popper or through a slit in the skillet lid. Try using a collander to cover the skillet, rather than a lid. If the steam is kept inside, it's likely to toughen your popcorn.

— While the corn is popping, gently shake the pan to facilitate popping. — unless you're using an electric popper.

— Add salt to the popcorn after the popping is completed. Adding salt before popping tends to toughen the corn.

— When you do salt, use a finely-grained popcorn salt. It will cling to each individual popped kernel, rather than sink to the bottom of the bowl as does regular table salt.

— Reseal the container of unpopped kernels after using so that the correct moisture content is protected. Don't refrigerate it, since corn pops better stored at room temperature.

Try the seven fruit flavors that have to live up to a grape.

We built our reputation on the quality of one fruit. And that's what we set our standards by.

So each new fruit we cook up has to have the old-fashioned kind of flavor we put into every one of our grape products.

It wasn't always easy.

Orange marmalade drove us crazy until we felt we had the best orange marmalade in the land.

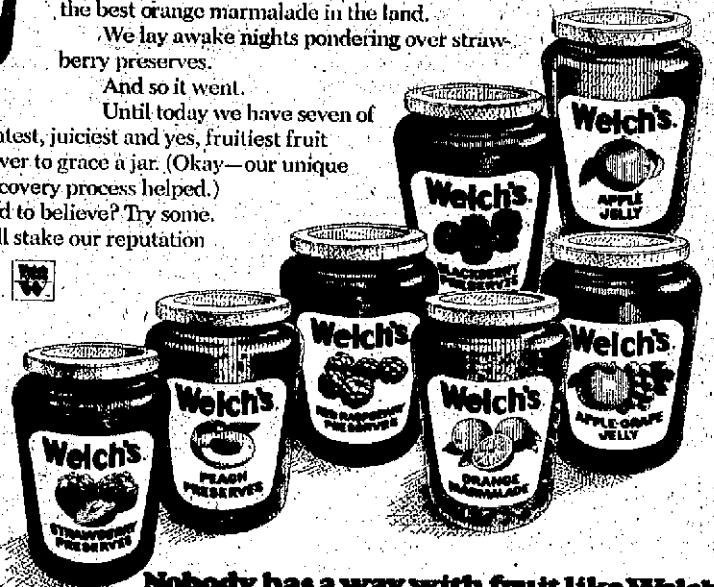

We lay awake nights pondering over strawberry preserves.

And so it went.

Until today we have seven of the brightest, juiciest and yes, fruitiest fruit flavors ever to grace a jar. (Okay — our unique flavor recovery process helped.)

Hard to believe? Try some.

We'll stake our reputation on them.

Popcorn Played Role In Country's History

Wise old Benjamin Franklin had a lot to say in his day about the importance of frugality.

He also was a great protagonist of the New World's magnificent native grain. Indian corn, he wrote in that fateful year of 1776, "is one of the most agreeable and wholesome grains in the world," and he once compiled a collection of recipes for this food that he rightly believed would affect the future course of American agriculture.

As "Poor Richard," Ben once said "it is hard for an empty sack to stand upright." Certainly, in those early days, you could fill a sack with popcorn, or parched corn, as the colonists called it, and it would stand upright and give you an economical, nutritious treat, too. Better than that, the same thing holds true today.

No matter how you serve this whole cereal grain — as plain as Pennsylvania Prudence would have offered it, or as fancy as our first ambassador to Paris (Ben, of course) might have been inspired to prepare it — you will still find that it costs only pennies per generous serving.

Today that means you can give your Bicentennial party and keep a canny eye on your budget, too, if you offer a choice of beverages and a selection from the nibbling-good popcorn recipes presented here. Costs per one-cup serving will range from approximately four cents for the pink and pleasing Colonies' Choice Popcorn to about twenty cents for the most-expensive-to-fix, deliciously molasses-flavored, nut-crunchy Shoofly Snack.

These are party popcorn mixtures to please a wide variety of tastes. Those who like their popcorn with a lot of zip and zest will particularly enjoy the Minuteman's Mix and the Delegates' Pop-Pourri. The Ambassador's Munch is properly exotic with its hint of orange and sprinkling of toasted coconut. Country Kitchen Popcorn has that flavor of mint that suggests old colonial kitchen gardens. Cobblestone Crisp would have been a treat in any 18th century parlor.

Even long before Ben Franklin's day, the earliest colonists, who learned about popcorn from the Indians, served it for breakfast with cream and sugar. Youngsters might find it fun to try it that way today because it is a cereal grain; and, again, it will cost only cents per bowl. Of course, "just plain popcorn" seasoned to taste and drizzled with butter is an All-American favorite to enjoy any day, as well. Without that drizzled butter, too, the plain popcorn will cost just about a penny a large two-cup serving.

COLONIES' CHOICE

POPCORN

Three quarts popped popcorn
One-fourth cup melted butter
One-half cup strawberry-flavored drink powder

Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over popcorn; toss. Combine strawberry drink powder and malt powder; sprinkle over buttered popcorn and toss well to coat evenly. Makes three quarts.

Note: One-half cup chocolate-flavored malt powder may be substituted for the combined strawberry drink powder and malt powder.

DELEGATES' POP-POURRI

One can (two ounces) flat anchovies

One-fourth cup butter
One-half teaspoon garlic powder

One-half teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning

Three quarts popped popcorn
One-half quart small crisp nibbles (croutons, canned fried onion rings, cereals, etc.)

Two tablespoons grated Romano cheese

Drain anchovy oil into a small saucepan. Chop one half of anchovies very fine (reserve remainder for use in salads if desired.) Add chopped anchovies to saucepan with butter, garlic powder and pepper. Heat over low heat to melt butter. Combine popcorn and crisp nibbles. Pour anchovy/butter mixture slowly over combined crisp snacks, tossing to mix. Sprinkle with cheese and toss again. Makes approximately three and one-half quarts.

Note: To prepare Delegates' Pop-Pourri for a large crowd, use all anchovies and oil from one two-ounce can and double the other ingredients including popcorn and crisp nibbles.

AMBASSADOR'S MUNCH

Two and one-half quarts popped popcorn

One-half cup shredded coconut, toasted

One can (two ounces)

orange carbonated beverage

One-fourth cup butter
One cup sugar
One-half cup light corn syrup
Combine popcorn and shredded coconut. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, combine orange beverage, butter, sugar and syrup. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring until sugar dissolves. Boil mixture until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer). Place warm popcorn/coconut mixture in a large bowl. Slowly pour orange glaze over popcorn, stirring until well coated. Spread in a fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch buttered jelly roll pan to cool. Break into pieces to serve. Makes two and one-half quarts.

COUNTRY KITCHEN

POPCORN

Three quarts popped popcorn

One-fourth cup butter

Three-fourths cup sugar

One-third cup light corn syrup

One-fourth cup water

Two cups cut-up spearmint leaf candies

Green food coloring

Keep popped popcorn warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, combine butter, sugar, syrup, water and cut-up spearmint candy. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Continue to boil mixture, stirring occasionally, until it reaches hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer.) Note that the spearmint candy will not melt completely. Add one or two drops of green food color, if desired. Place popcorn in large bowl. Slowly pour green syrup mixture over popcorn, stirring until evenly coated. Turn out onto a lightly-buttered fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch jelly roll pan to cool. When completely cool break into pieces. Makes three quarts.

SHOOFLY SNACK

Two and one-half quarts popped popcorn

One cup nuts (peanuts, walnuts or pecans)

One-half cup butter

One cup firmly-packed light brown sugar

One-fourth cup dark molasses

One-half teaspoon salt

One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon

One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg

One tablespoon water

Combine popcorn and nuts. Keep warm in a 250 degree oven. In a two-quart saucepan, melt butter. Stir in brown sugar, molasses, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and water. Cook over medium heat until boiling, stirring constantly. Boil mixture to hard crack stage (290 degrees on a candy thermometer.) Place popcorn/nut mixture in large bowl. Slowly pour molasses glaze over popcorn and nuts, stirring to coat. Spread in a buttered jelly roll pan, fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch, and return to a 250 degree oven for 20 minutes, stirring once after about ten minutes. Cool. Break into pieces. Makes two and one-half quarts.

MINUTEMAN'S MIX

Three quarts popped popcorn

One-fourth cup melted butter

One package dry salad dressing or dip mix

Salt as needed

Put popcorn in a large bowl. Pour melted butter over it and toss. Add dry mix and toss well. Add salt if desired, and toss again. Makes three quarts.

Note: Good with Caesar or French salad dressing mix; with bleu cheese or bacon-onion dip mix; also with beef-flavor broth mix.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Loss Difficult To Overcome

Dear Ann Landers: I'm nearly 40 years of age, have three beautiful boys and lost a little girl five years ago to cancer. I've been a mess ever since.

I've gone to doctors and priests and they helped me some, but I've neglected myself terribly. I'm writing to you like a sister because I can't stand to look in the mirror anymore. My eyes are swollen from crying all the time. My face has these horrible wrinkles because my skin gets so much. Maybe if I looked better I'd feel like a human being again — buy some clothes and fix my hair the way I liked to. I was once a rather pretty woman but I've let myself go and am ashamed of myself. Please suggest a face-lift doctor. — It's Hell To Grow Old

Dear Friend: Call the County Medical Society and they will recommend two or three plastic surgeons. Make an appointment with two and decide after you've met them which one you prefer. And please get some additional counseling. You need it, dear.

Substitutes

Dear Ann Landers: I read in the paper recently that a family out West has taken a monkey into their home and are raising the animal as if it were a child. They are dressing her like a little girl in darling organdy skirts and patent leather shoes.

How can people be so crazy when millions of underprivileged children in this world don't have a decent coat and would be grateful if they had ANY kind of shoes? Please, Ann, print this letter. Maybe you will wake those morons up. — Someone Who Cares want to treat pets like children are not going to stop because someone suggests it. There are thousands of cats and dogs (and a few monkeys) who are much better fed and better dressed than many children.

Dear Someone: People who

Of course they are "substitutes" for the real thing, but if people prefer substitutes, that's their business.

Life Saved

Dear Ann Landers: I could never understand why my father drank like he did. I used to think he didn't like me and the rest of the family. I began to hate him.

I also began to dislike my mother because she took her frustration out on us kids when she was really mad at my father. The more my dad drank the more I put myself down. Pretty soon I didn't care how I dressed or what I looked like. I was so confused I did all sorts of crazy things. I tried to escape by taking drugs. None of this helped. When I'd come down from a trip my problems were still there — and growing bigger.

ANN LANDERS

A friend suggested I join Alateen and it saved my life. Alateen brought me out of my lonely and confused world. I learned how to smile and really care about myself. I lost all hatred for my parents and replaced it with love and understanding.

I am 18 years old now and attend at least two meetings a week. Please print this letter for other teenagers who have an alcoholic parent. Alateen changed my whole life. — Alive And Well And Living In New York

Dear Alive: Thank you for writing. And now, for those of you who need the help, Alateen's national headquarters is P.O. Box 182, Dept. B, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010. Write for information so you will know where to go and when. I can vouch for this organization. They've done wonders.

Discover how to be date bait without falling back, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dab Minus Pinch

Like most mothers, I have a horror of my daughter getting married, inviting me to dinner and serving her specialty, a bowl of undercooked popcorn.

Bequests Scholar Funds

EAST LANSING — Michigan State University graduate and postgraduate students in human ecology will be receiving fellowships because of a bequest from the estate of Dr. Marie Dye, who was dean of the college of home economics from 1929 to 1956.

The dean emerita died at 83 in Orlando, Fla., in February, 1974.

A gift of $181,200 from her estate was accepted by the MSU board of trustees at a meeting Jan. 30. Income from the endowment fund will be used for the fellowships, in addition to $1,000 being assigned to John Hannah professors and an annuity to a relative of Dr. Dye.

"Dean Dye was a distinguished scholar and an outstanding dean," said Dr. Lois Lund, now dean of MSU's college of human ecology. "She was deeply committed to home economics as a field of study and as a professional she was dedicated to serving the families of Michigan."

Dr. Dye joined the MSU faculty in 1922, as assistant professor of human nutrition.

At our house, cooking is a spectator sport with steady attendance despite a 0-15,683 record.

"Have you no curiosity as to where biscuits come from?" I asked her.

"Nope," she said.

"Don't you have dreams of one day owning your own garlic press?"

"Nope."

"Could you find turmeric in your local grocery store?"

"Why, is one missing?"

Granted, I'm not the greatest cook in the world (you have to have a prescription for my pot roast), but at least I recognize fire when I see it.

"Everyone should have at least one specialty," I grumbled. "Let me show you how to make breakfast biscuits from a recipe handed down by your grandmother. First, you throw a dab of flour into a bowl and..."

"How much is a dab?" she interrupted.

"A dab is about a handful or two."

"My hand is bigger than yours."

"Okay, a dab minus a pinch!"

"What's a pinch?"

"Here, let me put in the flour. You add a smidgen of shortening."

"Give me a hint. Is a smidgen bigger than a broad boy?"

"A smidgen is a smidgen," I said, plopping in a lump. "Get the salt."

"A pinch?" she asked.

"No, no, just a dash. Now a speck of baking powder, a hint of parsley and a speck of parmesan before you dot each one with a sliver of butter."

"How much water did you add?" she asked.

"Only a particle. If you put in a morsel, it'll be too sticky to roll out. Got it?"

She nodded her head slowly and said it had all been very interesting.

She didn't fool me for a minute. That kid didn't write down one ingredient I told her.

Bridge teacher, Sally Johnson of Westport, looked over the dummy happily. Not only had she reached a good slam, but the play she intended to adopt would be fine for teaching her advanced pupils.

She could try for seven. That would require a 3-3 club break and a 3-1 or 2-2 trump split. She hadn't bid seven so she discarded that line.

Dr. Lester Coleman

For years, we have noticed a small red spot at the base of the spine of our daughter. It caused no pain, but would change color from time to time. She is 18 now. The doctor says she has a pilonidal cyst which may need surgery. Could this have been prevented years ago?

Mrs. H.D.L., Ohio

Dear Mrs. L.: A pilonidal cyst is the result of some malformation during the development of the child. It is said to occur in about 5 per cent of all people. It is far less common in women than in men.

The cyst is located at the base of the spine. Sometimes the only evidence of it is a slight dimpling or discoloration.

It is not unusual for such a cyst to remain "inactive" for many years and then suddenly blossom into an annoying, but dangerous, condition.

There are many forms of pilonidal cyst. Some may have a draining opening. Others may extend down to the bone, or coccyx.

The cyst has been present from the time your daughter was very young. In the absence of any symptoms it would have been unwise to operate on a cyst that was causing no trouble.

The time of operation therefore depends on when the cyst opens, drains and becomes a problem.

Surgery for pilonidal cyst today aims at completely eradicating the cyst, the infection, the underlying diseased tissue and the "sinus tract" opening that are usually associated with it.

The operation is a safe one and recovery is rapid and complete.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the book by title.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Loss Difficult To Overcome

Dear Ann Landers: I'm nearly 40 years of age, have three beautiful boys and lost a little girl five years ago to cancer. I've been a mess ever since.

I've gone to doctors and priests and they helped me some, but I've neglected myself terribly. I'm writing to you like a sister because I can't stand to look in the mirror anymore. My eyes are swollen from crying all the time. My face has these horrible wrinkles because my skin sags so much. Maybe if I looked better I'd feel like a human being again — buy some clothes and fix my hair the way I used to. I was once a rather pretty woman but I've let myself go and am ashamed of myself. Please suggest a face-lift doctor. — It's Hell To Grow Old surgeons. Make an appointment with two and decide after you've met them which one you prefer. And please get some additional counseling. You need it, dear.

Dear Friend: Call the County Medical Society and they will recommend two or three plastic

Substitutes

Dear Ann Landers: I read in the paper recently that a family out West has taken a monkey into their home and are raising the animal as if it were a child. They are dressing her like a little girl in darling organdy skirts and patent leather shoes.

How can people be so crazy when millions of underprivileged children in this world don't have a decent coat and would be grateful if they had ANY kind of shoes? Please, Ann, print this letter. Maybe you will wake those morons up. — Someone Who Cares want to treat pets like children are not going to stop because someone suggests it. There are thousands of cats and dogs (and a few monkeys) who are much better fed and better dressed than many children.

Of course they are "substitutes" for the real thing, but if people prefer substitutes, that's their business.

Life Saved

Dear Ann Landers: I could never understand why my father drank like he did. I used to think he didn't like me and the rest of the family. I began to hate him.

I also began to dislike my mother because she took her frustration out on us kids when she was really mad at my father. The more my dad drank the more I put myself down. Pretty soon I didn't care how I dressed or what I looked like. I was so confused I did all sorts of crazy things. I tried to escape by taking drugs. None of this helped. When I'd come down from a trip my problems were still there — and growing bigger.

ANN LANDERS

A friend suggested I join Alateen and it saved my life. Alateen brought me out of my lonely and confused world. I learned how to smile and really care about myself. I lost all hatred for my parents and replaced it with love and understanding.

I am 15 years old now and attend at least two meetings a week. Please print this letter for other teenagers who have an alcoholic parent. Alateen changed my whole life. — Alive And Well And Living In New York

Dear Alive: Thank you for writing. And now, for those of you who need the help, Alateen's national headquarters is P.O. Box 182, Dept. B, Madison Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10010. Write for information so you will know where to go and when. I can vouch for this organization. They've done wonders.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dab Minus Pinch

Like most mothers, I have a horror of my daughter getting married, inviting me to dinner and serving her specialty: a bowl of undercooked popcorn.

At our house, cooking is a spectator sport with steady attendance despite a 0-15,883 record.

"Have you no curiosity as to where biscuits come from?" I asked her.

"Nope," she said. "Don't you have dreams of one day owning your own garlic press?"

"Nope." "Could you find tumeric in your local grocery store?"

"Why, is one missing?" "Granted, I'm not the greatest cook in the world (you have to have a prescription for my pot roast), but at least I recognize fire when I see it."

"Everyone should have at least one specialty," I grumbled. "Let me show you how to make breakfast biscuits from a recipe handed down by your grandmother. First, you throw a dab of flour into a bowl and..."

"How much is a dab?" she interrupted.

"A dab is about a handful or two."

"My hand is bigger than yours."

"Okay, a dab minus a pinch!" "What's a pinch?"

"Here, let me put in the flour. You add a smidgen of shortening."

"Give me a hint. Is a smidgen bigger than a bread box?" "A smidgen is a smidgen," I said, plopping in a lump. "Get the salt."

"A pinch?" she asked. "No, no, just a dash. Now a speck of baking powder, a hint of parsley and a speck of parmesan before you dot each one with a sliver of butter."

"How much water did you add?" she asked.

"Only a particle... if you put in a morsel, it'll be too sticky to roll out. Got it?"

She nodded her head slowly and said it had all been very interesting.

She didn't fool me for a minute. That kid didn't write down one ingredient I told her.

Dr. Lester Coleman

For years, we have noticed a small red spot at the base of the spine of our daughter. It caused no pain, but would change color from time to time. She is 18 now. The doctor says she has a pilonidal cyst which now needs surgery. Could this have been prevented years ago?

Mrs. H.D.L., Ohio

A pilonidal cyst is the result of some malformation during the development of the child. It is said to occur in about 5 per cent of all people. It is far less common in women than in men.

The cyst is located at the base of the spine. Sometimes the only evidence of it is a slight dimpling or discoloration.

It is not unusual for such a cyst to remain "inactive" for many years and then suddenly blossom into an annoying, but dangerous, condition.

There are many forms of pilonidal cyst. Some may have a draining opening. Others may extend down to the bone, or coccyx.

The cyst has been present from the time your daughter was very young. In the absence of any symptoms it would have been unwise to operate on a cyst that was causing no trouble.

The time of operation therefore depends on when the cyst opens, drains and becomes a problem.

Surgery for pilonidal cyst today aims at completely eradicating the cyst, the infection, the underlying diseased tissue and the "sinus tract" openings that are usually associated with it.

The operation is a safe one and recovery is rapid and complete.

Mrs. A.J., N.J.

Dear Mrs. J.: Roseola infantum is a viral disease of infancy and childhood. Although distinct evidence never has been proven, it is generally considered to be contagious.

Characteristic of this condition is a sudden rise of temperature. Fever goes up to 103 or 104 degrees, and stays that way for three days. At the end of this period of high fever, the temperature suddenly drops to normal. Then a mottled red rash appears all over the body.

This signals the end of the disease. Many children contract roseola. It leaves no after-effects. It is not considered serious. Almost always, an attack produces lifetime immunity. There is no vaccine to prevent it.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "Alcoholism — A Family Disease." It probes this grave problem and offers hopeful advice. For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Alcoholism booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the book by title.

By Oswald & James Jacoby Bridge teacher, Sally Johnson of Westport, looked over the dummy happily. Not only had she reached a good slam, but the play she intended to adopt would be fine for teaching her advanced pupils.

She could try for seven. That would require a 3-3 club break and a 3-1 or 2-2 trump split. She hadn't bid seven so she discarded that line.

Then there was the simple line. Try to ruff two hearts. She would ruff one low and the last one high and be home safely against all 4-3 and some 5-2 heart breaks.

Then she found the best and winning line. She won the first diamond, cashed the king and ace of hearts, led a third heart and carefully discarded dummy's second diamond.

This loser-on-loser play enabled her to ruff her last diamond with one of dummy's low trumps and her last heart with dummy's ace of trumps and make her contract.

Of course, it would have failed if diamonds broke 8-1 but 8-1 breaks are most unlikely while 5-2 breaks occur some 30 per cent of the time.

Celery Hollow Waldorf

When you're picking out party food ideas, remember this different appetizer suggestion.

It's a spin-off from favorite Waldorf salad with the same good-eating qualities.

Stuff hollows of celery cut into two-inch lengths with a mixture of chopped red apples, chopped toasted walnuts and mayonnaise. Squeeze on some lemon juice for perky taste. Great for between meal snacks or as a finger food salad, too.

State's '76-77 Budget: 'Skimpy'

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will recommend an overall increase of only about 4 per cent in the state spending for the coming fiscal year — not enough to cover an expected 6-7 per cent inflation rate, state sources have confirmed.

Milliken will propose an "austere" state general fund budget, increase from $3.047 billion to about $3.16 billion, said legislative and budget sources. The current budget already is a pared down version of appropriations granted last summer.

Milliken also will recommend that the state pump about $120 million additional back into local governments as reimbursement for personal property tax money on inventories they lost when his single business tax became law.

Most of the $120 million probably will go to K-12 education as part of state school aid, budget sources said. The figure was called a "conservative" estimate of what local governments actually lost from the inventory tax repeal, said a high-ranking Department of Management and Budget source.

The department is completing work on Milliken's 1976-1977 budget, which probably will be released Thursday.

"We're going to be forcing everything back on the local level," said Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, Senate Appropriations Committee vice chairman. He predicted "the wrath of hell" descending on lawmakers when the budget is unveiled and citizens and special interest groups discover how little there is to go around. Milliken's skimpy budget threatens to erase or postpone many marginal programs. College tuitions are expected to rise. Some teachers may be laid off and old school equipment will have to hold together another year. Welfare

She Gets Her Chance To Teach

MARION, Ind. (AP) — Linda Garshwiler said all she wanted was a chance to prove a blind person can be a good school teacher. Now she has that chance.

"I'm just really excited that I have the chance to be in the classroom and prove to everyone that I can do the job," she said Tuesday.

As soon as she's moved in, Miss Garshwiler, 23, will go to work at Justice Junior High School here, teaching English literature and grammar to seventh and eighth graders.

Miss Garshwiler, backed by the National Federation for the Blind, filed a suit in federal court last year against Marion's school system, claiming she was discriminated against because she can't see.

She applied for an opening and was scheduled for an interview, but that was canceled when school officials learned she is blind.

She was finally hired after her attorneys and school board lawyers considered the matter. "They offered me the job and they paid me the wages I would have earned for the past semester," she said of the out-of-court settlement.

Mark Maurer, president of the Indiana Federation for the Blind, said Miss Garshwiler's job is the first full-time teaching position ever obtained for a blind person through a lawsuit. He said a similar suit in Denver last year resulted in a part-time job for the plaintiff.

Debt Of $3 Billion Looms For U.S. Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service would be bankrupt if it were a private business and soon may find itself borrowing money in order to meet its payroll, officials concede.

The Postal Service celebrates its fifth birthday on June 30 and is expected to be $3 billion in debt on that day. Half of that deficit will have been amassed in this fiscal year, when the service will lose nearly two cents on each piece of mail it delivers.

"No company could continue to operate under these circumstances," Richard F. Gould, the Postal Service's top financial officer, said in an interview.

And Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar, who says the service's financial situation is "grave," warned Congress, "We may be forced to borrow before the end of the fiscal year to meet our payroll."

Since its beginning as an independent entity in 1971, the service has been able to stave off insolvency only by borrowing from the federal treasury. But it borrows money to pay off previous debts.

Continuing to finance postal deficits by borrowing "is only digging your hole a little deeper," Bailar admits.

The Postal Service was organized to make the old Post Office Department operate on a businesslike basis. Financial self-sufficiency was its goal. One reason the Postal Service has failed to reach this goal has been quick achievement of another goal — to pay wages comparable to those in private enterprise. The service payroll rose from $7.5 billion to $10.4 billion in its first four years, despite employee cuts.

At the same time, the service has been hit by an unexpected decline in usage of the mails. Mail users increasingly are deserting the Postal Service for other, less expensive means of communication.

In the meantime, the Postal Service cannot raise mail rates fast enough to balance revenues and expenditures. The agency says there would have been no deficit this fiscal year if the Postal Rate Commission had made a rate increase possible last July.

But new higher rates didn't take effect until Dec. 31 and that means a record deficit, postal officials say.

Despite economy efforts and consideration of cuts in service, "We face the prospect of never having revenues in balance with our costs," Gould said. He said higher subsidies from Congress are the only thing that will preserve the present mail system.

Postal officials favor a plan by Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., to double the service's $1.5 billion annual subsidy over the next three years. But present law requires phasing out subsidies.

In addition, Bailar wants Congress to study whether present services should be maintained, and if so, who should pay for them.

The alternatives to elimination of services are extra money from either the taxpayer or the mail user, Bailar said. Maintaining the present system, at current prices, "would require many billions of dollars in subsidies over the next decade," he said.

But without higher subsidies, mail rates will continue to climb, he said. The General Accounting Office has estimated the cost of mailing a first-class letter, now 13 cents, could reach 36 cents by 1984.

It will be, in all, a bad year to be looking for a state handout.

Milliken will propose relatively tiny increases for colleges, universities and community colleges, sources said.

But to ease the shock of expected tuition hikes, Milliken will propose a $5 million "tuition aid" appropriation, which would be in the form of loans or grants to students, legislative sources said.

The biggest single dollar increase will come in Milliken's Social Services recommendation, the sources said. The current welfare budget of about $1.025 billion will exceed $1.1 billion, the sources said.

The Social Services recommendation "is tied almost entirely" to caseload growth and does not mean individual welfare recipients will get significantly more money for food, clothing or shelter, the sources said.

Debt Of $3 Billion Looms For U.S. Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service would be bankrupt if it were a private business and soon may find itself borrowing money in order to meet its payroll, officials concede.

The Postal Service celebrates its fifth birthday on June 30 and is expected to be $3 billion in debt on that day. Half of that deficit will have been amassed in this fiscal year, when the service will lose nearly two cents on each piece of mail it delivers.

"No company could continue to operate under those circumstances," Richard F. Gould, the Postal Service's top financial officer, said in an interview.

And Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar, who says the service's financial situation is "grave," warned Congress, "We may be forced to borrow before the end of the fiscal year to meet our payroll."

Since its beginning as an independent entity in 1971, the service has been able to stave off insolvency only by borrowing from the federal treasury. But it borrows money to pay off previous debts.

Continuing to finance postal deficits by borrowing "is only digging your hole a little deeper," Bailar admits.

The Postal Service was organized to make the old Post Office Department operate on a businesslike basis. Financial self-sufficiency was its goal.

One reason the Postal Service has failed to reach this goal has been quick achievement of another goal — to pay wages comparable to those in private enterprise. The service payroll rose from $7.5 billion to $10.4 billion in its first four years, despite employee cuts.

At the same time, the service has been hit by an unexpected decline in usage of the mails. Mail users increasingly are deserting the Postal Service for other, less expensive means of communication.

In the meantime, the Postal Service cannot raise mail rates fast enough to balance revenues and expenditures. The agency says there would have been no deficit this fiscal year if the Postal Rate Commission had made a rate increase possible last July.

But new higher rates didn't take effect until Dec. 31 and that means a record deficit, postal officials say.

Despite economy efforts and consideration of cuts in service, "We face the prospect of never having revenues in balance with our costs," Gould said. He said higher subsidies from Congress are the only thing that will preserve the present mail system.

Postal officials favor a plan by Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., to double the service's $1.5 billion annual subsidy over the next three years. But present law requires phasing out subsidies.

In addition, Bailar wants Congress to study whether present services should be maintained, and if so, who should pay for them.

The alternatives to elimination of services are extra money from either the taxpayer or the mail user, Bailar said. Maintaining the present system, at current prices, "would require many billions of dollars in subsidies over the next decade," he said.

But without higher subsidies, mail rates will continue to climb, he said. The General Accounting Office has estimated the cost of mailing a first-class letter, now 13 cents, could reach 36 cents by 1984.

Farmhand Is Bound Over In Knifing

A 40-year-old farm worker was bound over to Circuit court yesterday on charges of slaying a man with a knife during a fight outside the Steak House restaurant, St. Joseph, Jan. 21.

Jailed under $5,000 bond following a preliminary examination in Berrien Fifth District court was John E. Peek, of Colfax Hotel, Benton Harbor. He is charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder, to Jack Mix, 19, of 2088 Empire, Benton township.

During the alleged fight Mix was slashed on the neck, Peek sustained a cut hand and the restaurant proprietor, George Litwin, received a knife wound to the stomach.

Others bound over to Circuit court were:

Ronald R. Lewis, 22, of Cherry street, Coloma, on a charge of armed robbery Oct. 27 in Watervliet township. He waived examination and was jailed under bond of $2,500.

Patricia A. Bolton, 21, of 2451 Lawrence, Benton township, on a charge of receiving over $100 using false pretenses Sept. 24 in Benton township. She was jailed under bond of $2,000 on the charge, which involves receipt of two checks for $212 when she was allegedly only eligible to receive one.

Demanding examinations were:

Stephen M. Weed, 18, of 1803 Niles avenue, St. Joseph, charged with malicious destruction to a building in St. Joseph. He was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Willie G. Humphreys, 34, of Flint, accused of carrying a concealed pistol Feb. 3 in Benton township. Bond of $2,500 was not posted.

Cleveland Walls, 18, of 784 Columbus, Benton Harbor, charged with breaking into A&B Furniture, Benton Harbor, Jan. 30. He failed to furnish $5,000 bail.

Jeff L. Vaughn, 18, of 432 Foster, Benton Harbor, on a charge of breaking and entering a Benton Harbor house Jan. 19. He was jailed in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Sentenced were:

Jeff M. Christensen, 20, of 1600 Colfax, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $31 for possession of M-99 firecrackers Feb. 1 in Benton township.

Timothy R. Ford, 24, of 28 South Norton, New Buffalo, three days in jail and $95 for driving while license suspended Dec. 6 in New Buffalo township.

Shirley L. Curtis, 24, of 740 Tower, Benton Harbor, $135 for driving while intoxicated in Benton Harbor Dec. 4.

Lorraine F. Gideon, 31, of 1735 Golfview road, St. Joseph township, $102 for impaired driving Dec. 26 in St. Joseph.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Possession of an unregistered pistol — Sidney E. Colby, 22, of Holland, $116; Stanley Johnson, 33, of Romulus, $31.

Use of marijuana — Russell Johnson, 31, of Chicago, $51; Michael P. Noonan, 18, and Stephen J. Schuler, 20, both of Birmingham, and Aubrey G. Coleman, 21, of Dallas, Texas, each $51 or 10 days in jail.

Assault and battery — Carolyn Smith, 24, of 606 Empire, Benton Harbor, $25 or five days in jail; Russell Patis, 31, of 273 Morton, Benton Harbor, $75.

Petty larceny — Regina Patterson, 17, of 788 Wauconda, Benton Harbor, $122; Charles Bradley, 25, of 221 South McCord, 45 days in jail for attempting the violation.

Dortch Identified As Slain Boy's Father

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

A young Benton Harbor boy allegedly murdered for insurance was the illegitimate son of Johnny Dortch, according to testimony yesterday during the double-murder trial for Dortch in Berrien Circuit court.

The testimony of John D. Schoenhals, chief investigator for the Berrien friend of the court's office, was supported by a court record introduced by Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell in which Dortch admitted being the father of seven-year-old Johnny Freeman.

The shotgun-riddled bodies of the boy and his mother, Brenda Freeman, were found Sept. 27, 1974, in a ditch off Black Lake road in Pipestone township. The prosecution alleges Dortch contracted for the murder of the boy, and the mother was killed at the same time.

Dortch, 27, of 148 North Crystal avenue, Benton township, faces two charges of first degree murder in connection with the slayings.

Dortch was the beneficiary of the boy's life insurance policy and was paid slightly more than $15,000 after Johnny Freeman's death, earlier testimony revealed.

In the court record—a paternity suit filed in 1969—Dortch admitted he was the father of Johnny Freeman, and was ordered to pay $30 monthly child support for him.

Schoenhals testified that since the order was entered, Dortch paid only $850, and at the time of the boy's death Dortch was $1,139 in arrears, which is still outstanding.

Schoenhals also noted Dortch twice was cited on orders to show cause why he was not paying child support, but was never sentenced to jail or placed on probation for the arrearages.

Another witness yesterday was Chester Wilburn, Dortch's former boss while Dortch was an insurance salesman for Western & Southern Life Insurance Co.

Wilburn last Friday testified

Dortch once offered to "split the money" with him if he would kill Dortch's son, Wilburn, who has not been implicated in the murders in any way, told jurors he thought Dortch was kidding.

Under cross-examination yesterday by Defense Atty. Harry Creager, Wilburn testified the idea of insurance on the boy was first suggested during a conversation between him and Dortch.

Trial was scheduled to resume today, and McDowell said he expects to call Terry Young Langford to the stand. Langford, who has already been convicted of the Freeman murders by Judge Chester J. Byrns and sentenced to life imprisonment, testified during a preliminary examination for Dortch in district court that Dortch hired him to kill the Freemans.

Langford made the same allegation in district court against Lorenzo Cross, 25, in connection with another murder for insurance. But when he took the stand in circuit court in Cross' trial, Langford repudiated his district court testimony, calling it "false." Cross, though, was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to life in prison.

Boy's Kidneys Removed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Surgeons have removed a St. Louis boy's kidneys after a biopsy revealed both organs had stopped functioning. Billy Smith already has shown improvement in eyesight and blood pressure, according to his mother, Charlotte Smith. Billy has been hospitalized in Ann Arbor since November. The kidneys were removed last week. Two of Billy's sisters, Pamela Carter, 19, of Alma, and Gloria Cicciatti, 28, of Troy, have volunteered to serve as kidney donors, Mrs. Smith said. Only one kidney is needed. Doctors said no date has been scheduled for a transplant operation.

Frigid Temperatures Keep State Energy Office Busy

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN
Associated Press Writer

Frigid temperatures are causing some local fuel problems, but the whole Michigan is getting along well this winter on available energy, state officials report.

Michigan Energy Director William Archer said Tuesday he was allocating 42,000 gallons of liquid propane gas from the state's emergency supplies to keep the heat on in hundreds of homes in the Keweenaw Peninsula.

The shortage of natural gas was reported by Pontiac Gas Co., which will use the propane as a substitute. Archer said temperatures in the area are averaging 11 degrees less than in 1972, the year on which the company's federal gas allocation is based.

"The federal government had no authority to give them any gas," he said. "We were the only one that could do it."

The state energy chief said his office also has responded to scattered appeals from fuel oil distributors for emergency supplies and occasionally helps arrange special deliveries to homes which have run out of fuel.

"The cold winter is bearing its toll on some of the distributors. But they call us ahead of time and we take care of it before the customers hear about it," he said.

Archer also reported that the federal government recently assigned new suppliers to several gasoline distributors formerly handled by Dow Chemical Company's Bay Refinery, ending nine months of uncertainty.

Dow terminated gasoline production at the plant last April, but was obligated by federal law to continue supplying gasoline to customers.

Archer said his office was called in several times to help find supplies for refinery customers, including Central Michigan Petroleum Corp.

Another firm, Central Petroleum Corp. of Flint, has filed a $3 million breach of contract suit against Dow in Genesee County Circuit Court. The suit claims Dow has a 10-year obligation initiated in 1968 to sell gasoline to the firm. Central Petroleum owns eight retail outlets in Flint and sells to some other firms, said Herbert Mahne, general manager.

Last month, the Federal Energy Administration assigned new permanent suppliers to these small independent companies, Archer said.

Dow purchased the plant from Bay Refining Co. in 1956. The firm announced last spring it would begin using the facility solely to produce feed stock for its petrochemical operations.

Formed during the panic which followed the Middle East oil embargo of fall 1973, the state energy office has now dwindled from a peak staff of 21 to only three.

U.S. Death Rate At New Low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advances in treating heart disease and the impact of the Arab oil embargo contributed to a record low U.S. death rate in 1974, the government reported today.

Life expectancy for children born in 1974 hit a record high, the government said. Girls born that year have an average life expectancy of 71.9 years and boys born during the year an average life expectancy of 68.2 years.

The National Center for Health Statistics, in its report on the 1974 death rate, said that a record number of Americans died of cancer, suicide and murder. Figures for 1975 have not been compiled yet.

Despite the high death rates from cancer, suicide and murder, over-all death rate figures declined because of fewer heart disease fatalities and a drop in the number of accident deaths.

The agency attributed the decline in heart-disease deaths to advances in treating such diseases and said the gasoline shortage caused by the 1973-1974 Arab oil embargo aided in the drop in the number of automobile fatalities.

During the oil embargo, speed limits were lowered and there was less traffic on the nation's roads.

Over-all, the statistical center said, the U.S. death rate fell to 9.2 per cent per 1,000 population. When adjusted for age, the rate declined to 7.7 per 1,000, a drop of 2.9 per cent from the 1973 figures.

Milliken Favors Open Meetings

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has strongly supported a tough open meeting law, warning that he could not accept a bill allowing public bodies to hold closed-door sessions routinely.

Milliken on Tuesday criticized weakening amendments added to an open meetings bill in the Senate. He supported lawmakers who have fought — so far unsuccessfully — to provide for only limited executive sessions.

Michigan courts have interpreted the state's law "in a manner that is most reasonable," Milliken said. He cautioned that several bills before the legislature to spell out the law in more detail must be watched carefully to protect against weakening the law.

"The law very definitely needs further clarification and strengthening — but it certainly does not need to be weakened," Milliken said in remarks prepared for delivery to the Michigan Association of Broadcasters' winter meeting.

The major debate over open meetings has come in the Senate, where a bill sponsored by Sen. David Plawocki, D-Detroit Heights, has been the target of weakening amendments.

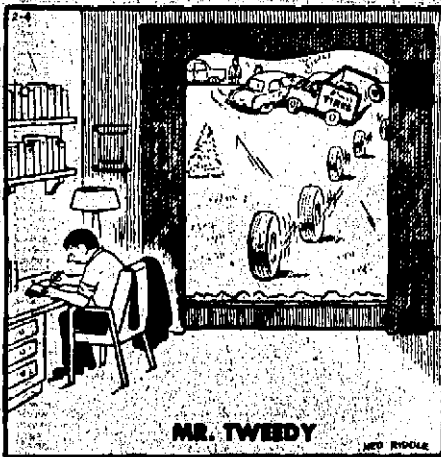

It would require open meetings in most cases, although it permits closed meetings to discuss personnel matters, collective bargaining strategy and a few other issues. That was widened considerably, however, to include "social get-togethers and informational sessions."

Milliken called the Plawocki bill "a good bill in its original form, but it has been amended in a manner that would greatly damage the intent of the original bill."

"Under these amendments, government bodies are given such great leeway in defining open meeting situations that the law would become all but meaningless," the governor said.

Milliken said such general terms can be "easily circumvented," and said he opposed the version now before the Senate.

Other open meetings bills — some of which would virtually outlaw any closed-door sessions altogether — are under discussion in a House committee.

Milliken Favors Open Meetings

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has strongly supported a tough open meeting law, warning that he would not accept a bill allowing public bodies to hold closed-door sessions routinely.

Milliken on Tuesday criticized weakening amendments added to an open meetings bill in the Senate. He supported lawmakers who have fought — so far unsuccessfully — to provide for only limited executive sessions.

Michigan courts have interpreted the state's law "in a manner that is most reasonable," Milliken said. He cautioned that several bills before the legislature to spell out the law in more detail must be watched carefully to protect against weakening the law.

"The law very definitely needs further clarification and strengthening — but it certainly does not need to be weakened," Milliken said in remarks prepared for delivery to the Michigan Association of Broadcasters' winter meeting.

The major debate over open meetings has come in the Senate, where a bill sponsored by Sen. David Plawecki, D-Deerborn Heights, has been the target of weakening amendments.

It would require open meetings in most cases, although it permits closed meetings to discuss personnel matters, collective bargaining strategy and a few other issues. That was widened considerably, however, to include social get-togethers and informational sessions.

Milliken called the Plawecki bill "a good bill in its original form, but it has been amended in a manner that would greatly damage the intent of the original bill."

"Under these amendments, government bodies are given such great leeway in defining open meeting situations that the law would become all but meaningless," the governor said.

Milliken said such general terms can be "easily circumvented," and said he opposed the version now before the Senate.

Other open meetings bills — some of which would virtually outlaw any closed-door sessions altogether — are under discussion in a House committee.

Twin Cities Industrial Management Classes To Begin

The spring semester of the Industrial Management Training Program (IMTF) will begin the week of Feb. 16 in the Twin Cities area, according to an announcement by Walter B. Laetz, vice president and secretary of Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, chairman of the program.

Laetz said the training program is an affiliate of the Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and has 19 evening classes scheduled for a period of 8 to 10 weeks. Information on individual classes is being mailed this week to 324 local companies with registration forms and schedules of courses. He said enrollments are accepted only through firms and not from individuals. Deadline for registration is Feb. 13.

The courses are divided into two curricula — industrial technology and industrial supervision.

Chairmen who helped develop the spring semester courses are Les Bodtke, personnel manager, Ball Corporation Rubber division, chairman of the industrial supervision courses committee; and Jack Wilson, manager of personnel and labor relations, Bendix Hydraulics division, chairman of the industrial technical courses committee.

Now to this year's schedule are five courses: Engineering Use of Business Computers; Intermediate COBOL Programming; Law for Designers and Engineers; Basic Metallurgy; and Understanding RPG Computer Programming.

The purpose of Engineering Use of Business Computers is to help engineers to better understand and use computers. Intermediate COBOL Programming is a continuation of the "Introduction to COBOL Programming" course presented last fall. Topics will include COBOL data types, use of sequential files, more procedure division verbs, consideration of efficiency, debugging and flow charting.

Law for Designers and Engineers will consist of five presentations by experts on the following major topics: liability, patents, commercial contracts, anti-trust, and professional engineers law review.

Basic Metallurgy is a program designed to correlate the principles of basic metallurgy in the practical industrial practice in metal casting and metal working industries.

Understanding RPG Computer Programming introduces managers to data processing and acquaints them with computer concepts and terminology. This program is designed to teach a supervisor how to obtain job-related information from a programmer.

The list of courses, instructors, and days are: Accounting for Non-Accountants, Bruce Schiadder, Benton Harbor school system, Monday; Communicating Technical Information, Bruce Capes, Heath company, Thursday; Digital Electronics (Basic), Bob Ashton, Heath, Tuesday; Elements of Hydraulics (Basic), Robert L. Mendenhall and Steve Starnes, Clark Equipment company, Monday; Engineering Use of Business Computers, Mike Sumwalt, Clark, Thursday; Industrial Psychology for Supervisors (Advanced), Roland Johnson, Whirlpool corporation, Thursday; Instructing the Worker on the Job, Rene Barolucci, Auto Specialties Manufacturing company, Wednesday; Intermediate COBOL Programming, Tom Allen, Bendix corporation, Wednesday.

Also, Interviewing Techniques for Supervisors, Jack Huffman, Gast Manufacturing corporation, Wednesday; Interpretation of Mechanical Engineering Layouts, Robert G.

Kiehn, Clark, Wednesday; Introduction to COBOL Programming, Sue Janisch, Whirlpool, Tuesday; Introductory Electronics, Jim Cooperider, Heath, Monday; Law for Designers and Engineers, Dan Kella, Clark,

Wednesday; General Mathematics Review, Gene Ross, Clark, Wednesday; Basic Metallurgy, Dennis Hlathein, Bendix, Wednesday; Project Scheduling, Robert Landeck, Clark, Wednesday; Understanding RPG

Computer Programming, J. Rodger Peck, Michigan Standard Alloys, Inc., Wednesday; Techniques of Supervision, Wilbur Milligan, Thursday; and Women in Business, Vance Shaw, Whirlpool, Monday.

Jumps To Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite pleas from horrified tourists, a Queens man plunged to his death from the 86th-floor observation deck of the Empire State Building, police report.

The victim, Ronald Radetz, 26, apparently waited until the two guards on duty Tuesday afternoon were out of sight and then climbed on top of a four-foot guard rail.

Mail Truck Driver Is Injured

LAKESIDE — A postal service truck driver escaped serious injury this morning when the mail truck he was driving slammed into an overpass support on I-94 east of here.

Bobby Wilson, 40, of Chicago, was treated for minor injuries at St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind., and later released.

State police from the New Buffalo post said Wilson was trapped momentarily in the demolished cab of the truck.

Troopers said Wilson was driving the rig east on the interstate when a left front tire blew and he lost control of the truck. The truck slammed into the East road overpass in Chikaming township shortly after 5 a.m. today, police said.

All mail on the truck was intact and arrangements were being made to transport it late this morning, police said.

Three Niles Brothers Found In Utah

NILES — Three young Niles township brothers reported missing since Dec. 3 have been found in Salt Lake City, Utah, law-enforced and with their father, Niles township police said.

Police said they learned that the three Morrell brothers, Danny and Dean, both 14, and Randy, 13, are with their father, Harold Morrell, in Salt Lake City.

Police said investigation of the case has been turned over to Berrien county juvenile authorities. The boys' mother, Mrs. Peter Segarra of Niles, is legal guardian for the three boys, police said.

House OKs Employe Politics Bill

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill allowing all public employees to participate in politics is on its way through the legislature, but could face opposition from the governor.

The House passed the measure 81-24 Tuesday and sent it to the Senate with an effective date of April 1977.

An almost identical bill was vetoed by Gov. William Milliken last year. After Tuesday's vote, Milliken's chief legislative aide, C. Patrick Babcock, said the substance of the bill isn't much different from the one that was vetoed last year. But Babcock said the governor has taken no stand on the latest version.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Kalamazoo, sponsor of both measures, said the latest bill provides virtually the same things as the original, but is written differently in an attempt to meet Milliken's objections.

In his veto message last year, Milliken said the bill might directly conflict with the civil service, which has power over classified employees. The Civil Service Commission has rules prohibiting political activity by employees.

Wolpe said the new bill is written so that if there is a court challenge to the section allowing state civil service employees to participate in politics, the remainder of the bill applying to public employees of local governments will remain valid.

He also said that he is willing to have the bill amended in the Senate to ask the state Supreme Court for an opinion on the bill's constitutionality.

Milliken also noted in his veto message that heavy political activity by public employees is a departure from the traditional approach.

The bill would allow public employees to join political party committees; become delegates to state, district, or county conventions held by political parties in Michigan; become candidates for elective office without obtaining leaves of absence from their jobs; and engage in other political activities on behalf of a candidate or issue.

However, the bill requires an employee of a local unit of government or school district to resign or take a leave of absence if he is elected to an office within that local unit of government or school district.

The bill also prohibits employees from actively engag-

Couple Sues Gas Company For $85,000

A Berrien Springs couple has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking $85,000 damages from Michigan Gas Utilities Co. for injuries the husband allegedly sustained when he fell into a ditch.

The plaintiffs, Eugene and Dorothy Caraway, formerly of Bridgman, claim the gas company dug a ditch on the Caraway property in Bridgman in December, 1972, to install a pressure regulator to provide gas service.

The suit contends the husband was walking near the uncovered ditch on Feb. 4, 1973, when the ground gave way and he fell into the ditch, aggravating a former back injury which required spinal surgery.

The suit charges the gas company should have filled in the ditch and was negligent in not posting warning signs.

Hubert's 'Illness' Is Termed A Malicious Rumor

Q: What is this about Hubert Humphrey having throat cancer? — C.D., Arlington, Va.

A: This malicious rumor becomes more rife every time it's denied. But HHH says it's definitely not so and when reporters Alex Cockburn and Jim Ridgeway checked it out, they also came up with a negative. Since Humphrey was candid about his operation for a bladder tumor several years ago, he'd surely be candid about any serious illness now. We believe Humphrey is okay.

Q: I understand that Patricia Neal has been having trouble with her daughter, Tessa. Have they patched it up? — U.O., Ames, Iowa.

A: Things are still a bit chilly. Tessa, 18, left home hardly a year ago and has since been involved in at least four admitted love affairs, including one with thing, the irresistible Jill St. John lives there.

Q: I understand that the marriage of Mia Farrow and Andrew Fria is in some trouble. What's happening? — H.U., Ogden, Utah.

A: The glamorous couple who have five children (two adopted Viet orphans), recently experienced some problems but everything is okay now. It seems that after conducting a concert Andre needs someone to talk to in order to relieve his tensions, but he prefers a sympathetic woman. Since Mia is often away acting somewhere, he has had to enlist substitutes. Now that Mia understands, all is forgiven. Somehow, she had gotten the wrong idea about those night jete-a-letes.

Q: I've lost track of actor John Phillip Law, the gorgeous blond in that movie, "The Russians Are Coming." Where is he? — R.O., Macon, Ga.

A: Law is working in Rome in a movie right now. But you'd never recognize him. He's become a total vegetarian (mainly nuts and berries) and is a gaunt version of the winner he once was.

Hubert's 'Illness' Is Termed A Malicious Rumor

Q: What is this about Hubert Humphrey having throat cancer?
— C.D. Arlington, Va.

A: This malicious rumor becomes more rife every time it's denied. thing, the irresistible Jill St. John lives there.

Q: I understand that the marriage of Mia Farrow and Andrew Previn is in some trouble. What's happening? — H.U., Ogden, Utah.

A: The glamorous couple who have five children (two adopted Viet orphans), recently experienced some problems but everything is okay now. It seems that after conducting a concert Andre needs someone to talk to in order to relieve his tensions, but he prefers a sympathetic woman. Since Mia is with Peter Sellers, and has refused to stay in school. Patricia, who once had a well-publicized three-year affair with Gary Cooper, says she is not against romance but thinks Tessa's crowded schedule is beginning to look like promiscuity. And that, scolds Patricia, is too much of a good thing.

Q: I believe that Dr. David Reuben, the "Everything You Ever Wanted to Know About Sex" psychiatrist, used to treat

PATRICIA NEAL
Cool toward Tessa

some movie stars. Does he still have Hollywood people as patients?

 — J.G., Rumson, N.J.

A: Dr. Reuben, who has made a fortune from his various books, no longer practices psychiatry but concentrates solely on his writing. The doctor bought a house in Costa Rica and lives there now with his wife and three children.

Q: How is Tony Curtis' career going now that he's back in

DR. DAVID REUBEN

Hollywood from England? — M.L., Key West, Fla.

A: Tony got a big boost when he was chosen to play the part of Rodriguez in the up-coming film of Scott Fitzgerald's novel about Hollywood, "The Last Tycoon." The character was added to the story by scriptwriter Harold Pinter, who invented a Latin-lover type film star who had grown up as a Jewish boy in the Bronx. Said director Elia Kazan to Curtis, "You are Rodriguez."

Q: What's happened to Michael Douglas since he and Brenda Vaccaro broke up? — J.T., Miami, Fla.

A: The actor who co-produced "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is really happy with his freedom and his film's success. He recently visited New York with a new 19-year-old girlfriend and is now considering buying a house in Aspen, Colorado. Why? Well, for one often away acting somewhere, he has had to enlist substitutes. Now that Mia understands, all is forgiven. Somehow, she had gotten the wrong idea about those night tete-a-tetes.

Q: I've lost track of actor John Phillip Law, the gorgeous blond in that movie, "The Russians Are Coming." Where is he? — R.O., Macon, Ga.

A: Law is working in Rome in a movie right now. But you'd never recognize him. He's become a total vegetarian (mainly nuts and berries) and is a gaunt version of the winner he once was.

Recreation Council Offers Permanent Watervliet Site

WATERVLIET — A proposal for expansion of the Watervliet recreation council's summer program to include a permanent recreation site was submitted to the Watervliet city commission last night. Presley Olson, council chairman, told commissioners that if a permanent site was established the council would then be eligible for federal matching funds to expand recreation offerings.

Olson reported that over 800 Watervliet area adults and children have participated in the 1975 program that included 17 different athletic activities. He suggested the council consider selecting either Hays park or city-owned land northwest of town known as the Lewis addition as recreation sites.

Proposed for consideration was at least one tennis court, a concession stand which would bring revenue to the program and fencing around baseball fields.

Introduced as the new director of the program was Ken Marzka, a Watervliet middle school teacher and varsity basketball coach. He replaces Alan Avery who resigned to devote more time to coaching.

In presenting his program for 1978, Olson also expressed appreciation to the city, Watervliet township, Watervliet Combined Appeal, Watervliet Girls and Boys Softball and Baseball groups, Bainbridge township, the Knights of Columbus, Wolverine Fruit, First National Bank and the Watervliet schools for donating funds for facilities to the program.

City commissioners directed the park's committee to study the council's proposals.

In other business, Commissioner Al Steffens announced that letters will be mailed soon to city civic and social organizations and all groups who might be interested in serving on a city Bicentennial commission.

He said tentatively the group plans a July 4 parade and dedication of the Stiermer Mill park, south of St. Joseph street near Mill creek.

Mayor Arvid Frazier asked residents to cooperate with city snow removal crews by parking their cars on their own property and not parking on city streets overnight. He also asked citizens to volunteer to shovel out fire hydrants so snow won't be blocking them.

Commissioner Charles Burress as chairman of the police and safety committee reported the complaint concerning an auto repair business operating on West Parsons street has been investigated and that the three-car garage does fit in the present zoning for the site. He also said the property owner is not doing commercial work.

In other reports Don Muth, city administrator, told commissioners the new water tank construction will probably start in April, not January as expected and the city is almost out of salt for spreading on icy streets due to the unavailability of salt. He added that sand will be used for the rest of the winter.

Commissioner Richard Fox announced that 10 volunteers are now working with the joint city and township ambulance crew of three regular emergency medical technicians. He said 16 calls had been answered by the service in January.

Taken under study was a suggestion from Commissioner Sandra Pritchett that the city have a rummage sale ordinance.

A special meeting was set for Feb. 17 at city hall to consider proposals for the ambulance program.

Railroad Viaduct Study Approved

THREE OAKS — Three Oaks village council last night approved a study to determine if the 77-year-old Hickory street railroad viaduct should be repaired or removed and a grade crossing be built instead.

The council, meeting two days ahead of its regular first Thursday of the month meeting date, instructed its engineering firm, Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph, to make the study. The firm was also instructed to assist the council in determining if a federal grant is available to help finance the proposed project.

The viaduct, which spans Penn Central railroad tracks, is in need of major repair or replacement, the council said. Because replacement costs would be high, the possibility of a grade crossing is also to be examined, it added.

In other areas, the council approved sale of three pieces of fire-fighting equipment to the

Jailed Man Taken To Hospital

A Benton Harbor man who allegedly struggled with city police while being arrested early today was hospitalized with an undisclosed illness after spending about three hours in the Berrien county jail.

Reported in "satisfactory" condition today at Berrien General hospital, Berrien Center, was Jess John Richardson, 61, of 115 Water street, Michigan hotel. Hospital officials declined to reveal the nature of Richardson's illness and the attending physician could not be reached for comment this morning.

A report filed by Berrien sheriff's deputy John Gast indicated a "possible heart attack." Richardson was taken to the hospital by Rampart ambulance at 4:35 a.m.

Benton Harbor patrolmen James Spaulo, Kenneth Barts and Lloyd Hughes said Richardson was booked at the jail on a charge of obstructing a police officer in his duty. Police were called to a room at the hotel with a report of a disturbance. Richardson allegedly interfered with officers questioning a woman about the 1 a.m. incident. Officers reported chemical spray was used to subdue the man when he struggled with officers. No other arrests were made, police said.

Fire-Hit Firm Eyes Recovery

ST. CHARLES, Mich. (AP) — Officials at Browning AeroCraft Marine Co., the village's largest employer, say they hope to be back to full production of fiberglass boats within a month or less.

The company's laminating department building, where fiberglass is formed into boats on molds, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin Monday with an estimated loss of $400,000.

highest bidders. They were a 1920 fire truck chassis to Mike Shearer, $128; a 1949 pumper truck to William Priest, $362; and a 1968 jeep to the New Buffalo fire department, $1,000.

The equipment was replaced with the recent purchase of a $22,000 mini-pumper truck to combat grass and car fires.

Purchase of a two-way radio for the new truck from Monroe Electronics Service, Benton Harbor, at an approximate cost of $650, was approved.

The council voted to donate $100 to the Miss Three Oaks contest; approve building inspector J.S. Wolfe's recommendation that a building permit be issued to W.E. Robertson, Lakeside, to convert a former commercial apartment; building at the corner of Paw its budget by increasing allotments to the park and recreation and fire departments by $1,200 and $500 respectively.

Ford States Abortion Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abortion is emerging as a key presidential campaign issue, although the winner in November, whoever he may be, will have little to say about its resolution. The emotional tenor of the controversy has led most candidates to stake out carefully worded positions, some of which tend to straddle the issue by embracing positions on both sides. President Ford became the latest presidential candidate to address the issue, saying in a recorded CBS television interview Tuesday that he wants the abortion question thrown back to the states. By contrast, Ronald Reagan, his opponent for the GOP presidential nomination, wants a constitutional amendment to establish a national ban on abortion.

Ford indicated he was sympathetic to a constitutional amendment, without calling for one.

Regulating The Wires

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has voted to give the state Public Service Commission power to regulate telephone companies. Under two bills approved 24-4 Tuesday and sent to the House, the PSC would have the power to set standards of service and regulations and approve rates for any telegraph company operating in Michigan. Telegraph companies are now regulated by the federal government, which would continue to set interstate rates. But the PSC could set standards for service in Michigan and rule on rates within the state.

School Closings Mount

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan school closings this year may catch up to the 1970-71 mark if blizzards, sub-zero temperatures and plain bad winter weather continue. State school officials don't get reports on so-called "Acts of God" closings until the end of the school year so they don't know how many schools have been shut down by weather this year. But they say there probably have been a batch of closings because of bad weather so far. In the 1970-71 school year, such "Acts of God" closed schools in the state's 624 districts for a total of 3,210 days, or for 2.87 per cent of the time; state officials said. In 1971-72, nature closed schools 1,330 days, or 1.23 per cent of the time; in 1972-73, some 1,705 days, or 1.88 per cent of the time; and in 1974-75, the state's 600 districts were closed 1,674 days or 1.46 per cent of the time.

SMC Trustees Okay New Aide For President

DOWAGIAC — The Southwestern Michigan college board of trustees last night approved the appointment of Dr. Robert Kovach as assistant to SMC President Dr. Russell M. Owen. Kovach, 52, is at present the assistant secretary for the Michigan Community College association in Lansing.

He will have a variety of duties in his new job which will pay $22,600 a year and begin early this summer, according to Dr. Owen.

Kovach will administer the college's institutional research and planning program and will direct the preparation of applications to secure federal, state and foundation grants.

He will also direct the school's new data processing program and the college's public information and affairs office.

In addition, he will serve as executive director of the SMC foundation and undertake special projects assigned by Dr. Owen.

Kovach is a graduate of Central Michigan university and received his Ph.D. degree from Michigan State university with a major in higher education.

In other areas, the board approved a resolution of support for the area vocational skills center proposed to serve Cass county's high school students. County voters will be asked to approve a bond issue for the $2.2 million facility on March 15.

The center, if approved, would be built on campus land donated by SMC. The board, in its resolution, termed the center an economical and practical way to train high school students in basic vocational and technical skills.

The board opened three bids for general comprehensive insurance to cover a three-year period. The apparent low bidder was the Weaver Insurance agency of Dowagiac at $14,840 annually. The other bids came from the Amersdorfer, Willis agency, Dowagiac, at $17,000, and from Guy Eby Insurance, Cassopolis, at $19,241. The administration was authorized to accept the low bid if it meets specifications.

The board accepted grants to the college as follows: $100 each from Robert P. Noff, Richard D. Weinman and David C. Schultz, all of Dowagiac; and to the Vern Slinger Memorial, contributions totaling $500.

Mrs. Slinger, now deceased, of Edwardsburg, was a nursing student at the college last fall.

Guatemala City was destroyed in December 1917, by a large earthquake. The last major earthquake in Central America occurred on Dec. 23, 1976, when 10,000 people were killed in Managua, Nicaragua, about 315 miles south of Guatemala City.

Four hours after the quake hit the Guatemalan capital was still without electricity.

Guatemala, in Central America at the southern end of Mexico, is somewhat smaller than North Carolina.

Guatemala City, the heart of the highlands, is at an altitude of nearly 5,000 feet and is surrounded by emerald green hills.

The country is known as "the land of eternal spring" because of its pleasant climate, and Guatemala City has become a bustling capital because of tourism and a good market for Guatemalan beef in the United States.

KEELER TOWNSHIP Junk Car Removal Progress Reported

KEELER — The Keeler township board learned last night that Donald Tillman had removed about 25 junked cars from his property on 84th avenue.

Last month, the board instructed Tillman to remove the estimated 80 autos from his property which neighbors complained were an eyesore and in violation of the township's blight ordinance.

Tillman, who was present at last night's meeting, said he was unable to remove the rest of the autos because of snow. Board members said he must complete the clearing operation when weather conditions improved.

In other areas, the board approved paying about $250 to the Van Duren commission on aging to help fund proposed bus transportation two days a week for senior citizens and handicapped people in the township. The service is expected to start in April, according to John Gillesby, township supervisor.

The commission had requested annual funding from the township at the rate of 10 cents per township resident. The $250 would meet the 10-cent per capita rate, Gillesby said. Bus riders are to be charged 50 cents a ride for the service.

The board announced there will be a public hearing Feb. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Keeler township fire station for a review of the proposed township zoning ordinance. The board authorized its attorney, John Spielman of St. Joseph, to review the ordinance prior to the hearing.

The board reappointed three members to the zoning board for three-year terms. They were James Heeler, Stanley Gekker and John Ruessell.

The board appointed Conrad Seigrist of Sister Lakes to represent Keeler township on the county commission on aging.

Gillesby announced that plaques will be made for Territorial road (CR-352) which will outline the history of the road which started out as an Indian trail from Benton Harbor to Kalamazoo. Gillesby said the road was improved in 1936 with federal funds and designated a territorial road.

Recreation Council Offers Permanent Watervliet Site

WATERVLIET — A proposal for expansion of the Watervliet recreation council's summer program to include a permanent recreation site was submitted to the Watervliet city commission last night. Presley Olson, council chairman, told commissioners that if a permanent site was established the council would then be eligible for federal matching funds to expand recreation offerings.

Ivan Price Resigns As Supervisor

BUCHANAN — Buchanan township Supervisor Ivan Price said today that he has resigned the supervisor's post after being named Berrien county drain commissioner yesterday.

Price, supervisor of the township since 1947, said his resignation was effective at 11:59 p.m. Monday.

A new township supervisor will have to be appointed by the four members of the township board to fill out the remainder of Price's term which expires in November of this year.

Price said a special meeting of the board has not yet been called to act on the resignation, but the meeting could be set when township officials meet tonight to consider a master township zoning plan.

The new supervisor would have to seek election to the $6,900 per year post in the November general election, Price said.

Bargaining Bill Delayed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A last-minute move from the governor's office has delayed committee action on a bill giving State Police collective bargaining and binding arbitration rights.

The House Committee on Constitutional Revision and Women's Rights was planning to vote Tuesday on whether to send the bill to the House with recommendation it pass.

But 30 minutes before the committee meeting began, the sponsor, Rep. Thaddeus Stojczynski, D-Detroit, learned of a request from Milliken to wait until after the Feb. 20 meeting of the state Civil Service Commission before considering the bill.

On that date, the four-member panel appointed by the governor will consider a proposal to allow collective bargaining rights, but not binding arbitration, for all civil service employees. The governor also announced his support for a resolution urging the commission to adopt a 20 per cent pay increase for State Police. The committee postponed further consideration of the bill until Feb. 24.

Shortage Charged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state of Michigan has threatened the financial future of some half million public school employees by underfunding a retirement plan by up to $90 million, a lawsuit charges.

The suit in the state Court of Appeals contends the state legislature, Gov. William Milliken and other top officials with underfunding the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System during the last two fiscal years. The estimate of underfunding in the lawsuit is $80 million to $90 million.

Filed Monday by a number of public school employees, the lawsuit says that last year Milliken ordered, and the legislature approved, cutbacks in payments to the fund and that the process was repeated this year.

The suit asks that the Court of Appeals order the state to repay the money, but state officials are wondering where the funds would come from.

The money sought in the suit is part of a so-called $1.5 billion debt the state allegedly owes to the fund for financial reserves it failed to build up between 1945 and 1963.

All employees of elementary and high schools, community colleges and many four-year colleges are covered by the system, which currently holds some $2.4 billion.

Surviving are two sons, Fred, Clearwater, Fla., and James, Brooksville, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Cecil (Mina) Rosenow, Ft. Myers, Fla., and Mrs. Lois Barron, Fennville. A son William and a daughter Gertrude preceded him in death. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Sophia L. Jacobs of Redlands, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in Chappell funeral home, Fennville. Burial will be in Fennville cemetery, where masonic rites will be conducted.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Maurice Green

DOWAGIAC — Maurice W. Green, 75, of route 3, Dowagiac, formerly of South Bend, Ind., died Tuesday at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac.

He was born Aug. 3, 1900, in Cass County, Michigan. He was a lawyer with the Hobbs and Green Law Office, South Bend, Ind., and retired in 1974 to live in Dowagiac on the family farm. He was a member of the American Bar Association.

His wife, the former Dorothy Taft, survives. Also surviving are two sons, M. Warner Green, Jr., Fairfield, Iowa, Robert Green, Dowagiac, and a daughter, Mrs. Howard (Mary Jane) Burdett, East Tawas, Mich.

Funeral services will be held Friday, at 2 p.m., at McLaughlin-Clark funeral home. Burial will be in South Wayne cemetery. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Thursday.

John Scott

DOWAGIAC — John Scott, 57, of route 2, Dowagiac, owner of John Scott Insurance, Dowagiac, died suddenly Tuesday evening at Lee Memorial hospital.

Ford States Abortion Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abortion is emerging as a key presidential campaign issue, although the winner in November, whoever he may be, will have little to say about its resolution. The emotional tenor of the controversy has led most candidates to stake out carefully worded positions, some of which tend to straddle the issue by embracing positions on both sides. President Ford became the latest presidential candidate to address the issue, saying in a recorded CBS television interview Tuesday that he wants the abortion question thrown back to the states. By contrast, Ronald Reagan, his opponent for the GOP presidential nomination, wants a constitutional amendment to establish a national ban on abortion.

Ford indicated he was sympathetic to a constitutional amendment, without calling for one.

Regulating The Wires

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has voted to give the state Public Service Commission power to regulate Western Union in the same manner it regulates telephone companies. Under two bills approved 29-4 Tuesday and sent to the House, the PSC would have the power to set standards of service and regulations and approve rates for any telegraph company operating in Michigan. Telegraph companies are now regulated by the federal government, which would continue to set interstate rates. But the PSC could set standards for service in Michigan and rule on rates within the state.

School Closings Mount

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan school closings this year may catch up to the 1970-71 mark if blizzards, sub-zero temperatures and plain bad winter weather continue. State school officials don't get reports on so-called "Act of God" closings until the end of the school year so they don't know now how many schools have been shut down by weather this year. But they say there probably have been a batch of closings because of bad weather so far. In the 1970-71 school year, such "Acts of God" closed schools in the state's 624 districts for a total of 3,210 days, or for 2.87 per cent of the time, state officials said. In 1971-72, nature closed schools 1,330 days, or 1.23 per cent of the time; in 1972-73, some 1,705 days or 1.58 per cent of the time; and in 1974-75, the state's 590 districts were closed 1,574 days or 1.48 per cent of the time.

SMC Trustees Okay New Aide For President

DOWAGIAC — The Southwestern Michigan college board of trustees last night approved the appointment of Dr. Robert Kovach as assistant to SMC President Dr. Russell M. Owen. Kovach, 52, is at present the assistant secretary for the Michigan Community College association in Lansing.

He will have a variety of duties in his new job which will pay $22,500 a year and begin early this summer, according to Dr. Owen.

Kovach will administer the college's institutional research and planning program and will direct the preparation of applications to secure federal, state and foundation grants.

He will also direct the school's new data processing program and the college's public information and affairs office.

In addition, he will serve as executive director of the SMC foundation and undertake special projects assigned by Dr. Owen.

Kovach is a graduate of Central Michigan university and received his Ph.D. degree from Michigan State university with a major in higher education.

In other areas, the board approved a resolution of support for the area vocational skills center proposed to serve Cass county's high school students. County voters will be asked to approve a bond issue for the $2.2 million facility on March 15.

The center, if approved, would be built on campus land donated by SMC. The board, in its resolution, termed the center an economical and practical way to train high school students in basic vocational and technical skills.

The board opened three bids for general comprehensive insurance to cover a three-year period. The apparent low bidder was the Weaver Insurance agency of Dowagiac at $14,849 annually. The other bids came from the Amersdorfer - Wiltse agency, Dowagiac, at $17,008, and from Guy Eby Insurance, Cassopolis, at $19,241. The administration was authorized to accept the low bid if it meets specifications.

The board accepted grants to the college as follows: $100 each from Robert P. Neff, Richard D. Weinman and David C. Schultz, all of Dowagiac; and to the Vera Slager Memorial, contributions totalling $500.

Mrs. Slager, now deceased, of Edwardsburg, was a nursing student at the college last fall.

KEELER TOWNSHIP

Junk Car Removal Progress Reported

KEELER — The Keeler township board learned last night that Donald Tillman had removed about 25 junked cars from his property on 84th avenue.

Last month, the board instructed Tillman to remove the estimated 60 autos from his property which neighbors complained were an eyesore and in violation of the township's blight ordinance.

Tillman, who was present at last night's meeting, said he was unable to remove the rest of the autos because of snow. Board members said he must complete the clearing operation when weather conditions improved.

In other areas, the board approved paying about $230 to the Van Buren commission on aging to help fund proposed bus transportation two days a week for senior citizens and handicapped people in the township. The service is expected to start in April, according to John Gillesby, township supervisor.

The commission had requested annual funding from the township at the rate of 10 cents per township resident. The $230 would meet the 10-cent per capita rate, Gillesby said. Bus riders are to be charged 50 cents a ride for the service.

The board announced there will be a public hearing Feb. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Keeler township fire station for a review of the proposed township zoning ordinance. The board authorized its attorney, John Spelman of St. Joseph, to review the ordinance prior to the hearing.

The board reappointed three members to the zoning board for three-year terms. They were James Heeter, Stanley Geisler and John Rosevelt.

The board appointed Conrad Seigrist of Sister Lakes to represent Keeler township

Clark 1975 Sales Hit $1.424 Billion

BUCHANAN — Clark Equipment company today reported sales of $1.424 billion in 1975 and net income of $36.6 million, or $3.43 a share.

This compares with 1974 sales of $1.371 billion and net income of $50.1 million or $3.68 per share. Net income for 1975 includes losses of $15 million in the United Kingdom. Net income for 1974 included a gain of $6.6 million 49 cents per share in sale of a Japanese investment. Without this non-operating profit, 1974 full-year income was $43.5 million or $3.19 per share.

For the fourth quarter of 1975, Clark sales were $340.5 million and net income was $7.8 million or 58 cents per share. In the fourth quarter of 1974, sales were $306.6 million and net income was $10.8 million or 79 cents per share.

Bert E. Phillips, president and chief executive officer of Clark, said, "Sales and operating income were higher for the full year 1975 than for 1974, despite continuing declines in the incoming order rates throughout 1975 in most of our product lines, particularly in our industrial lift truck business.

"The lower sales and income in the fourth quarter reflect reductions in production schedules as a result of these lower order rates," he said. "Unit shipments decreased in most product lines, and the four per cent increase in sales for 1975 was largely due to price increases," Phillips pointed out.

Phillips also said, exceptionally strong performance by our construction machinery group and our general products group offset the severe profit erosion suffered by the material handling group in 1975.

"Although this segment of Clark's business will report sharply reduced income for the full year 1975, we are pleased that our two major groups were able to provide balance to the company's total operations," he said. "Also, with increases in the incoming order rate for lift trucks, improved production facilities and the absence of further United Kingdom losses, we project substantially improved profit margins for our Material Handling Group in 1976."

Phillips said that in reorganizing its businesses in the United Kingdom, Clark is closing segments which have long record of unprofitability. The $15 million loss in the U.K. in 1975 includes a $8 million provision for these closings. This ensures that losses similar to those in 1975 will not recur. The reorganization plans anticipate retaining interests in the van carrier business, continuing the crane business through Crown Cranes Ltd., a 50 per cent owned joint venture, and discontinuing hydraulic crane manufacturing at Cambridge, England.

When these plans are completed, Clark will remain in the United Kingdom markets through independent dealers and distributors. Clark lift trucks, tractor shovels and other construction machinery will be supplied to these markets from factories in other areas of the world, primarily the United States and Europe.

Phillips said, "although we entered 1976 at low levels, we anticipate an upturn on the second half of 1976. Capital goods companies such as Clark traditionally lag general economic swings by about six months, so while the general business picture seems to be brightening, we expect the first six months of 1976 to be at lower levels for Clark."

EDWIN WILLARD
Named to Niles post

New postmasters for the Buchanan and Niles post offices have been named by the postal service.

Oscar S. Crocker, 48, of Bridgman, has been named to replace Gene Wesner as postmaster at Buchanan. The new postmaster at Niles is Edwin F. Willard, 48, of Niles. Willard replaces Gerald Leet.

Both Leet and Wesner retired last summer.

John Van Eck, postmaster/manager in charge of operations at the Kalamazoo postal sectional center, also announced the appointment of Gordon Mangold, assistant Three Oaks postmaster, as officer-in-charge of the Gallen post office, and the appointment of George Lewandowski, formerly an accounting assistant at Dowagiac, as postal operations manager at Edwardsburg.

Crocker joined the postal service in 1943 as a part-time employee and became a fulltime employee in 1948. He was officer-in-charge of the Gallen post office for seven months prior to the Buchanan appointment, and assistant Bridgman postmaster for 11 years before being assigned to the Gallen post.

Crocker and his wife, Dorothea, live at 4314 Lake street in Bridgman. They have three children.

Willard was first employed by the postal service in 1943 as a part-time worker, and became a fulltime employee in 1948. He was superintendent of postal operations for Niles before being named postmaster.

Willard and his wife, Maudie, live at 1606 Lake street in Niles. They have four children.

Mangold was officer-in-charge of the Buchanan post office prior to Crocker's appointment. Gallen postmaster Lewis Walls is on an extended leave of absence due to illness, Van Eck said, causing Mangold's assignment there.

General Telephone To Offer Special 'Life Line' Service

SOUTH HAVEN — General Telephone company plans to offer a special limited residential service called "Life Line" in its Dowagiac and South Haven exchanges before the end of 1976, according to John Ver Beek, division manager.

The new service is designed for those who make very limited use of their telephone, but who want basic services available for reasons of security, emergency or other generally limited uses, said Ver Beek.

The company recently completed installation of the required specialized equipment necessary for the service in the Dowagiac and South Haven central offices.

Life Line is a one-party service limited to 30 calls per month at a rate $2 less than the normal one-party rate in an exchange. In both exchanges the rate will be $6.85 per month. Additional local calls over 30 will be 10 cents each.

It's NEWS TODAY in MICHIGAN

Readied For Final Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has put into position for a final vote a bill that would restrict smoking in Michigan hospitals. The bill, which spells out rules to be followed by state hospitals, is part of a package of four bills which also restrict smoking in restaurants, food stores and public meetings. Those bills remained under discussion in the Senate as several lawmakers objected to forcing a restaurant to provide a nonsmoking area even if persons did not ask for it. The hospital bill would require that each patient be asked upon admission if he prefers placement with smokers or nonsmokers. Smoking would be restricted to private rooms, rooms with other smokers or those who didn't care, or designated smoking areas.

No Charges For Sheriff

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Midland County Prosecutor Edward Durance said Tuesday he will not seek criminal action against Sheriff William Maxwell, whose resignation was effective today. Durance said he has been investigating several allegations, including one that Maxwell received a gift about the same time he promoted a deputy to a higher post. Maxwell announced his resignation Monday after firing his undersheriff and an assistant. Durance said he was uncertain whether his investigation of the alleged gift and appointment could have warranted formal charges.

Chrysler Buying VW Parts

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. will buy thousands of four-cylinder engines and manual transmissions from Volkswagenwerk AG for use in 1978 U.S.-built cars under an unprecedented pact between the two auto firms. The agreement, announced Tuesday, is the second of its kind between the West German auto maker and an American car producer in less than a year. American Motors Corp. begins receiving VW engines under a similar arrangement this summer.

Weldun President's Duties Broadened

BRIDGMAN — Merlin Hanson, president of Weldun Tool and Engineering company here, has been installed as secretary-treasurer of the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining association for 1976.

He had been association treasurer.

Installation to the new combined office came at the association's annual convention in Miami, Fla., last week. The association represents 2,100 independently owned tool and die companies across the nation. Its headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

According to the association, the secretary's post was annexed to the treasurer's office to combine the duties.

Fireman Frees Three

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — Quick work by an off-duty fireman may have saved the lives of three Adrian residents on Tuesday. Adrian officials said firemen Jim Kaloff, 38, who was off duty at the time, heard screams coming from a burning home. The fireman rushed into the home to find a mother and two children trapped in a locked bedroom. Officials said Kaloff kicked down the door and freed the family. Adrian fire officials said the mother, Bobbi Bridges, 21, and her children, aged 2 and 4, were taken to a local hospital suffering from second-degree burns.

Ethics Bills Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken signed into law Tuesday two bills which spell out the responsibilities of the Political Ethics Commission and who may serve on it. The signings complete legislation setting up the six-member commission to implement and enforce the state's broad new political ethics law, which starting April 1 will keep a close eye on candidates for public office and lobbyists.

Management Post Filled By Clark

BUCHANAN — James H. Robinson Jr. has been named manager of management information services for Clark Equipment company's axle division here, according to Ted Sharp, assistant to the general manager.

In his new position, Robinson is responsible for information systems development and computer operations for the Buchanan division.

Robinson joins the division after having served Wheelabrator-Frye's material cleaning systems plant in Mishawaka, Ind., as manager of management information systems since 1968. Prior to that, he was manager of data processing for the Union Carbide Stollite division, Kokomo, Ind., for three years and held several marketing posts for IBM in Chicago and Indianapolis, Ind., from 1962 to 1965.

Robinson graduated cum laude from Kenyon college, Gambier, Ohio, and earned his

Lawton 'Going Computer'

LAWTON — The Lawton village council last night approved purchase of an accounting computer to replace the current machine at the village office.

Approval of the purchase was made conditional upon the $6,000 purchase price quoted by the Burroughs's corporation, Kalamazoo, in January, being the same. The price also includes a complete programming and instruction course for two operators.

In other areas, the council rejected all bids submitted for the proposed village hall addition. The council directed Gove & Associates, Kalamazoo architects, to draw up new specifications and plans, which will be given to firms that submitted bids.

The proposed three-room addition, to be built onto the front of village hall, will contain space for the police department, council room, village clerk's office, and a museum.

The council authorized the village public works department to recap village water well No. 2, and do necessary cleaning and repair work on wells No. 3 and 4.

The council directed William Menzies, Paw Paw, a job evaluator, to write a job description and evaluation for the position of village police chief, in case Richard Irons, current police chief, should retire.

Canvassers Make Bangor Recall Results Official

By STEVE McQUOWN
STAFF WRITER

PAW PAW — The Van Buren county board of canvassers yesterday afternoon certified the results of the Bangor school board recall election that ousted five of the seven school board members from their board positions.

Certification of the Monday vote makes the recall of the five official, according to Van Buren County Clerk Charles McDonald.

Recalled were Donald Piper, Dr. Joseph Cooper, Forrest Gough, Richard Krogel and Fred Waite.

Board Members Peggy Phillips and Otto Watkins Jr. were not recall election targets. The vote canvass did not change the preliminary election vote results announced early yesterday morning by election officials.

MacDonald said official vote results, with the first figure representing those in favor of recall, were:

Dr. Cooper, 730 to 539 with 10 spoiled ballots; Gough, 748 to 518 with 11 spoiled; Krogel, 705 to 565 with seven spoiled; Piper, 822 to 445 with 10 spoiled; and Waite, 717 to 552 with 10 spoiled.

The five school board members had been specifically accused of not fully supporting five recommendations from a Blue Ribbon fact finding committee.

One of the recommendations was that Supt. Howard Beyer be asked for his resignation.

Replacements for the five will be made through appointments which will be in effect until the school election in June. Gov. William Milliken would be responsible for naming the appointees.

EDWIN WILLARD
Named to Niles post

New postmasters for the Buchanan and Niles post offices have been named by the postal service.

Oscar S. Crocker, 49, of Bridgman, has been named to replace Gena Wesner as postmaster at Buchanan. The new postmaster at Niles is Edwin F. Willard, 48, of Niles. Willard replaces Gerald Leet.

Both Leet and Wesner retired last summer.

John Van Eck, postmaster/manager in charge of operations at the Kalamazoo postal sectional center, also announced the appointment of Gordon Mangold, assistant Three Oaks postmaster, as officer-in-charge of the Galien post office, and the appointment of George Lewandowski, formerly an accounting assistant at Dowagiac, as postal operations manager at Edwardsburg.

Crocker joined the postal service in 1943 as a part-time employee and became a fulltime employee in 1948. He was officer-in-charge of the Galien post office for seven months prior to the Buchanan appointment, and assistant Bridgman postmaster for 11 years before being assigned to the Galien post.

Crocker and his wife, Dorothea, live at 4314 Lake street in Bridgman. They have three children.

Willard was first employed by the postal service in 1942 as a part-time worker, and became a fulltime employee in 1948. He was superintendent of postal operations for Niles before being named postmaster.

Willard and his wife, Maudie, live at 1606 Lake street in Niles. They have four children.

Mangold was officer-in-charge of the Buchanan post office prior to Crocker's appointment. Galien postmaster Lewis Walls is on an extended leave of absence due to illness, Van Eck said, causing Mangold's assignment there.

General Telephone To Offer Special 'Life Line' Service

SOUTH HAVEN — General Telephone company plans to offer a special limited residential service called "Life Line" in its Dowagiac and South Haven exchanges before the end of 1976, according to John Ver Beek, division manager.

The new service is designed for those who make very limited use of their telephone, but who want basic services available for reasons of security, emergency or other generally-limited uses, said Ver Beek.

The company recently completed installation of the required specialized equipment necessary for the service in the Dowagiac and South Haven central offices.

Life Line is a one-party service limited to 30 calls per month at a rate $2 less than the normal one-party rate in an exchange. In both exchanges the rate will be $6.85 per month. Additional local calls over 30 will be 10 cents each.

It's NEWS TODAY In MICHIGAN

Readied For Final Vote

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has put into position for a final vote a bill that would restrict smoking in Michigan hospitals. The bill, which spells out rules to be followed by state hospitals, is part of a package of four bills which also restrict smoking in restaurants, food stores and public meetings. Those bills remained under discussion in the Senate as several lawmakers objected to forcing a restaurant to provide a nonsmoking area even if persons did not ask for it. The hospital bill would require that each patient be asked upon admission if he prefers placement with smokers or nonsmokers. Smoking would be restricted to private rooms, rooms with other smokers or those who didn't care, or designated smoking areas.

No Charges For Sheriff

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Midland County Prosecutor Edward Durand said Tuesday he will not seek criminal action against Sheriff William Maxwell, whose resignation was effective today. Durand said he has been investigating several allegations, including one that Maxwell received a gift about the same time he promoted a deputy to a higher post. Maxwell announced his resignation Monday after firing his undersheriff and an assistant. Durand said he was uncertain whether his investigation of the alleged gift and appointment could have warranted formal charges.

Chrysler Buying VW Parts

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. will buy thousands of four-cylinder engines and manual transmissions from Volkswagenwerk AG for use in 1978 U.S.-built cars under an unprecedented pact between the two auto firms. The agreement, announced Tuesday, is the second of its kind between the West German auto maker and an American car producer in less than a year. American Motors Corp. begins receiving VW engines under a similar arrangement this summer.

Weldun President's Duties Broadened

BRIDGMAN — Merlin Hanson, president of Weldun Tool and Engineering company here, has been installed as secretary-treasurer of the National Tool, Die and Precision Machining association for 1976.

He had been association treasurer.

Installation to the new combined office came at the association's annual convention in Miami, Fla., last week. The association represents 2,100 independently owned tool and die companies across the nation. Its headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

According to the association, the secretary's post was annexed to the treasurer's office to combine the duties.

Fireman Frees Three

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — Quick work by an off-duty fireman may have saved the lives of three Adrian residents on Tuesday. Adrian officials said firemen Jim Raloff, 38, who was off duty at the time, heard screams coming from a burning home. The fireman rushed into the home to find a mother and two children trapped in a locked bedroom. Officials said Raloff kicked down the door and freed the family. Adrian fire officials said the mother, Bobbi Bridges, 21, and her children, aged 2 and 4, were taken to a local hospital suffering from second-degree burns.

Ethics Bills Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken signed into law Tuesday two bills which spell out the responsibilities of the Political Ethics Commission and who may serve on it. The signings complete legislation setting up the six-member commission to implement and enforce the state's broad new political ethics law, which starting April 1 will keep a close eye on candidates for public office and lobbyists.

Management Post Filled By Clark

BUCHANAN — James H. Robinson Jr. has been named manager of management information services for Clark Equipment company's axle division here, according to Ted Sharp, assistant to the general manager.

In his new position, Robinson is responsible for information systems development and computer operations for the Buchanan division.

Robinson joins the division after having served Wheelabrator-Frye's material cleaning systems plant in Mishawaka, Ind., as manager of management information systems since 1968. Prior to that, he was manager of data processing for the Union Carbide Stellite division, Kokomo, Ind., for three years and held several marketing posts for IBM in Chicago and Indianapolis, Ind., from 1962 to 1965.

Robinson graduated cum laude from Kenyon college, Gambier, Ohio, and earned his

Lawton 'Going Computer'

LAWTON — The Lawton village council last night approved purchase of an accounting computer to replace the current machine at the village office.

Approval of the purchase was made conditional upon the $6,000 purchase price quoted by the Burrough's corporation, Kalamazoo, in January, being the same. The price also includes a complete programming and instruction course for two operators.

In other areas, the council rejected all bids submitted for the proposed village hall addition. The council directed Gove & Associates, Kalamazoo architects, to draw up new specifications and plans, which will be given to firms that submitted bids.

The proposed three-room addition, to be built onto the front of village hall, will contain space for the police department, council room, village clerk office, and a museum.

The council authorized the village public works department to recap village water well No. 2, and do necessary cleaning and repair work on wells No. 3 and 4.

The council directed William Menzies, Paw Paw, a job evaluator, to write a job description and evaluation for the position of village police chief, in case Richard Irons, current police chief, should retire.

Canvassers Make Bangor Recall Results Official

By STEVE McQUOWN
STAFF WRITER

PAW PAW — The Van Buren county board of canvassers yesterday afternoon certified the results of the Bangor school board recall election that ousted five of the seven school board members from their board positions.

Certification of the Monday vote makes the recall of the five official, according to Van Buren County Clerk Charles MacDonald.

Recalled were Donald Piper, Dr. Joseph Cooper, Forrest Gough, Richard Krogel and Fred Waite.

Board Members Peggy Phillips and Otto Watkins Jr. were not recall election targets. The vote canvass did not change the preliminary election vote results announced early yesterday morning by election officials.

MacDonald said official vote results, with the first figure representing those in favor of recall, were:

Dr. Cooper, 730 to 539 with 10 spoiled ballots; Gough, 748 to 518 with 11 spoiled; Krogel, 705 to 565 with seven spoiled; Piper, 822 to 445 with 10 spoiled; and Waite, 717 to 552 with 10 spoiled.

The five school board members had been specifically accused of not fully supporting five recommendations from a Blue Ribbon fact finding committee.

One of the recommendations was that Supt. Howard Beyer be asked for his resignation.

Replacements for the five will be made through appointments which will be in effect until the school election in June. Gov. William Milliken would be responsible for naming the appointees.

NBA Settlement Could Clear Way For ABA Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Now that the National Basketball Association has settled its differences with its own players, can the league now make friends with its biggest rival — the American Basketball Association?

A far-reaching out-of-court settlement Tuesday of the Oscar Robertson antitrust case between the players' association and the NBA has apparently cleared the way for merger or some form of consolidation between the 18-team NBA and the seven-team ABA.

Several obstacles still persist, however, only one of which seems to be a real monkey wrench.

Federal judge Robert L. Carter, who was to hear the Oscar Robertson case beginning June 1, has said there can be no merger discussion until he and the NBA Players' Association approve.

The players' association, which — then headed by Robertson — instituted its case in 1970, says the union group would approve the settlement and give the go-ahead for possible merger.

"We left the door open for a merger," said Paul Silas, president of the players' association. "We welcome the competition if they (the ABA) want to remain a separate league. If they want to merge, fine. But we took off all the restraints."

Judge Carter, who will hear the specifics of the agreement between the players' association and the NBA Friday, is not expected to pose any problem, either.

"He'll be delighted to get this affair off his hands," said Dave DeBusschere, commissioner of the ABA.

That leaves one group in opposition and if its public posture is accurate, it will be a tough outfit to budge.

"I think this is a lousy deal," said Paul Snyder, owner of the NBA's Buffalo Braves. "It invites tampering and agents should have a field day. We created competition and now the ABA will be our easiest competition. We made this the worst day in sports."

Snyder's hard-line position was punctuated by a unanimous vote of the NBA's Board of Governors against any merger with the ABA.

The landmark agreement dealt with, in part, Robertson's challenge to the college draft, the option clause and its companion compensation rule.

Starting with this year's college draft, scheduled for May, any player selected has the choice of signing a one-year contract with a one-year option, or a multi-year contract without any option.

If the rookie is dissatisfied with the team which selected him or with the terms being offered, he can sit out the one year and have his name placed in the next draft.

If after the second draft, the player still is not satisfied, he can sit out another year and become a free agent.

The option clause, the

Following the completion of his contractual commitment, a player can sell his services to another team but must give his old team the opportunity to match his highest offer. If the original team matches that offer, he cannot leave. If not, he can make the move.

'Simple' Games Opening Today Competition Begins For 1,040

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The Simple Games are here.

Nestled beneath beautiful Tyrolean Alps, the people of Innsbruck and Austria succeeded today in staging an Olympics without spending a billion dollars, without failing to complete their facilities and without major internal hassle.

The spectre of unprecedented security — 5,000 police and soldiers — was a reminder of the threat of terrorist attack. Otherwise, this citadel of winter sport was picturesque and calm as it began a 12-day festival of international competition on snow and ice.

The XII Winter Games, expected to be dominated by Russia and East Germany and Austria's seasoned skiers, open today with the centuries-old tradition of the Olympic flame being carried into a colorful, snow-covered stadium.

The ceremony at the base of the 90-meter ski-jump slope on towering Bergisel Mountain marked the opening of competition among 1,040 athletes representing the hopes of 37 nations.

American hopes for medals were limited to a few events, with speed skaters Sheila Young and Leah Poulos and figure skater Dorothy Hamill appearing.

ing to have the best opportunities. Each of them could win the treasured gold that will mostly elude the United States here.

Two torches carried into the stadium to light two flame towers signify both these Winter Games and the ones that were held here in 1964. The designated torch bearers: Austrians Josef Fuchsman, who won a huge gold medal in 1964, and Christl Haas, gold medalist in the women's downhill the same year.

Cindy Nelson, 20, a skier from Lutsen, Minn., who carries America's slim medal hopes in Alpine skiing, was nominated to carry the United States' colors into the stadium.

The only actual athletic events scheduled today were the first run in the single-seat luge event and compulsory competition in ice dancing. Men's downhill skiing trials continued.

The Thursday schedule called for a full slate of Olympic events.

American, Russian and Finnish hockey teams won preliminary games Tuesday to qualify for Olympic medal competition. The Soviet Union and the United States meet in a first-round game Friday in the double-elimination tournament, and the Russians are heavily favored.

The United States beat Yugoslavia 8-4 with Steve Sordich, 20, a forward from Virginia, Minn., scoring three second-period goals.

The mighty Russians, who had a 5-2-1 record against National Hockey League teams last month, walloped Austria 16-3, Finland beat Japan 11-2, with Matti Rautiainen scoring five goals, and Czechoslovakia, Poland and West Germany won preliminary tournament games Monday.

By winning preliminary games, these six teams earned the right to compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals when the Olympic hockey tournament begins Friday. Losers in the pre-Olympic meet go into a consolation tournament, in which they are not eligible for medals.

In other first-round medal division games Friday, West Germany plays Poland and Czechoslovakia meets Finland. The Czechs are favored to win the silver medal and the United States is considered to have an outside chance at the bronze, although it lost twice to Finland last week.

The Austrian ski team, expected to dominate the skiing events, was selected Tuesday and 17-year-old Anton Steiner made it for the downhill despite a fall in practice Tuesday.

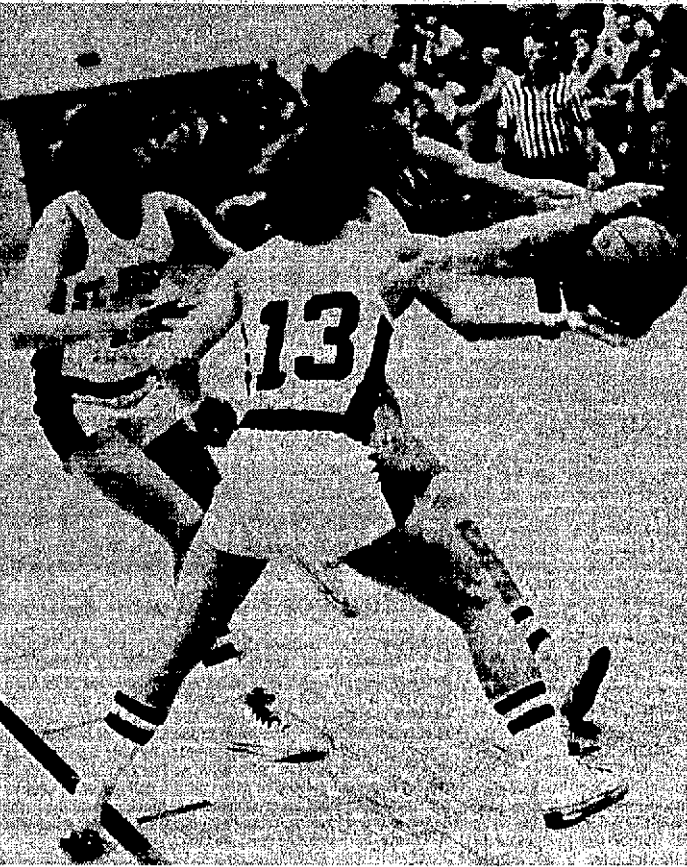

Steiner broke the course record, previously held by teammate Franz Klammer, by 6.5 seconds Monday but had a poor time in one run Tuesday and then fell.

On Tuesday, Swiss ace Bernhard Russi, the Olympic downhill champion, broke the record again with 1:48.01 over the 3,145 meters — more than 7.5 seconds faster than Klammer's official record.

Cindy Nelson, who has hopes for a medal for the United States in the downhill or slalom events, fell in practice Tuesday but was not hurt.

Jon Bowernman, women's coach, said "everybody's line was off on that first run and only one girl made it. The rest had varying degrees of difficulty, including Cindy and the World Cup leader, Brigitte Totschig of Austria."

Miss Nelson and several other Americans had colds but none was considered severe enough to affect their performance.

Berrien Springs Has Fun In 'Laughter' At Coloma

COLOMA — Berrien Springs coach Connie Stover believes his team is finally beginning to have some fun playing basketball.

But it certainly hasn't been much fun for recent Shamrock opponents.

Coloma was the latest victim of Berrien after being bombed 107-61 Tuesday night by the Shamrocks.

The point total was the highest for the Shamrocks since 1956 when they routed another Coloma team 106-85.

"I've been preaching all season that the game of basketball is made to have fun," Stover said. "And I think that we're finally beginning to have fun. I don't think we're really jelled yet, however, I think we can play even better."

Heaven help the Shamrock opponent if Berrien Springs does play any better. All Berrien, now 9-7, did was hit on 51 per cent of its shots from the floor, commit fewer turnovers than Coloma and hold a rebounding edge.

For the game, the Shamrocks hit on 38 of 75 shots from the floor for their blistering shooting pace. Berrien committed 28 turnovers to 34 for Coloma and held a 57-51 rebounding edge.

Rick Thiele, the 6-2 Berrien center, was "awesome" in the middle, scoring 24 points, including 18 in the first half, and pulling down 10 rebounds.

"Thiele was just doing a heckuva job rebounding, driving and taking the ball to the basket," Stover said. "He also helped bring the ball down the floor and gambled very well on the press. He just really played a total game for us."

Berrien also got double figure scoring out of reserve Rick Sanders, who scored 15 points, Tim Sunday with 11 and Kirk

Hansen and Terry Hoshorn with 10 apiece.

Jack Lewis, who missed much of the early part of the season with a football injury, is beginning to round into form. The 6-5 Lewis scored eight points and pulled down nine rebounds.

Forward Gregg Woodward paced the Comets with 12 points and eight rebounds. Joe Jones was the only other Coloma player to hit for double digits, scoring 10.

Coloma, which fell to 2-12, finished with just 18 of 56 from the floor for 31 per cent.

Berrien also won the junior varsity game 80-54 with Mike Shembarger tossing in 18 for the winners. Dan Davis scored 17 for Coloma.

Bears Clinch Winning Year Big Third Quarter Keys Victory Over Central

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

St. Joseph cagers continue to guarantee winning basketball for their fans.

The Bears clinched their seventh straight winning season Tuesday night by downing Portage Central 70-58 in Big Seven action at the St. Joe gym.

Coach George Gaunder's squad held its season record to 11-4 while getting a game-high 18 points from Cory Benford.

Dale Wright added 17, Dave Ziebart 13 and Henry Foltman 11 as St. Joseph meshed 25 of 54 field goals (46 per cent) and a deadly 20 of 25 free throws (80 per cent).

The Bears put cellar-dwelling Portage Central (1-7 in the conference and 6-8 overall) away in the third quarter with a 27-point burst which saw Gaunder's guys gun home 12 of 15 shots from the floor.

"Everything went to perfection that quarter," declared Gaunder. "We wanted to pick up the tempo and play our game rather than their game. We wanted to get down there before they got their zone set up."

St. Joe even went to its "tipping zone" offense in the quarter, and it produced four quick lay ups before Gaunder called it off.

"I thought we got pretty good mileage off it," continued Gaunder. "It boosted the lead up there."

The Bears led by as much as 21 points in the third quarter, but they cooled off in the fourth quarter when they went to a ball control offense while holding the big lead.

St. Joe went without a field goal in eight tries over the final eight minutes, but held Portage Central off by dumping in 10 of 13 free throws.

"They just shot beautiful," declared Mustang coach Scotty Wilson in praise of St. Joe. "They've got some kids who will move the ball and hit the open man."

Benford went six for 11 from the floor, Wright seven for 11, Ziebart six for 13 and Foltman four for seven as the Bears compiled their 46 per cent field goal mark.

Portage Central, which was down 14-13 after the first quarter, trailed 33-25 at half-time and slipped to a 60-41 deficit after three periods, got 15 points and 13 rebounds from 6-8 center Russ VanDulne. Bob

McKinney and Bruce Whaley added 12 and 10 points, respectively, as the Mustangs made 24 of 57 field goals (42 per cent) and 10 of 18 free throws (56 per cent).

Central had a 33 to 25 rebounding advantage, but St. Joe had the edge in floor play, making 20 turnovers compared to the Mustangs' 28.

The victory left St. Joseph half a game behind league-leading Holland in the Big Seven race. The Bears are 8-1 in the league and Holland 7-1.

St. Joe now has another Big Seven game at home Friday against Kalamazoo Loy Norrix. The Bears beat Norrix 71-68 back in December, but the Knights had a seven game winning streak before losing to Niles 54-53 Tuesday night.

St. Joe's jayvees also continued their winning ways in Tuesday night's preliminary.

Coach Clark Adkin's little Bears beat Central 85-47 while getting 12 points each from Keene Taylor and Steve Ziebart and 11 apiece from Paul Knuth and Jeff Deal. The junior varsity is now 12-3.

Todd Fink scored 12 for Portage.

HOLLAND — Benton Harbor's freshmen basketball team won its seventh straight game here Tuesday night by beating Holland's freshman 83-77. Tony Hodge led the Tigers with 18 points while Mike Gillespie had 18 and James Dorch scored 17. Jeff Sale of Holland copied high point honors with 24.

U.S. Clothes 'Cheap-Cheap'

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Navy pea-jackets, gray trousers and a shapely stocking cap: America has come to the Winter Olympics dressed as though the Salvation Army ran the equipment pool.

A team delegation turned out officially for the first time Tuesday at a flag-raising ceremony, looking drab against Russian furs and the flash of French tri-color parkas.

"They're god-awful, aren't they?" Alice Cook, a figure skater from East Lansing, Mich., said of the pea jackets.

"They're not even warm. The stuff is new, but it could come out of a second-hand store. It's cheap-cheap, and I'm thankful we'll wear our own stuff to skate in."

"Ordinarily," she continued, "You'd expect that we'd have something to put on that would help morale. But everybody feels a little ridiculous and a lot of people I talk to prefer to go around in their own clothes."

The clothing came as a gift to the Olympic team from a mail-order house that traditionally has better luck with automobile tires and camping equipment.

The designer of the pea-jackets was Halston, once promoted as the boy wonder of American fashion.

"Halston," said Miss Cook, "has had his first big day-off."

On the Village Common, the Americans were out-dazzled by the Austrians in long, tightly cut black coats, red-and-white scarves and broad-brimmed felt hats. The West German girls have short mink jackets and the tiny Icelandic team had handsome hand knit coats.

NBA Settlement Could Clear Way For ABA Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Now that the National Basketball Association has settled its differences with its own players, the league now make friends with its biggest rival — the American Basketball Association?

A far-reaching out-of-court settlement Tuesday of the Oscar Robertson antitrust case between the players association and the NBA has apparently cleared the way for merger or some form of consolidation between the 18-team NBA and the seven-team ABA.

Several obstacles still persist, however, only one of which seems to be a real monkey wrench.

Federal Judge Robert L. Carter, who was to hear the Oscar Robertson case beginning June 1, has said there can be no merger discussion until he and the NBA Players Association approve.

The players association, which — then headed by Robertson — instituted its case in 1970, says the union group would approve the settlement and give the go-ahead for possible merger.

"We left the door open for a merger," said Paul Silas, president of the players association. "We welcome the competition if they (the ABA) want to remain a separate league. If they want to merge, fine. But we took off all the restraints."

Judge Carter, who will hear the specifics of the agreement between the players association and the NBA Friday, is not expected to pose any problem, either.

"He'll be delighted to get this affair off his hands," said Dave DeBusschere, commissioner of the ABA.

That leaves one group in opposition and if its public posture is accurate, it will be a tough outfit to budge.

"I think this is a lousy deal," said Paul Snyder, owner of the NBA's Buffalo Braves. "It invites tampering and agents should have a field day. We created competition and now the ABA will be our easiest competition. We made this the worst day in sports."

Snyder's hard-line position was punctuated by a unanimous vote of the NBA's Board of Governors against any merger with the ABA.

The landmark agreement dealt with, in part, Robertson's challenge to the college draft, the option clause and its companion compensation rule.

Starting with this year's college draft, scheduled for May, any player selected has the choice of signing a one-year contract with a one-year option, or a multi-year contract without any option.

If the rookie is dissatisfied with the team which selected him or with the terms being offered, he can sit out the one year and have his name placed in the next draft.

If after the second draft, the player still is not satisfied, he can sit out another year and become a free agent.

The option clause, the

Following the completion of his contractual commitment, a player can sell his services to another team but must give his old team the opportunity to match his highest offer. If the original team matches that offer, he cannot leave. If not, he can make the move.

'Simple' Games Opening Today Competition Begins For 1,040

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The Simple Games are here.

Nestled beneath beautiful Tyrolean Alps, the people of Innsbruck and Austria succeeded today in staging an Olympics without spending a billion dollars, without failing to complete their facilities and without major internal hassle.

The spectre of unprecedented security — 5,000 police and soldiers — was a reminder of the threat of terrorist attack. Otherwise, this citadel of winter sport was picturesque and calm as it began a 12-day festival of international competition on snow and ice.

The XII Winter Games, expected to be dominated by Russia and East Germany and Austria's seasoned skiers, open today with the centuries-old tradition of the Olympic flame being carried into a colorful, snow-covered stadium. The ceremony at the base of the 90-meter ski-jump slope on towering Bergisel Mountain marked the opening of competition among 1,040 athletes representing the hopes of 37 nations.

American hopes for medals were limited to a few events, with speed skaters Sheila Young and Leah Poulos and figure skater Dorothy Hamill appearing to have the best opportunities. Each of them could win the treasured gold that will mostly elude the United States here.

Two torches carried into the stadium to light two flame towers signify both these Winter Games and the ones that were held here in 1964. The designated torch bearers: Austrians Josef Feistmantl, who won a luge gold medal in 1964, and Christl Haas, gold medalist in the women's downhill the same year.

Cindy Nelson, 20, a skier from Lutsen, Minn., who carries America's slim medal hopes in Alpine skiing, was nominated to carry the United States' colors into the stadium.

The only actual athletic events scheduled today were the first run in the single-seat luge event and compulsory competition in ice dancing. Men's downhill skiing trials continued.

The Thursday schedule called for a full slate of Olympic events.

American, Russian and Finnish hockey teams won preliminary games Tuesday to qualify for Olympic medal competition. The Soviet Union and the United States meet in a first-round game Friday in the double-elimination tournament and the Russians are heavily favored.

The United States beat Yugoslavia 8-4 with Steve Serich, 20, a forward from Virginia, Minn., scoring three second period goals.

The mighty Russians, who had a 5-2-1 record against National Hockey League teams last month, walloped Austria 16-3. Finland beat Japan 11-2, with Matti Rautiainen scoring five goals, and Czechoslovakia, Poland and West Germany won preliminary tournament games Monday.

By winning preliminary games, these six teams earned the right to compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals when the Olympic hockey tournament begins Friday. Losers in the pre-Olympic meet go into a consolation tournament in which they are not eligible for medals.

In other first-round medal division games Friday, West Germany plays Poland and Czechoslovakia meets Finland. The Czechs are favored to win the silver medal and the United States is considered to have an outside chance at the bronze, although it lost twice to Finland last week.

The Austrian ski team, expected to dominate the skiing events, was selected Tuesday and 17-year-old Anton Steiner made it for the downhill despite a fall in practice Tuesday.

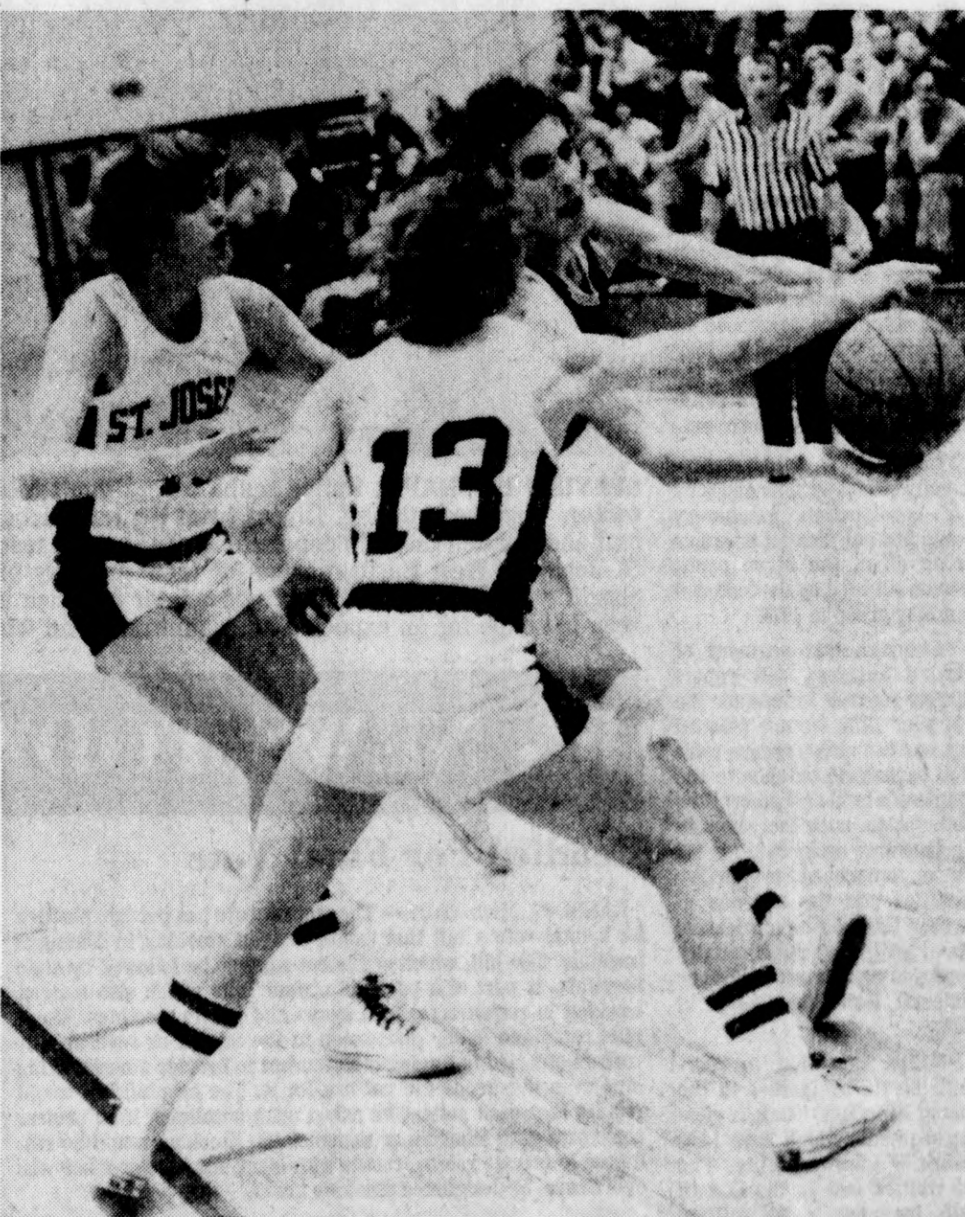

Steiner broke the course record, previously held by teammate Franz Klammer, by 6.5 seconds Monday but had a poor time in one run Tuesday and then fell.

On Tuesday, Swiss ace Bernhard Russi, the Olympic downhill champion, broke the record again with 1:48.01 over the 3,145 meters — more than 7.5 seconds faster than Klammer's official record.

Cindy Nelson, who has hopes for a medal for the United States in the downhill or slalom events, fell in practice Tuesday but was not hurt.

Jon Bowerman, women's coach, said "everybody's line was off on that first run and only one girl made it. The rest had varying degrees of difficulty, including Cindy and the World Cup leader, Brigitte Totschnig of Austria."

Miss Nelson and several other Americans had colds but none was considered severe enough to affect their performance.

Berrien Springs Has Fun In 'Laughter' At Coloma

COLOMA — Berrien Springs coach Connie Stover believes his team is finally beginning to have some fun playing basketball.

But it certainly hasn't been much fun for recent Shamrock opponents.

Coloma was the latest victim of Berrien after being bombed 107-61 Tuesday night by the Shamrocks.

The point total was the highest for the Shamrocks since 1956 when they routed another Coloma team 108-68.

"I've been preaching all season that the game of basketball is made to have fun," Stover said. "And I think that we're finally beginning to have fun. I don't think we've really jelled yet, however. I think we can play even better."

Heaven help the Shamrock opponent if Berrien Springs does play any better. All Berrien, now 9-7, did was hit on 51 per cent of its shots from the floor, commit fewer turnovers than Coloma and hold a rebounding edge.

For the game, the Shamrocks hit on 38 of 75 shots from the floor for their blistering shooting pace. Berrien committed 28 turnovers to 35 for Coloma and held a 57-51 rebounding edge.

Rick Thiele, the 6-2 Berrien center, was "awesome" in the middle, scoring 24 points, including 16 in the first half, and pulling down 10 rebounds.

"Thiele was just doing a heckuva job rebounding, driving and taking the ball to the basket," Stover said. "He also helped bring the ball down the floor and gambled very well on the press. He just really played a total game for us."

Berrien also got double figure scoring out of reserve Rick Sanders, who scored 15 points, Tim Sunday with 11 and Kirk

Hansen and Terry Hosbein with 10 apiece.

Jack Lewis, who missed much of the early part of the season with a football injury, is beginning to round into form. The 6-5 Lewis scored eight points and pulled down nine rebounds.

Forward Gregg Woodward paced the Comets with 12 points and eight rebounds. Joe Jones was the only other Coloma player to hit for double digits, scoring 10.

Coloma, which fell to 2-12, finished with just 18 of 58 from the floor for 31 per cent.

Berrien also won the junior varsity game 80-54 with Mike Shembarger tossing in 18 for the winners. Dan Davis scored 17 for Coloma.

Bears Clinch Winning Year Big Third Quarter Keys Victory Over Central

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

St. Joseph cagers continue to guarantee winning basketball for their fans.

The Bears clinched their seventh straight winning season Tuesday night by downing Portage Central 70-58 in Big Seven action at the St. Joe gym.

Coach George Gauder's squad hiked its season record to 11-4 while getting a game-high 18 points from Cory Benford.

Dale Wright added 17, Dave Ziebart 13 and Henry Follman 11 as St. Joseph meshed 25 of 54 field goals (46 per cent) and a deadly 20 of 25 free throws (80 per cent).

The Bears put cellar-dwelling Portage Central (1-7 in the conference and 6-8 overall) away in the third quarter with a 27-point burst which saw Gauder's guys gun home 12 of 15 shots from the floor.

"Everything went to perfection that quarter," declared Gauder. "We wanted to pick up the tempo and play our game rather than their game. We wanted to get down there before they got their zone set up."

St. Joe even went to its "tipping zone" offense in the quarter, and it produced four quick lay ups before Gauder called it off.

"I thought we got pretty good mileage off it," continued Gauder. "It boosted the lead up there."

The Bears led by as much as 21 points in the third quarter, but they cooled off in the fourth quarter when they went to a ball control offense while holding the big lead.

St. Joe went without a field goal in eight tries over the final eight minutes, but held Portage Central off by dumping in 10 of 13 free throws.

"They just shot beautiful," declared Mustang coach Scotty Wilson in praise of St. Joe. "They've got some kids who will move the ball and hit the open man."

Benford went six for 11 from the floor, Wright seven for 11, Ziebart six for 13 and Follman four for seven as the Bears compiled their 46 per cent field goal mark.

Portage Central, which was down 14-13 after the first quarter, trailed 33-25 at half-time and slipped to a 60-41 deficit after three periods, got 15 points and 13 rebounds from 6-8 center Russ VanDuine. Bob

McKinney and Bruce Whaley added 12 and 10 points, respectively, as the Mustangs made 24 of 57 field goals (42 per cent) and 10 of 18 free throws (56 per cent).

Central had a 33 to 25 rebounding advantage, but St. Joe had the edge in floor play, making 20 turnovers compared to the Mustangs' 28.

The victory left St. Joseph half a game behind league-leading Holland in the Big Seven race. The Bears are 6-1 in the league and Holland 7-1.

St. Joe now has another Big Seven game at home Friday against Kalamazoo Loy Norrix. The Bears beat Norrix 71-68 back in December, but the Knights had a seven game winning streak before losing to Niles 54-53 Tuesday night.

St. Joe's jayvees also continued their winning ways in Tuesday night's preliminary.

Coach Clare Adkin's little Bears beat Central 65-47 while getting 12 points each from Keene Taylor and Steve Ziebart and 11 apiece from Paul Knuth and Jeff Beal. The junior varsity is now 12-3.

Todd Fink scored 12 for Portage.

Torrid Shooting Dowagiac Ruins Brandywine Hopes

DOWAGIAC — Brandywine's Blossomland title hopes were virtually ended here Tuesday night as Dowagiac's red-hot shooting.

The Chieftains burned the hosts in the first half and then held off a late Bobcat rally to win Brandywine 66-44.

Dowagiac, which has won three in a row and four of its last five, upped its Blossomland record to 5-3 and overall slate to 7-7 with the win. Brandywine slid to 7-3 in the league, falling three games behind league-leading Buchanan with just four to play. The Bobcats are 11-5 overall.

The Chieftains meshed an incredible 22 of 33 field goal attempts in the first half, while racing to a commanding 48-24 halftime margin. But Brandywine rallied in the second half to tie the game at 60-60 with less than two minutes to play. The Bobcats never were able to take the lead, however.

A balanced scoring attack again sparked Dowagiac. Junior Kim Mulder and senior Brad Mantley led the way with 16 points apiece. Scott Wittse added 12 and 6-7 center Bob Waalkes tossed in 10.

Steve McCarthy pumped in 19 to spark the Bobcats. Greg Beale added 17 and Greg Gallas and sophomore Tony Harris each scored 10. Dowagiac finished with 29 of 62 from the floor for 48 per cent and held a 43-25 rebounding edge with Waalkes pulling down 17 and Mulder 15.

Dowagiac also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Lawton Trounces Martin

LAWTON — A tough zone defense in the second half held Martin to just 16 points as Lawton pulled out a 50-30 Southwestern Athletic conference basketball win here Tuesday night.

"We played a 2-3 zone and they couldn't get the ball inside," said Lawton head coach Bruce Bendix. "We just moved better in the second half."

That's about all Bendix had to be happy about in the contest, though. "We weren't ready to play," he said. "This was our fifth game in 10 days, and it's hard to get the kids up for that many games in so short a time."

John Lepley led the winners in scoring with 12 points. Dawson Rupp and Mike Webber each contributed 10 points as the Blue Devils, upped their conference record to 4-5 and their overall mark to 6-8.

Ken Vandenberg led Martin's scorers with 13 points while Robert Vandenberg added 10. The Clippers fall to 2-7 in the SAC and 2-11 overall.

Lawton held a 17-10 advantage after the first quarter but let it slip to a five-point margin, 28-23, at the half. But then the tough zone took over to help the Blue Devils ice their first league victory at home this season.

Lawton's junior varsity won its first game of the season by a score of 42-38.

Broncos Get National Attention

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Finally, Western Michigan University's basketball Broncos are getting some national attention.

The Mid-American Conference basketball leaders, sporting a 18-0 record going on 17 when they meet Loyola tonight in Chicago, are ranked No. 17 in the nation in this week's Associated Press Top Twenty college basketball list released Tuesday.

News of the previously unranked Broncos' jump into the ratings doesn't come as a surprise to many Michigan sports observers or MAC fans. But Coach Eldon Miller's efforts and team are being recognized for the first time by basketball buffs across the country. Miller says national news organizations have been calling him for the last week to get information on the Broncos.

"It really doesn't change what we have to do," Miller says. "But we appreciate it. It's good for our university, it's good for our players and it's good for our program — as long as we keep it in the proper perspective."

Miller, 38, has coached at WMU for the last five seasons. "The challenge of keeping it going is got to be fun," Miller said Tuesday. "You can't play basketball just for the recognition. If you only live for the recognition, you're leading a very shallow existence."

The same five Bronco players have started the last 18 games — all victories. They are Paul Griffin, Tom Cutler, Jeff Tyson, Jimmie Harvey and Jim Kurzen.

"If you've been a great power, you can lose three or four games and still be ranked," Miller said. "When you're developing a program, it's different."

In addition to MAC schools, Western has played Grand Valley State, Wisconsin-Parkside, Wisconsin-Green Bay, Northern Iowa and Wisconsin-Oshkosh along with Michigan State and the University of Detroit. A contest with Notre Dame is still to come.

"We have not played the kind of schedule a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference or Pac 8 or Southeast Conference plays. But if you look at a lot of the teams in the top 20 — compare our schedule to theirs — we compare quite favorably," Miller said.

Miller coached at Wittenberg College in Ohio before joining Western. In eight years at Wittenberg, he coached 142 victories and 55 losses. His teams won or shared five Ohio Conference titles and his 1962-63 team was ranked No. 1 in the nation.

Miller stresses a strong defense along with a moving and passing offense. "There aren't any secrets in our basketball program," he said. "It's winning. You have to get the good solid players who can win. It's that simple and we've got those players."

The undefeated record this year compares dramatically to Western's mark in 1972-73, when the team won only eight of 18 games.

Four of this year's five starters were freshmen on that team three years ago.

Today, those players are seniors and, with junior 6-foot-6 center Tom Cutler, have paced the Broncos to victory in every start.

Tyson leads the team with a 16.5 scoring average, followed by Harvey (13.1), Cutler (11), Griffin (10.9), sixth-man Marty Murray (10.8) and Kurzen (7.6).

Torrid Shooting Dowagiac Ruins Brandywine Hopes

DOWAGIAC — Brandywine's Blossomland title hopes were virtually ended here Tuesday night Dowagiac's red-hot shooting.

The Chieftains burned the nets in the first half and then held off a late Bobcat rally to stun Brandywine 66-64.

Dowagiac, which has won three in a row and four of its last five, upped its Blossomland record to 5-5 and overall slate to 7-7 with the win. Brandywine slid to 7-3 in the league, falling three games behind league-leading Buchanan with just four to play. The Bobcats are 11-5 overall.

The Chieftains meshed an incredible 22 of 33 field goal attempts in the first half, while racing to a commanding 46-24 halftime margin. But Brandywine rallied in the second half to tie the game at 60-60 with less than two minutes to play. The Bobcats never were able to take the lead, however.

A balanced scoring attack again sparked Dowagiac. Junior Kim Mulder and senior Brad Manley led the way with 16 points apiece. Scott Wiltse added 12 and 6-7 center Bob Waalkes tossed in 10.

each scored 10.

Dowagiac finished with 29 of 62 from the floor for 48 per cent and held a 43-25 rebounding edge with Waalkes pulling down 17 and Mulder 15.

Dowagiac also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Lawton Trounces Martin

LAWTON — A tough zone defense in the second half held Martin to just 16 points as Lawton pulled out a 55-39 Southwestern Athletic conference basketball win here Tuesday night.

"We played a 2-3 zone and they couldn't get the ball inside," said Lawton head coach Bruce Bendix. "We just moved better in the second half."

That's about all Bendix had to be happy about in the contest, though. "We weren't ready to play," he said. "This was our fifth game in 16 days, and it's hard to get the kids up for that many games in so short a time."

John Lepley led the winners in scoring with 12 points. Dawson Rupp and Mike Webber each contributed 10 points as the Blue Devils, upped their conference record to 4-5 and their overall mark to 6-8.

Ken Vandenberg led Martin's scorers with 13 points while Robert Vandenberg added 10. The Clippers fall to 2-7 in the SAC and 2-11 overall.

Lawton held a 17-10 advantage after the first quarter but let it slip to a five-point margin, 28-23, at the half. But then the tough zone took over to help the Blue Devils ice their first league victory at home this season.

Lawton's junior varsity won its first game of the season by a score of 42-38.

Milton lost a pair of basketball games to Ring Lardner Tuesday. The seventh graders were beaten 30-22 with Tim Zebell netting 10 for the losers. The eighth grade team lost 46-43 with Jim Mix netting 18 and Wes Rice 11 for Milton.

Broncos Get National Attention

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Finally, Western Michigan University's basketball Broncos are getting some national attention.

The Mid-American Conference basketball leaders, sporting a 16-0 record going on 17 when they meet Loyola tonight in Chicago, are ranked No. 17 in the nation in this week's Associated Press Top Twenty college basketball list released Tuesday.

EAST MEETS WEST. Rudy Tomjanovich (45), a Houston player on the East squad, tries to stop a shot attempt by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a West player from Los Angeles, in the NBA All-Star game Tuesday night in Philadelphia. The East won 123-109. (AP Wirephoto)

'Recovered' Bing MVP Winner Sparks East All-Stars To 123-109 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five years ago Dave Bing, his eyes covered with patches following an operation for a detached retina, was lying in a hospital bed when told he would never again be able to play basketball.

Today, he is the Most Valuable Player in the 1976 National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

The low-key Bing received the MVP award Tuesday night after scoring 19 points, all in the second half, and sparking the East All-Stars to a 123-109 victory over the West before a crowd of 17,511 at the Spectrum and millions of national television fans.

Bing suffered the eye injury in 1971 when Happy Hairston of the Los Angeles Lakers accidentally poked him during an exhibition game in New York. He then had to undergo surgery to repair the retina and it was feared that his brilliant career, which included winning the Rookie of the Year award in 1967 and the league scoring championship in 1968, would be over.

"It was the most serious time of my life," Bing said. "The doctors had said I would never play basketball again. But I didn't want to give it up. It had been my whole life."

The eye operation has not been the only traumatic experience during Bing's standard career, which includes playing on seven All-Star teams and three playoff clubs.

Bing is the first Washington Bullets player to win the honor in an NBA All-Star Game. In the MVP balloting, he received 436 points to 14 to runner-up Bob McAdoo of the Buffalo Braves.

McAdoo, the league scoring leader with a 31-point average, paced the East with 22 points — tying West center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers for game scoring honors.

Abdul-Jabbar also led the West rebounders with 15, while Dave Cowens of Boston topped the East with 16 rebounds, half of them off the offensive boards, and contributed 18 points. Rick Barry of Golden State had 17 points for the West.

The game was tied 18 times and there were 12 lead changes before the East took charge in the fourth period. Trailing 86-87 with 9:10 remaining, the East outscored the West 18-8 in the next 3:42 and surged ahead 105-94.

Bing said that two key factors paved the way for the East's comeback in the second half when the winners overcame a 16-15 halftime deficit.

One was that the East was able to take away the West's potent fast break by bringing little playmaker Nate Archibald of Kansas City under the defensive boards, forcing a mismatch on which Bing capitalized and preventing the Kings' guard from leading the break.

The other was double-teaming Abdul-Jabbar, so the West could not get the ball into him as much as it would have preferred.

Niles' Upset Victory Kills Norrix Hopes

KALAMAZOO — Niles pulled the rug out from under Kalamazoo's Loy Norrix little hopes here Tuesday night with a heart-stopping 54-53 victory over the Knights.

The loss, Norrix' fourth in seven Big Seven games, virtually ended the Knights' title hopes. Loy Norrix fell to 10-4 overall. Niles upped its league mark to 4-4 and overall slate to 6-6 with the win.

It was a basket by center Ernie Britten with just 12 seconds left to play which gave Niles the thrilling win. Kevin Seitz had missed a 15-footer, but Britten tapped it in to give the Vikings the final one-point margin.

The last-ditch Norrix attempt at pulling the game out ended with a lane violation with three seconds left.

Niles, which rallied from a 28-18 halftime deficit, won the game without top scorers Bill Bremner and Tim Garper. Niles coach Dean Adams benched the two at halftime and neither saw any action in the second half.

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The glamour events in the Winter Olympics are Alpine skiing, figure skating and ski jumping, and Americans would be pulling a big upset to win many medals in any of those events.

Uncle Sam's biggest hope in the Big Three events is figure skater Dorothy Hamill, 19, of Riverside, Conn., who could very well win a silver medal in figure skating and a gold if she can overcome Dianne de Leeuw, who lives in Los Angeles, but skates for the Netherlands because she has dual citizenship.

Here is a rundown on the Winter Olympics events and favorites:

Alpine Skiing
There are only five persons who have won more than two World Cup races so far. Austria's Franz Klammer won four downhill, Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark won four slaloms, Switzerland's Lise-Marle Morerod won three slaloms and three giant slaloms, Italy's Gustav Thoen won two giant slaloms, and West Germany's Rudi Mittermaier won one slalom but leads the World Cup standings with consistently high placings.

Stenmark is the men's World Cup leader.

The favorites are Klammer in the men's downhill, Thoen in the giant slalom, Stenmark, the men's World Cup leader, in the slalom. For the women, it's Miss Nadig in the downhill and Miss Morerod in both slalom events. Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., has an outside chance in the slalom and could be in the top 10 in the downhill.

Figure Skating
Miss de Leeuw must be considered a strong favorite. If Miss Hamill can take it, she will follow American gold medalists: Tenley Albright, Carol Heiss and Peggy Fleming.

U.S. men's hopes are slim. The favorite is John Curry of Britain, who lives in New York and trains in Denver. Russia's Vladimir Kovalev, Toller Cranston of Canada, and East Germany's Jan Hoffman are strong contenders.

The Russians and East Germans should dominate the pairs, the Russians and British should win in the dance.

Ski Jumping
The Austrians and East Germans are favored, with no American even in contention. Surprisingly, Austria's 17-year-old whiz, Toni Innauer, who dominated the jumping contest last season, is not expected to place high. The youthful Austrian has done poorly in training so far and may not even make the Austrian four-man team.

Favorites are Austria's Karl Schindler, Willy Puerstl, Rudi Wanner and Reinhold Bachled, East Germany's Jochen Danneberg, Hans Georg Aschenbach and Henry Glass. Norway's Johan Saetre, Poland's Stanislaw Bobak, Czechoslovakia's Jindrich Balc, Switzerland's Walter Steiner and Hans Schmid, and West Germany's Alfred Groesche.

Nordic Skiing
The Scandinavian countries, Switzerland, the Soviet Union and East Germany are expected to dominate the men's competition. For women, it will be Finland, East Germany and Russia.

Speed Skating
The Americans have their best chance in this event with Sheila Young and Leah Poulos in the 500, 1,000 and 1,500-meter events, and Peter

Mueller in the men's 1,000 and 1,500 meters and Dan Carroll in the 5,000 and 10,000.

Miss Young set a world record in the 500 in Davos, Switzerland, last weekend, leaving Soviet ace Tatyana Averina with records only in the 1,000 and 1,500.

Norwegian Sten Stenseth could win gold medals in both the men's 5,000 and 10,000. Russian Evgeni Kulikov is the world record holder at 500 meters with 37 seconds which is not likely to be bettered this year.

Ice Hockey
The Soviets are an overwhelming favorite after returning from the United States with a 5-2-1 record against National Hockey League competition. The strong Russian Spartak team will contribute players to the Russian Army and Moscow Wings, who played in the North American series.

Czechoslovakia should be in the finals with the Russians, and the American team was considered to have an outside chance before 8-3 and 5-3 losses to Finland last week.

Luge
In this 100-mile-per-hour event in which the racer lies on his back on a tiny sled, East Germany, Sweden and Norway are expected to excel. The Americans are not in contention.

Biatlon
In this strange event, cross-country skiing with four pauses for target shooting, the Finns, Russians and East Germans are favored. No Americans are expected to place.

Bobsled
The East Germans raised eyebrows this week with record-shattering performances in the two-man event and have become favorites along with the West Germans, who set a record Tuesday. Others are the Swiss, Austrians, and Italians.

EAST MEETS WEST: Rudy Tomjanovich (45), a Houston player on the East squad, tries to stop a shot attempt by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, a West player from Los Angeles, in the NBA All-Star game Tuesday night in Philadelphia. The East won 123-109. (AP Wirephoto)

'Recovered' Bing MVP Winner

Sparks East All-Stars To 123-109 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five years ago Dave Bing, his eyes covered with patches following an operation for a detached retina, was lying in a hospital bed when told he would never again be able to play basketball.

Today, he is the Most Valuable Player in the 1976 National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

The low-key Bing received the MVP award Tuesday night after scoring 16 points, all in the second half, and sparking the East All-Stars to a 123-109 victory over the West before a crowd of 17,511 at the Spectrum and millions of national television fans.

Bing suffered the eye injury in 1971 when Happy Hairston of the Los Angeles Lakers accidentally poked him during an exhibition game in New York. He then had to undergo surgery to repair the retina and it was feared that his brilliant career, which included winning the Rookie of the Year award in 1967 and the league scoring championship in 1968, would be over. "It was the most serious time of my life," Bing said. "The doctors had said I would never play basketball again. But I didn't want to give it up. It had been my whole life."

The eye operation has not been the only traumatic experience during Bing's stand-out career, which includes playing on seven All-Star teams and three playoff clubs.

Bing is the first Washington Bullets player to win the honor in an NBA All-Star Game. In the MVP balloting, he received 431 points to 14 to runnerup Bob McAdoo of the Buffalo Braves.

McAdoo, the league scoring leader with a 31-point average, paced the East with 22 points — tying West center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers for game scoring honors.

Abdul-Jabbar also led the West rebounders with 15, while Dave Cowens of Boston topped the East with 16 rebounds, half of them off the offensive boards, and contributed 16 points. Rick Barry of Golden State had 17 points for the West.

The game was tied 18 times and there were 12 lead changes before the East took charge in the fourth period. Trailing 88-87 with 9:10 remaining, the East outscored the West 18-6 in the next 3:42 and surged ahead 105-94.

Bing said that two key factors paved the way for the East's comeback in the second half when the winners overcame a 50-45 halftime deficit.

One was that the East was able to take away the West's potent fast break by bringing little playmaker Nate Archibald of Kansas City under the defensive boards, forcing a mismatch on which Bing capitalized and preventing the Kings' guard from leading the break.

The other was double-teaming Abdul-Jabbar, so the West could not get the ball into him as much as it would have preferred.

Niles' Upset Victory Kills Norrix Hopes

KALAMAZOO — Niles pulled the rug out from under Kalamazoo Loy Norrix' title hopes here Tuesday night with a heart-stopping 54-53 victory over the Knights.

The loss, Norrix' fourth in seven Big Seven games, virtually ended the Knights' title hopes. Loy Norrix fell to 10-4 overall. Niles upped its league mark to 4-4 and overall slate to 8-6 with the win.

It was a basket by center Ernie Britten with just 12 seconds left to play which gave Niles the thrilling win. Kevin Seitz had missed a 15-footer, but Britten tapped it in to give the Vikings the final one-point margin.

Niles, which rallied from a 29-18 halftime deficit, won the game without top scorers Bill Brenner and Tim Garner. Niles coach Dean Adams benched the two at halftime and heather saw any action in the second half. Instead, Adams went to his bench, using subs Tom Donley, Walley Hadsell and Seitz to spark the second half rally. The trio joined regulars Britten and Arnie White to help Niles hit on 16 of 33 second-half shots in the rally.

Britten led all scorers with 19 points for Niles. Donley added 12 and White had 10. Top Norrix scorer Allen Moorhead was held to just 10 by Seitz, the same total as John Sutton.

Niles finished with 23 of 67 from the floor for 34 per cent, while the Knights hit on 21 of 54 for 39 per cent.

The Vikings also won the junior varsity game, beating Norrix 84-64 behind Curtis Partee's 19-point effort.

Hamill Top U.S. Hope In Glamor Events

INNSBRUCK (AP) — The glamor events in the Winter Olympics are Alpine skiing, figure skating and ski jumping, and Americans would be pulling a big upset to win many medals in any of those events.

Uncle Sam's biggest hope in the Big Three events is figure skater Dorothy Hamill, 19, of Riverside, Conn., who could very well win a silver medal in figure skating and a gold if she can overcome Dianne de Leeuw, who lives in Los Angeles but skates for The Netherlands because she has dual citizenship.

Here is a rundown on the Winter Olympics' events and favorites:

Alpine Skiing

There are only five persons who have won more than two World Cup races so far. Austria's Franz Klammer won four downhill, Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark won four slaloms, Switzerland's Lise-Marie Morerod won three slaloms and three giant slaloms, Italy's Gustav Thoeni won two giant slaloms, and West Germany's Rolf Mittermaier won one slalom but leads the World Cup standings with consistently high placings.

Stenmark is the men's World Cup leader.

The favorites are Klammer in the men's downhill; Thoeni in the giant slalom; Stenmark, the men's World Cup leader, in the slalom. For the women, it's Miss Nadig in the downhill and Miss Morerod in both slalom events. Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., has an outside chance in the slalom and could be in the top 10 in the downhill.

Figure Skating

Miss de Leeuw must be considered a strong favorite. If Miss Hamill can take it, she will follow American gold medalists Tenley Albright, Carol Heiss and Peggy Fleming.

U.S. men's hopes are slim. The favorite is John Curry of Britain, who lives in New York and trains in Denver. Russia's Vladimir Kovalev, Toller Cranston of Canada, and East Germany's Jan Hoffmann are strong contenders.

The Russians and East Germans should dominate the pairs, the Russians and British should win in the dance.

Ski Jumping

The Austrians and East Germans are favored, with no American even in contention. Surprisingly, Austria's 17-year-old whiz, Toni Innauer, who dominated the jumping contests earlier this season, is not expected to place high. The youthful Austrian has done poorly in training so far and may not even make the Austrian four-man team.

Favorites are Austria's Karl Schnabl, Willy Puerstl, Rudi Wanner and Reinhold Bachled; East Germany's Jochen Danneberg, Hans Georg Aschenbach and Henry Glass; Norway's Johan Saetre; Poland's Stanislaw Bobak; Czechoslovakia's Jindrich Balcar; Switzerland's Walter Steiner and Hans Schmid, and West Germany's Alfred Grosche.

Nordic Skiing

The Scandinavian countries, Switzerland, the Soviet Union and East Germany are expected to dominate the men's competition. For women, it will be Finland, East Germany and Russia.

Speed Skating

The Americans have their best chance in this event with Sheila Young and Leah Poulos in the 500, 1,000 and 1,500-meter events, and Peter

Mueller in the men's 1,000 and 1,500 meters and Dan Carroll in the 5,000 and 10,000.

Miss Young set a world record in the 500 in Davos, Switzerland, last weekend, leaving Soviet ace Tajana Averina with records only in the 1,000 and 1,500.

Norwegian Sten Stenseth could win gold medals in both the men's 5,000 and 10,000. Russian Evgeni Kulikov is the world record holder at 500 meters with 37 seconds which is not likely to be bettered this year.

Ice Hockey

The Soviets are an overwhelming favorite after returning from the United States with a 5-2-1 record against National Hockey League competition. The strong Russian Spartak team will contribute players to the Russian Army and Moscow Wings, who played in the North American series.

Czechoslovakia should be in the finals with the Russians, and the American team was considered to have an outside chance before 9-3 and 9-2 losses to Finland last week.

Luge

In this 100-mile-per-hour event in which the racer lies on his back on a tiny sled, East Germany, Sweden and Norway are expected to excel. The Americans are not in contention.

Biathlon

In this strange event, cross-country skiing with four pauses for target shooting, the Finns, Russians and East Germans are favored. No Americans are expected to place.

Bobsled

The East Germans raised eyebrows this week with record-shattering performances in the two-man event and have become favorites along with the West Germans, who set a record Tuesday. Others are the Swiss, Austrians, and Italians.

Eastern Talking With Scott

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Reports that former Detroit Pistons Coach Ray Scott is in line for the job as head basketball coach at Eastern Michigan University are being denied by Athletic Director Albert Smith. Smith admitted he has talked to Scott but said the two only discussed "generalities." Smith added he plans to meet again with Scott when the former National Basketball Association mentor comes back from a vacation. "We have had a visit with Scott. We talked about Eastern, its students, the team and the position, but only in general terms," Smith said.

"The job has not been offered to him or anyone else at this time."

Smith said he also has spoken with a number of other people concerning the position but added his office has received no applications. He said the coaching job would not officially open until later this week.

St. Joe Swimmers Splash Past Sturgis

St. Joseph had six double winners and won nine of 11 events while downing the Sturgis swimmers 115-57 Tuesday night in a home non-league swim meet.

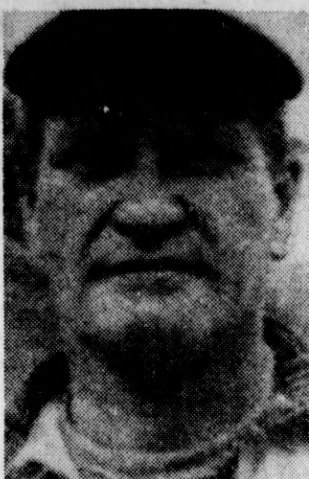

Randy Chinery captured the 200 freestyle (2:02.9) and the 100 breaststroke (1:11.1) while John Worthington took the 50 freestyle (23.3) and was a member of the winning medley relay team (1:51.6).

Tom Auringer, Mike Borre

and Greg Averill were also on the medley relay team, along with teaming with Tom Momany for victory in the freestyle relay (3:42.7). Momany also won the 500 freestyle (5:09.9).

Other St. Joe winners, as the Bears went one-two in eight events, were Mike Cunningham, 100 freestyle (55.9); Tom Starks, 200 individual medley (2:16.4), and Dave Greim, 100 backstroke (1:08.3). St. Joe, now 7-3 overall, returns to Big Seven action at home Thursday night against Portage Northern.

ANDY MacDonald

MacDonald Leaving MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Denying the move is related to recent recruiting sanctions, Andy MacDonald has quit as offensive coordinator for the troubled Michigan State University football team. MacDonald, who was at MSU three years, said he will take an assistant coaching job with the expansion Seattle Seahawks of the National Football League. MacDonald insisted Tuesday he is going to the West Coast for "professional advancement," not because of penalties slapped on the school by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for football recruiting violations. The NCAA last week found MSU guilty of 34 recruiting violations and put the school on three years probation. That means the Spartans are barred from television or participation in post-season bowl games. "I want to make it quite clear that my taking the position was a matter of professional advancement and had nothing whatsoever to do with the NCAA probe," MacDonald insisted. "The Seattle coaching position, in discussion for several months, offers a professional opportunity that I cannot pass up."

MacDonald, 46, is a veteran of more than 20 years of coaching at prep and collegiate levels. Before coming to MSU he was offensive coordinator at Colorado State in 1970-71, backfield coach at Tulsa in 1969, head coach at Northern Arizona from 1965-1968 and assistant coach at Iowa from 1961-1964. Before moving to college ranks, MacDonald was head football coach at Flint's Northern High School.

NOTHING LIKE A COLD BEER: Groom Chris Menzies gives Kaweah Bar what he wants after a workout — a bottle of beer. The quarter horse, stabled at the Los Alamitos, Calif. race track, is a former world champion. But as a beer drinker, he's not much. Just one bottle from time to time. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Raider Finale Defeats Lawrence

DECATUR — It might have taken Decatur three quarters to warm up...but when the Raiders did, it was no contest.

Holding just a 46-44 lead after the third stanza, Decatur blew its game with Lawrence open by pouring 27 points in the last stanza to down the Tigers 73-53 in a Southwestern Athletic conference basketball game here Tuesday night.

Kurt Wiese of Decatur led all scorers with 28 points, making 13 of 23 from the floor. He also had 10 of his team's 44 rebounds and made seven steals. Jim Overly hit 10 points for the only other Raider in double figures.

Dave Congdon led Lawrence with 17 points and Jim Mason had 16.

Decatur remains in second place with a 7-1 league mark. The Raiders are 12-2 overall. The Tigers fall to a 2-7 league mark and 2-11 overall.

Thanks to some good board work, Lawrence led 31-28 at the half. "They outrebounded us in the first half," said Tom Gibson, head coach of Decatur. "In the second quarter, Lawrence shot 10 for 22 and just kept heating our press."

"In the third quarter we played a little steadier ball," he added. "We kept them outside and got some steals."

"I guess it just took us three quarters to wake up," Gibson said.

Marcellus Wins Fourth Straight

MARCELLUS — Marcellus won its fourth straight in a 101-87 non-league basketball victory over Constantine here Tuesday night.

Marcellus, now 11-2 overall, got 26 points from Bob Norton, 18 from Lonnie Lewis, 16 from Dave Mason and 10 from Jerry Cornwell.

Marcellus also won the junior varsity preliminary 73-70.

Upton Loses

NILES — Ring Lardner beat Upton's ninth grade cagers 36-46 here Tuesday night. Larry Kibler had 13 points for the Invets.

That's a Bad Bargain!

You'd think that a proposition like that would defeat even a super-salesman like Roger. But our boy came through as usual and got a new customer. How? He agreed to keep alligators away from the McIntyze house for a year!

Seriously, even though we use them now and then, we're not too sold on special inducements to take the HERALD-PALLADIUM. If a person isn't convinced he needs the day-to-day contact with the rest of humanity a good daily paper brings, will gift offers persuade him he does!

Even without a year's protection from alligators, Mr. McIntyze will get his full money's worth for the HERALD-PALLADIUM subscription Roger sold him.

Giants Must Be Sold Says Lawyer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Candlestick Park may be empty this baseball season, regardless of whether the San Francisco Giants move to Toronto, an attorney for the team warns.

"The court can't simply order the Giants to play ball in San Francisco. To do so would destroy the Giants," said Richard Murray, arguing Tuesday in Superior Court before Judge John Benson.

"The Giants are broke, they have no cash. They are living on handouts from the National League," he said, arguing there is no alternative to the proposed sale of the club to a Canadian group which would break the lease at city-owned Candlestick.

The team which left New York and moved West in 1958 "fell upon evil days" after the 1968 arrival in nearby Oakland of the American League A's, Murray added.

"We do have a season to play. I don't know if we can make a go of it with 11 teams, and that's a real possibility," said Stephen V. Bornse, a lawyer for the league.

Judge Benson took under submission the city's request for an injunction which would block the transfer of the team. He gave no indication of how soon he'd rule.

The Giants and the league, restrained by a court order, since Jan. 12 from taking action on the proposed sale, would not agree to a two-week further delay requested by the city.

"One problem is that the players don't know where they'll be going and have to make plans soon," said Murray after talking to shortstop Chris Speier, who was among the 106 spectators in the courtroom.

Giants attorneys said they thought there would be a ruling this week. National League owners will meet Monday in New York and hope to settle then the situation which has held up the release of an official 1978 schedule.

In reviewing the Giants' financial position, including $6 million in losses reported to stockholders over the past eight years, the judge noted: "According to their declaration, they have no money to operate next month, let alone during the 1978 season."

Then he asked City Atty. Thomas O'Connor: "If the court orders them to stay and they go bankrupt, what happens then?"

Giants Must Be Sold Says Lawyer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Candlestick Park may be empty this baseball season, regardless of whether the San Francisco Giants move to Toronto, an attorney for the team warns.

"The court can't simply order the Giants to play ball in San Francisco. To do so would destroy the Giants," said Richard Murray, arguing Tuesday in Superior Court before Judge John Benson.

"The Giants are broke, they have no cash. They are living on handouts from the National League," he said, arguing there is no alternative to the proposed sale of the club to a Canadian group which would break the lease at city-owned Candlestick.

The team which left New York and moved West in 1958 "fell upon evil days" after the 1968 arrival in nearby Oakland of the American League A's, Murray added.

"We do have a season to play. I don't know if we can make a go of it with 11 teams, and that's a real possibility," said Stephen V. Bomse, a lawyer for the league.

Judge Benson took under submission the city's request for an injunction which would block the transfer of the team. He gave no indication of how soon he'd rule.

The Giants and the league, restrained by a court order since Jan. 12 from taking action on the proposed sale, would not agree to a two-week further delay requested by the city.

"One problem is that the players don't know where they'll be going and have to make plans soon," said Murray after talking to shortstop Chris Speier, who was among the 100 spectators in the courtroom.

Giants attorneys said they thought there would be a ruling this week. National League owners will meet Monday in New York and hope to settle then the situation which has held up the release of an official 1976 schedule.

In reviewing the Giants' financial position, including $6 million in losses reported to stockholders over the past eight years, the judge noted: "According to their declaration, they have no money to operate next month, let alone during the 1976 season."

Then he asked City Atty. Thomas O'Connor: "If the court orders them to stay and they go bankrupt, what happens then?"

A STUDY IN TOTAL COMMITMENT

"IN FLORIDA I GOT A YEAR'S FREE SNOW-SHOVELING WITH MY SUBSCRIPTION."

Think Fast, Roger! That's a Bad Bargain!

You'd think that a proposition like that would defeat even a super-salesman like Roger. But our boy came through as usual and got a new customer. How? He agreed to keep alligators away from the McChintzy house for a year!

Seriously, even though we use them now and then, we're not too sold on special inducements to take the HERALD-PALLADIUM. If a person isn't convinced he needs the day-to-day contact with the rest of humanity a good daily paper brings, will gift offers persuade him he does!

Even without a year's protection from alligators, Mr. McChintzy will get his full money's worth for the HERALD-PALLADIUM subscription Roger sold him.

MSU's Scandal Won't Stop Cheating In Future

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
What drives men to cheat, compete them to risk disgrace to gain a sliver of an edge against their rivals?
Some of our statemen do it and it is messy when they are caught. It is a practice too common in business, where corporate giants conspire. And educators, charged with teaching our youth, do it, using fraud and forgery to gain the edge.

It is an awesome indictment of our society. But it has happened in our government and in our industry and on our university campuses. And most tragically, it will happen again: despite punishment and despite probations.
The scandal at Michigan State will be repeated next year elsewhere and the following year at some other university. Some say recruitment, figuring this time for sure he can get away with sneaking the edge, will try.
It has happened at Oklahoma and Illinois and Southern Methodist and Long Beach State and California — and for the second time at Michigan State. It has happened in the Ivy League, where the swells and intellectuals go to school and frolic on the fields of play.

And some declare the obvious, the easy: The immediate remedy is to reduce the influence of sports on our society.
Cut out athletic scholarships and tear down the stadiums and build parking lots. Plant corn on the athletic fields. Then you will rid sports of its decadence.

But this is bunkum, the reasoning of sophists.
The editorialists weepily wring their manacled hands in their cloisters and moan that big time football must be indicted with the sinner.
It is not the system of big time football and it is not the system of government and it is not the system of industry. It is the basic greed of individuals, some of them.

Everybody does not do it.
Sport is recreational escape from 9-to-5 boredom, the ceaseless repetition of the assembly line, the bankbook deficiency and the expense of new shoes.
There is much that is wholesome and worthwhile in sport. It is fun and entertaining and it relieves the tensions.
The absence of scruples at Michigan State should not tarnish those elsewhere who obey the rules to play their games.

Michigan State now has wisely opted against challenging the punitive authority of the NCAA in the courtrooms. But still from East Lansing come the grieving sounds: 'I'm a crook.'
It has not ended with acceptance of the punishment and the abdication of Jack Breslin from Michigan State's sports hierarchy.
Breslin, a university vice-president, has been a sinister figure. Whenever there has been a debate on sports at Michigan State, regarding policy or hiring, from the shadows you would hear: 'Check Breslin, he did it.' Now he may be a scapegoat for the indiscretions of others. Or maybe not. No outsider has ever been sure about this mysterious man.

If Michigan State has turned grief-stricken at the three-year probation by the NCAA, it will panic at some ideas to be advanced in the Big Ten.

Tom Cutter Gets Honor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tom Cutter, of league-leading Western Michigan, who missed only three of 18 shots in two victories, has been named Mid-American Conference Basketball Player of the Week.
The 6-foot-8 junior from Lafayette, Ind., hit all eight of his field goal tries in the Broncos' key triumph over Miami and added seven of 10 in another vital decision over Ohio University.

Cutter accounted for 36 points and 26 rebounds in the games that ran the Broncos' record to 16-0 this winter. He leads league shooters with a .689 percentage from the floor, averaging 11 points and 11.1 rebounds.
Others considered by a panel of reporters were Jim Fields of Ball State, Dan Hoff of Eastern Michigan, Russ Davis of Central Michigan, Cortez Brown of Kent State, Archie Aldridge of Miami, Matt Hicks of Northern Illinois, Mike Carde of Ohio University and Tulado's Larry Cole.

U-M Icers Win
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's Dave Delbut and Bill Thayer scored two goals each to lead the Wolverines to a 7-6 nonconference hockey victory over Bowling Green of Ohio Tuesday night.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Heading Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed higher today, building on Tuesday's late gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up about half a point in the early going. Advances outpaced declines by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was still benefitting from optimism about the economic outlook and a favorable response to generally strong fourth quarter earnings reports.

Today's early prices included Pfizer, up 1/4 at 36 1/2. Standard Oil of Indiana, ahead 1/4 at 43 1/2, and Federal National Mortgage, 1/2 higher at 10 1/2.

Eli Lilly, which reported flat fourth quarter profits late Tuesday, dipped 1/2 to 59 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average edged up 1 1/2 to 772.61.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 9-5 margin among NYSE stocks, and the exchange's composite index rose 21 to 53.80.

Big Board volume reached 34.6 million shares, the eighth largest total on record.

Social Security's Long-Range Problem

(Third in a series of five columns)
Our Social Security system faces two entirely separate financing problems. If you are to keep your balance during the coming months of debate about the system's soundness, you must keep this basic separation clearly in mind.

The first problem is relatively short-run. It results from the unprecedented 1973-74 combination of a galloping rate of inflation along with a very high unemployment rate. Because of this gruesome combination, the system is now paying out more in benefits than it is collecting in Social Security taxes.

The Social Security cash benefit trust funds have adequate reserves to cover any deficits over the next several years. But to maintain confidence and wipe out any premise for the "panic" stories, Congress should act NOW to provide the necessary additional financing. Yesterday's column outlined several possible solutions.

The other is the longer-range financing problem, which would not even hit until after the year 2000 — assuming Congress did nothing to avert it (which is a stupid assumption). This problem arises from two causes:

A fluke in the benefit formula written into the law in 1972 which, if not corrected, could result in a large number of retirees in the 21st century receiving benefits higher than the top wages they had ever earned.

The assumption that there will be a continued drop in U.S. birth and fertility rates.

In 1972, the law was amended to provide for automatic adjustment of benefits if and as prices rose moderately from year to year. (There was no anticipation of 1973-75's nightmare inflation!) The '72 law additionally provides for the maximum taxable earnings under SS to rise as average wages rose (also moderately) from year to year.

But if you assume an indefinite continuation of a mind-boggling rate of inflation, a strange situation results from the operation of these two provisions: benefits run way ahead of wages and of the system's taxes from wages. This situation would account for about half of the estimated long-range actuarial deficit of the system.

The other half of the projected deficit of "trillions of dollars" is based on that assumption about birth and fertility. If rates did continue dropping, there would, in the year 2010, be close to 30 Americans 65 and over for every 100 of working age. Today, the proportion is 18.3 people 65 and over for every 100 of working age.

Predicting birth and fertility rates is risky — but even if these assumptions turned out to be accurate, there are offsetting factors. For instance, if the public cost of supporting the elderly went up, the cost of supporting and educating the young would be reduced. If fewer women were busy rearing children, more would be in the labor market and paying SS taxes. If fewer young people were entering the labor market, more elderly people could find jobs.

The recent Advisory Council on Social Security, a panel of prominent Americans from outside government, has proposed that Social Security benefit amounts be based on a system of wage indexing — under which your earnings would be adjusted to reflect the increases in your overall average earnings over your working lifetime.

You would get a benefit related to your average earnings level at the time you retired. After you retired, your benefits would be kept up to date with the cost of living.

The quirk in the law can be ironed out, the unanticipated flukes can be corrected. And there are signals that Congress is ready to correct the flaw in the computation formula so that benefits payable in the 21st century — and the cost of paying those benefits — will be realistic.

There also are reports that Congress really would prefer to wait until after the election to hit us, workers who pay Social Security taxes, with the facts about what additional taxes we must pay to meet the system's short-range financing problem.

Such timidity would be self-defeating. Confidence in this system — the most effective and workable of all our social programs — must be fully restored before campaign oratory does its usual befuddlement job on the public.

Tomorrow: The '76 campaign and Social Security.

New Post For Eau Claire Man

An Eau Claire fruit grower, Wesley Prillwitz, has been elected to the executive committee of the Farmers Petroleum Cooperative, an affiliate of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

A member of the board of directors of the co-op, Prillwitz was named to the three-member executive committee at the board's reorganizational meeting last week in Lansing.

He joins President Elton R. Smith of Caledonia and Vice President Dean Priddy of Monticello on the executive committee.

Inspector Named In Galien Township

GALLEN — Edward Ashcraft, 41, route 1, Galien, was named Galien township building inspector by the township board last night.

Ashcraft, a salesman for Tyler-Jirville Chevrolet, Niles, will replace Ralph Smith. Smith, also a township trustee, submitted his resignation as building inspector at the board's November meeting, but the resignation was not accepted until January.

Smith complained that he was caught between building regulations and builders pressuring him for a permit. At its January meeting, the board pledged complete support of a

Drain Pretrial Hearing Delayed

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — A pretrial hearing on Van Buren county's controversial Gates drain project has been adjourned until Feb. 26, according to a secretary for Judge James Hoff of the Cass circuit court who is to hear the case.

The judge's secretary said the hearing was adjourned at the request of attorneys for both the plaintiffs and the defendants.

The trial date will be set during the pretrial hearing.

In June, 1973, Paw Paw township, the Paw Paw Conservation club and Paw Paw physician Dr. Charles Tenhouten filed a suit seeking to stop the proposed dredging of the drain in the Paw Paw area.

A temporary restraining order halting dredging was issued in Van Buren circuit court on June 4.

The plaintiffs have alleged that dredging drain, actually a 2.5-mile stretch of the Paw Paw river, would destroy wildlife and natural habitat within the river and cause sediment and other debris to be emptied into Maple lake in Paw Paw.

Among other allegations is one that the dredging cost, believed to be near $70,000, would unreasonably assess the near 1,000 property owners within the drainage district.

Defendants in the suit are Elmyra Hearn, the Van Buren county drain commissioner, and Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, the project contractors.

Former Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr. previously withdrew from the case because he owns property on Maple lake.

Judge Anderson retired from the bench as of Jan. 1.

Covert — Betty Palmer, 7314 West Lake.

Pickup Found Ablaze

PAW PAW — Paw Paw firemen were summoned about midnight last night to extinguish a burning pickup truck found parked on a road about two miles south of here, according to state police at Paw Paw.

Troopers said the blaze destroyed the 1975 model four-wheel drive pickup truck on 64th avenue just east of CR-185. There was gasoline inside the cab, troopers said.

The truck, which was found with both rear tires removed, belonged to Robert Brown, 28, of Schoolcraft, troopers said.

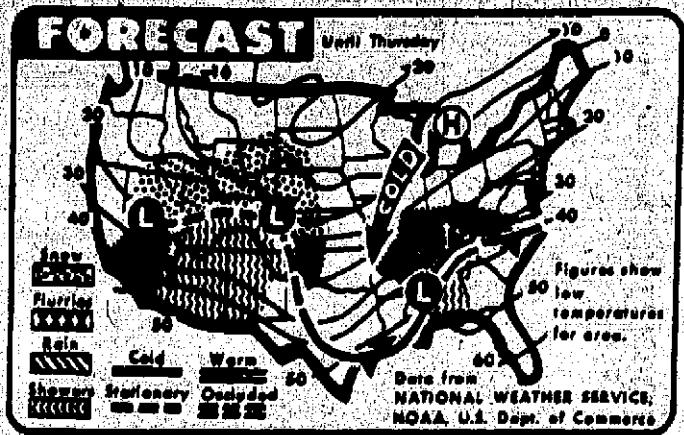

Officers said an auto was found abandoned and stuck in the snow nearby with the two rear tires in it. An investigation was continuing this morning, the officers said.

Inspector Named In Galien Township

new building inspector's efforts to enforce guidelines of the job.

The board also adopted a new building inspection fee schedule. The schedule lists eight different categories of inspection including demolition, swimming pools, additions and new homes or trailers. The new schedule calls for one to three inspections, depending on the type of construction, and sets fees of $5 to $20 per inspection.

In other areas, the board passed a resolution supporting Galien's volunteer ambulance service and opposing a proposal countywide emergency service.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Snow, rain or showers are forecast Wednesday for most of the western half of the nation. Partly cloudy weather is expected for northern California and the Northwest. Showers are forecast for the eastern Gulf and rain is expected for the upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys and lower Midwest. FIRST QUARTER SLOW

National-Standard Chief Sees Upswing

NILES — Despite first quarter sales that were down from last year's, National-Standard company officials have predicted improvement for the remainder of the year.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, company net sales were $32,025,000, down about 16 percent from the $38,244,000 for the comparable period a year ago, according to Board Chairman T.H. Pearce.

Pearce said that at the same time, earnings were $1,908,000 or 47 cents per share, compared to last year's first quarter earnings of $3,120,000 or 72 cents per share.

The board chairman said that although first quarter profits were low in relation to last year's, profits were higher than those of the previous quarter

Social Security's Long-Range Problem

(Third in a series of five columns)
Our Social Security system faces two entirely separate financing problems. If you are to keep your balance during the coming months of debate about the system's soundness, you must keep this basic separation clearly in mind.

The first problem is relatively short-run. It results from the unprecedented 1973-75 combination of a galloping rate of inflation along with a very high unemployment rate. Because of this gruesome combination, the system is now paying out more in benefits than it is collecting in Social Security taxes.

The Social Security cash benefit trust funds have adequate reserves to cover any deficits over the next several years. But to maintain confidence and wipe out any premise for the "panic" stories, Congress should act NOW to provide the necessary additional financing. Yesterday's column outlined several possible solutions.

The other is the longer-range financing problem, which would not even hit until after the year 2000 — assuming Congress did nothing to avert it (which is a stupid assumption). This problem arises from two causes:

A fluke in the benefit formula written into the law in 1972 which, if not corrected, could result in a large number of retirees in the 21st century receiving benefits higher than the top wages they had ever earned.

The assumption that there will be a continued drop in U.S. birth and fertility rates.

In 1972, the law was amended to provide for automatic adjustment of benefits if and as prices rose moderately from year to year. (There was no anticipation of 1973-75's nightmare inflation!) The '72 law additionally provides for the maximum taxable earnings under SS to rise as average wages rose (also moderately) from year to year.

But if you assume an indefinite continuation of a murderously steep rate of inflation, a strange situation results from the operation of these two provisions: benefits run way ahead of wages and of the system's taxes from wages. This situation would account for about half of the estimated long-range actuarial deficit of the system.

The other half of the projected deficit of "trillions of dollars" is based on that assumption about birth and fertility. If rates did continue dropping, there would, in the year 2010, be close to 30 Americans 65 and over for every 100 of working age. Today, the proportion is 18.3 people 65 and over for every 100 of working age.

Predicting birth and fertility rates is risky — but even if these assumptions turned out to be accurate, there are offsetting factors. For instance, if the public cost of supporting the elderly went up, the cost of supporting and educating the young would be reduced. If fewer women were busy rearing children, more would be in the labor market and paying SS taxes. If fewer young people were entering the labor market, more elderly people could find jobs.

The recent Advisory Council on Social Security, a panel of prominent Americans from outside government, has proposed that Social Security benefit amounts be based on a system of wage indexing — under which your earnings would be adjusted to reflect the increases in your overall average earnings over your working lifetime.

You would get a benefit related to your average earnings level at the time you retired. After you retired, your benefits would be kept up to date with the cost of living.

The quirks in the law can be ironed out, the unanticipated flukes can be corrected. And there are signals that Congress is ready to correct the flaw in the computation formula so that benefits payable in the 21st century — and the cost of paying those benefits — will be realistic.

There also are reports that Congress really would prefer to wait until after the election to hit us, workers who pay Social Security taxes, with the facts about what additional taxes we must pay to meet the system's short-range financing problem.

Such timidity would be self-defeating. Confidence in this system — the most effective and workable of all our social programs — must be fully restored before campaign oratory does its usual befuddlement job on the public.

Tomorrow: The '76 campaign and Social Security.

New Post For Eau Claire Man

An Eau Claire fruit grower, Wesley Prillwitz, has been elected to the executive committee of the Farmers Petroleum Cooperative, an affiliate of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

A member of the board of directors of the co-op, Prillwitz was named to the three-member executive committee at the board's reorganizational meeting last week in Lansing.

He joins President Elton R. Smith of Caledonia and Vice President Dean Pridgeon of Montgomery on the executive committee.

Inspector Named In Galien Township

GALIEN — Edward Ashcraft, 41, route 1, Galien, was named Galien township building inspector by the township board last night.

Ashcraft, a salesman for Tyler-Linville Chevrolet, Niles, will replace Ralph Smith, Smith, also a township trustee, submitted his resignation as building inspector at the board's November meeting, but the resignation was not accepted until January.

Smith complained that he was caught between building regulations and builders pressuring him for a permit. At its January meeting, the board pledged complete support of a

Drain Pretrial Hearing Delayed

By STEVE McQUOWN
Staff Writer

CASSOPOLIS — A pretrial hearing on Van Buren county's controversial Gates drain project has been adjourned until Feb. 26, according to a secretary for Judge James Hoff of the Cass circuit court who is to hear the case.

The judge's secretary said the hearing was adjourned at the request of attorneys for both the plaintiffs and the defendants.

The trial date will be set during the pretrial hearing.

In June, 1975, Paw Paw township, the Paw Paw Conservation club and Paw Paw physician Dr. Charles Tenhouten filed a suit seeking to stop the proposed dredging of the drain in the Paw Paw area.

A temporary restraining order halting dredging was issued in Van Buren circuit court on June 4.

The plaintiffs have alleged that dredging drain, actually a 2.5-mile stretch of the Paw Paw river, would destroy wildlife and natural habitat within the river and cause sediment and other debris to be emptied into Maple lake in Paw Paw.

Among other allegations is one that the dredging cost — believed to be near $70,000 — would unreasonably assess the near 1,000 property owners within the drainage district.

Defendants in the suit are Elmyra Hearn, the Van Buren county drain commissioner, and Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, the project contractors.

Former Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson Jr. previously withdrew from the case because he owns property on Maple lake.

Judge Anderson retired from the bench as of Jan. 1.

ADMISSIONS

WATERLIET — Patients admitted to Waterliet Community hospital during the past 24 hours include:

Waterliet — Brandy Leach, route 2, Box 242; Mrs. Frank Wrenn, route 1, Box 1029.

Coloma — Mrs. Joseph Gagliardo, 6856 2nd.

Covert — Betty Palmer, 7314 West Lake.

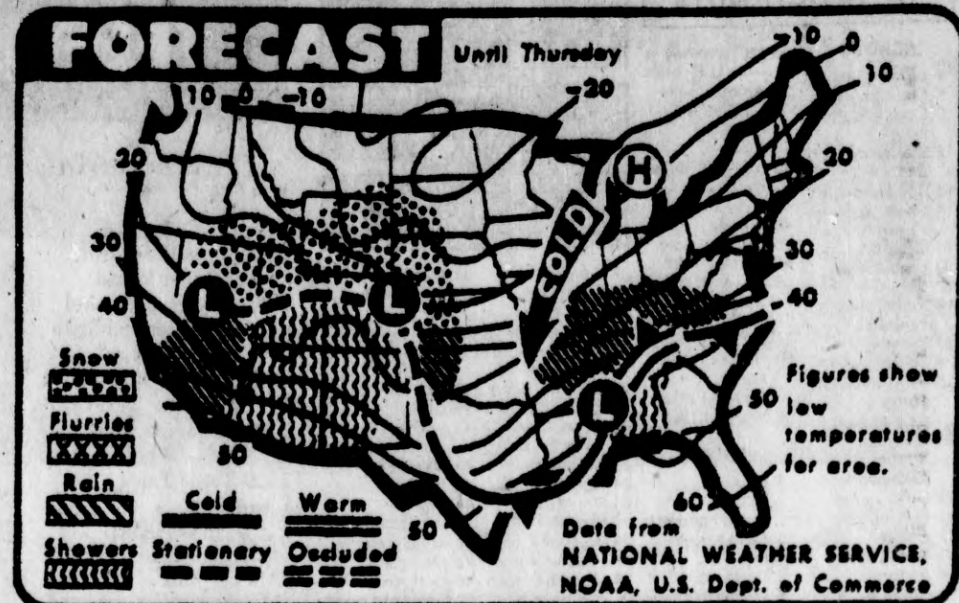

Pickup Found Ablaze

PAW PAW — Paw Paw firemen were summoned about midnight last night to extinguish a burning pickup truck found parked on a road about two miles south of here, according to state police at Paw Paw.

Troopers said the blaze destroyed the 1975 model four-wheel drive pickup truck on 64th avenue just east of CR-665. There was gasoline inside the cab, troopers said.

The truck, which was found with both rear tires removed, belonged to Robert Brown, 28, of Schoolcraft, troopers said.

Officers said an auto was found abandoned and stuck in the snow nearby with the two rear tires in it. An investigation was continuing this morning, the officers said.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Snow, rain or showers are forecast Wednesday for most of the western half of the nation. Partly cloudy weather is expected for northern California and the Northwest. Showers are forecast for the eastern Gulf and rain is expected for the upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys and lower Midwest. Much colder temperatures are forecast from the Midwest to the Plains. FIRST QUARTER SLOW National-Standard Chief Sees Upswing

NILES — Despite first quarter sales that were down from last year's, National-Standard company officials have predicted improvement for the remainder of the year.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, company net sales were $52,025,000, down about 16 per cent from the $62,244,000 for the comparable period a year ago, according to Board Chairman T.H. Pearce.

Pearce said that at the same time, earnings were $1,966,000 or 47 cents per share, compared to last year's first quarter earnings of $3,120,000 or 72 cents per share.

The board chairman said that although first quarter profits were low in relation to last year's, profits were higher than those of the previous quarter and should continue to move up during the year.

He said that with a theoretical sales capacity of $370 to $390 million, and with the general economy now firmly on the upswing, we are optimistic about 1976 even though we do not know precisely how our various customer markets will perform.

Thefts Probed By Area Police

A rifle and two pistols, valued at $400, Tuesday were reported stolen from the home of John Robert Nemetz, 2893 Red Arrow highway, Benton Township, state police of the Benton Harbor post said. Troopers said the rifle was an 1886 Winchester and the pistols were .32 and .22 caliber.

Two El Sobrante, Calif. men reported thefts from their home at the Ramada Inn, Ferguson drive, to Benton township police Tuesday. Rodney Faugett told police $100 in cash was taken from his room and Matthew Darpaaza said two pairs of pants and a pair of shoes, valued at $45, was stolen from his room.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A watch and necklace, valued at $78, from the residence of Stanley Seawood, 108 West Empire avenue.

A Benton Harbor man told city police he was hit on the head with a bottle of vegetable oil during an argument with another man at a Benton Harbor store Tuesday.

Mickey Clark, 19, of 1250 Superior street, declined treatment for the injury, police said. Clark reported the incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. at Block's store, 282 Empire avenue. He said the other man left in a pickup truck.

Woman Injured In Crash

A St. Joseph township woman received apparently minor injuries Tuesday as the result of a two-car collision on Lake boulevard north of Lake court St. Joseph city police reported.

Karen Wheeler, 27, of 1854 Cranbrook road, sought her own treatment after the 11:50 a.m. accident. She was ticketed, police said, for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance. Driver of the other car was identified as Mitchell Greer, 30, of 733 Territorial road, Benton Harbor. He was unhurt, police indicated.

Blackbird Kill Temporary

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quick congressional response to an epidemic of blackbirds in Kentucky and Tennessee may at best have only temporary effects, the Fish and Wildlife Service says.

Each house, just week unanimously passed emergency legislation, now awaiting President Ford's signature, allowing a deterrent, Tergitol, to be sprayed on the birds' winter roosts in an attempt to lower the number of blackbirds in the two states, now estimated at 77 million.

Thefts Probed By Area Police

A rifle and two pistols, valued at $400, Tuesday were reported stolen from the home of John Robert Nemetz, 2993 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, state police of the Benton Harbor post said. Troopers said the rifle was an 1886 Winchester and the pistols were .32 and .22 caliber.

Two El Sobrante, Calif. men reported thefts from their rooms at the Ramada Inn, Ferguson drive, to Benton township police Tuesday. Rodney Faugot told police $100 in cash was taken from his room and Matthew Barpaaza said two pairs of pants and a pair of shoes, valued at $45, was stolen from his room.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—A watch and necklace, valued at $78, from the residence of Stanley Seawood, 108 West Empire avenue.

A Benton Harbor man told city police he was hit on the head with a bottle of vegetable oil during an argument with another man at a Benton Harbor store Tuesday.

Mickey Clark, 19, of 1250 Superior street, declined treatment for the injury, police said. Clark reported the incident occurred about 2:20 p.m. at Bizer's store, 282 Empire avenue. He said the other man left in a pickup truck.

Woman Injured In Crash

A St. Joseph township woman received apparently minor injuries Tuesday as the result of a two-car collision on Lake boulevard north of Lake court St. Joseph city police reported.

Karen Wheeler, 27, of 1856 Cranbrook road, sought her own treatment after the 11:50 a.m. accident. She was ticketed, police said, for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance. Driver of the other car was identified as Mitchell Greer, 30, of 755 Territorial road, Benton Harbor. He was unhurt, police indicated.

Blackbird Kill 'Temporary'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quick congressional response to an epidemic of blackbirds in Kentucky and Tennessee may at best have only temporary effects, the Fish and Wildlife Service says.

Each house last week unanimously passed emergency legislation, now awaiting President Ford's signature, allowing a detergent, Tergitol, to be sprayed on the birds' winter roosts in an attempt to lower the number of blackbirds in the two states, now estimated at 77 million.

BY OWNER — 2 bedrm. home, Fairplain N.W. area. Concrete, large yard, partial basement. $18,500. 925-6071

DILLINGHAM
REAL ESTATE, INC.

NEAR STEVENSVILLE

Charming Colonial 2 story home only seven years old in subdivision with many homes of comparable quality off Cleveland Avenue in Lincoln Twp. There are four bedrooms and two baths up, one off the master bedroom, and a half bath down. On the first floor are living room, dining room, family room with fireplace. And family sized kitchen with built in appliances, and central air conditioning. The full basement offers a finished recreation room and there is a 2 car garage. Priced in the upper 60's.

ENJOY THE VIEW

Through the picture window from the dining table in the extra large kitchen. This overlooks a nicely landscaped back yard bordered by a running creek. The home has 2 bedrooms, large kitchen, living room, and bath all on the main floor plus a full basement and 2 car garage. The garage is wired for 220 volts so the handy man can operate machines and have heaters there. Located in Lincoln Township, St. Joseph schools and is priced at $25,900.

Prostitution Is Tough, But They Like Their Work

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Some prostitutes are coming out of the shadows of the city's Combat Zone to tell people what it's like on the streets, in the massage parlors and the plush hotels where they sell their bodies.

"We want society to give us a chance," said 30-year-old June. "And to look at us the way we are. We eat and sleep and love just like everyone else."

June is an organizer of PUMA (Prostitutes Union of Massachusetts). Patterned after similar groups in San Francisco, PUMA's primary goal is the decriminalization of prostitution. The prostitutes say they'll have to change public attitudes to reach their goal.

"What we need and hope to get is acceptance," she said. "It's cold out there in the Zone. Even in the summer, it's cold out there. Some people just can't understand that."

Getting that acceptance may be somewhat easier now that Boston has decided to make the Combat Zone, a small area near the city's theater district, an "adult entertainment" zone. The idea is to contain massage parlors, strip joints and street prostitutes in one place.

But some say the zone also has had a mild legitimizing effect on the various "adult entertainments" it's designed to contain.

June started out as what she calls a "street lady" when she was 16 years old. She has spent seven years in prison doing time for prostitution and related offenses.

But six months ago she dropped out of the business to become "just a housewife" to her steady boyfriend. Now the plump, demurely pretty June lectures and frequently walks the streets of the Combat Zone talking about PUMA to street hookers.

"Today's practitioners of the world's oldest profession use the world's oldest argument to explain and justify prostitution. 'As long as there are men and hurt and pain and loneliness, we'll be here,'" June said.

Melissa, 26, has been in the business since she was 14. She agrees with June that there is a need for prostitution.

She started out on the street, but moved quickly up the ladder to hotels and later to massage parlors. Now she screens most of her clients by phone, meets them at some of the city's most swank hotels and does some live shows "for the fun of it."

"I don't think of myself as oversexed," she said. "I'm just very sensual."

The beautiful Irish girl with the bright blue eyes says that despite the hassles from police, the time spent in court and the violence of the street life, she likes her work.

"People who say prostitutes don't enjoy sex don't know what they're talking about," she added. "Sure the girls out on the street may deny it. They have to look tough just to survive out there. But they're women, and they love just like everyone else."

And the money is good. A street prostitute can make $75 to $100 a night at $20 to $25 a trick (client). Hotel hookers average $35 a trick and up. Call girls can make three times that, according to the women interviewed.

That prostitutes are exploited, helpless women seduced into the trade by pimps is another myth, say members of PUMA.

"It's a myth designed by men to keep the virgins separate from the prostitutes," said Mona, a prostitute who looks like she should be a college freshman. "It's a myth so straight women don't get involved."

No one denies that it can be a tough, even a dangerous, life which they'd like to leave one day.

Melissa, who has studied physical therapy at Boston University, is writing a book about the massage parlor business and working on setting up a legitimate business. Yvonne, 19, says she'd like to stay in it about four more years, long enough to earn some money and find some replacements for her pimp's stable of women.

On the street nearly two years, Yvonne, a striking black woman, now works some of the better hotels. She says she's given up cocaine, an expensive drug, and is trying to save her money now instead.

She's had one trick pull a knife on her in a hotel room. "I'm not afraid of guns. I grew up with them, but knives, they scare me," she said. "I mean, you could get your face all cut up that way."

"I believe if you act like a lady, they'll treat you like a lady," June said. "But lately some of the pimps can be pretty heavy on the girls, forcing them to rob their tricks."

They say working what they call "The Zone" is tough, and the members of PUMA hope to make life, especially for the street hooker, just a little easier.

The union would like to provide medical care, particularly for younger members of the profession. They would like to establish day care for the children of prostitutes during court appearances and maybe during working hours, perhaps provided by ex-hookers. They'd like a legal referral service.

But organizing the union is slow work. About 200 hookers have been approached by union organizers, but no formal membership list is kept. Police say there are about 600 prostitutes arrested a year, but they cannot give a firm figure on the number of hookers in the city.

June said some of the prostitutes she has talked to about organizing have expressed fears that their pimps would get "up-tight."

"I don't think the pimps like the idea too much," June said. "But if you get 50 or 100 women together, no one is going to jump on us."

Steve Lewis, who serves as "front man" for PUMA, denied that the movement would run into much opposition from pimps.

"Everyone needs someone to love and care for them," he said. "A woman who joined a union wouldn't usually find her husband upset at that, so why would her pimp be upset?"

Lewis, 28, a Northeastern University graduate in business administration, said he tried to get the union off the ground after talking with some prostitutes who are friends of his. He said he hoped the women in the group will assume leadership roles eventually.
